Dr. Ernest Benderson, Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Doctor—1 want to add my testimental letter to your arready large list, hoping to influence some sufferer to go to you.

I had a had case of rupture for years, and suffered great agong. I went to Dr. Henderson and was cured in three weeks. I cannot say too much for him. I know he can do just what he says he can do. The doctor does not ask one can do. The doctor does not ask one cant of pay until the patient is well. This is the best guarantee he can possibly give to any person afficied as I was I will answer anyone the wishes to know more about my case.

Very truly yours.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

The large loose waves so essential to the low, fluffy, half-parted pompadour style of hair dressing can be made by wetting the hair and twing broad bands of tape around it.

One of the most stylish gioves for wear with light govns is old-fashioned looking of soft thin kid, with no stitching on the back and only one pearl button.

Children's shoes, like those of their elders, have the broad, comfortable toe and the heavy sole, the little girls' shoes being made on the same lines as those of their brothers.

Some of the cold weather street boero and Eton jackets of black, roys blue, Russian green and Grenat valvet or velours de Nord will be finished with long pointed revers and Robespierre hood of otter, seal, mink or other costly fur.

Natty French jackets of covert cloth are made with loose fronts without dari seams, double-breasted and finished with three graduated circular shoulder capes, the roll of the lining showing like a silk or satin piping at the extreme edge of each cape.

Real laces are being used to a remarkable extent, Cluny Arabian, point d'Alencon, Irish point, point de Flanders and renaissance taking the lead. Batiste laces are also much work as trimming for cloth or silk, designs copied from rare old laces being embroidered on ecru batiste.

Ostrich feathers are already showing themselves in the millinery establishments in all colors, and they can be found to blend with the soft shades of the ruffled organdie bed sets in delicate the handsome new cloths. The skirts of some of the smart autumn dresses of light wool are shirred several inches below the belt, after being slightly gored on the front and side breadths. The back breadths are boxplaited, and the lower part of the skirt is laid in horizontal tucks of graduated width, beginning with one about two and a half inches wide at the extreme edge of the skirt. Sometimes the tucks are stitched in with silk of a color contrasting with that which forms the skirt, and very often there is a taffeta or surah waist the exact shade of the wool fabric, pindotted in silk. the color of the machine stitching. Experience That Came Very New Being Embarraselig.

Two Indianapolis ladies had an exciting experience last fall, and one which has taught them to look before they leap. They were in New York on a shopping expedition, having several hours to wait between trains, and they had gone about until they each had a large stock of bundles. Both were hungry, and decided it was time to find a good cafe and eat. Now, nettheir of these women was at all brilliant. They were simply good, honest little women who read the woman's department and the recipes in the paper, and who skip all the editorials and other exciting things.

"I have heard my husband speak of a place here called Delmonico's," said one. "I believe that must be a good restaurant, for I frequently read about soups and other things prepared by Delmonico's cooks."

Her friend had heard of it, too. and so they hunted up that famous cafe. They entered unsuspectingly, and the head waiter showed them to a table. while another waiter took their bundles. They were so hungry that they smiled with delight over the good things on the bill of fare and never thought of looking at the prices. They ordered a good dinner lavishly. It included soup, fish, a roast, a saled and several entrees, to say nothing of dessert. The waiter bowed to the ground and disappeared. Then one of them took the card in her hand once

"What's this?" she said. "Here are the prices."

They began to add up what they had ordered. It was $27 worth. They gasped and took out their purses. They and hardly 27 cents between them. "What are you going to do?" asked

The other looked at her bundles. "I am going to cut and run, as the boys say," she said. "We can never pay for it and they may arrest us."

With that she got up, sneaked her bundles out of the rack and went very swiftly and silently past the head walter, who fortunately did not notice her. The other woman turned all colors. What should she do? No one was looking. The awful head walter had his back turned. She reached for her bundles and sneaked out also. Outside she was so afraid they would come after her and call her back that she actually ran as fast as she dared up Fifth avenue. Ahead of her she saw a second woman also on a run. It was her friend and they never stopped until they were

This will certify that I have taken Dr. Ernest Benderson's treatment for rapture and that I find it entirely successful. I have examined a number of patients that he has treated and I find that a permanent cure has been made in every case examined. I have been in this treatment for some time, as I have been in this ince of business myself, having been an expert truss rater for a number of years. I believe this is the most rational treatment of the day, and that he will be successful in every case. I would most hearilly recommend anyone with a rupture to consult Dr. Henderson.
