There are some merchants, says the Shenandoah World, who advertise because they have heard it is policy. Some because they have been told it is profitable. Some because they want to help support the paper. All these reasons are good but there is a better one. You should advertise because you know it makes you money. There is only one way to do that—a regular systematic plan of campaign that reaches your customer's often. Always with some new thought. That keeps you and your business before the people.

The Meaning of Church Bells.

How many of us, familiar though we be with the sweet strains of the church bell, understand or better yet how few of us have ever given the matter any consideration whatever, yet our 20th century church bells were prefigured when at the express command of Jehovah, Moses ordered two silver trumpets should be blown, to announce the great festivals, and to assemble the people for divine worship. Church bells were symbolized when Joshua was commanded by the Lord of hosts to take seven priests with seven jubilee trumpets, to sound the seven consecrated trumpets seven times around the city of Jericho, to destroy its mighty walls.

Church bells were typified when David inspired from above made musical instruments of various kinds, published Psalms, and appointed them to be sung he playing upon the harp.

Owing to the bloody persecutions, during the first 800 years of the Christian era special messengers made known by signs the place of meeting. After the conversion of the Emperor Constantine, the faithful were summoned to divine worship by symbols or tables of brass or iron, struck like a gong.

The introduction of bells in the church dates back to the 5th century, and is ascribed to St. Paulinus, an Italian Bishop the joyous chimes in cities proclaim to all, the birth of the Saviour and his triumph over death, on the occasion of the death of a loved one the beautiful custom though in our day practiced in rural districts only, in a little country town in Michigan, we first heard the bell from the Methodist church announce the departure of a soul for paradise.

The church bells is God's sonorous voice reminding all of his word, his works and his presence. The sound of the bell should be dear to us, from the fact that its merry strains are heard caroling our joys, while its sad strains are mingled with our tears by the plaintive pathos of our ever faithful friend the bell.

Those who may they will forgive, but can't forget an injury simply bury the hatchet while they leave the handle out, ready for immediate use.—Moody.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK REPUBLIC.

Every Monday and Thursday a newspaper as good as a magazine—and better, for it contains the latest by telegraph as well as interesting stories—is sent to the subscribers of the "Twice a Week" Republic, which is only $1 a year.

The man who reads the "Twice-a-week" Republic knows all about affairs political domestic and foreign events; is posted about the markets and commercial matters generally.

The woman who reads the "Twice-a-week" Republic gathers a bit of valuable information about household affairs and late fashions and finds recreation in the bright stories that come under both the headings of fact and fiction. There is gossip about new books and a dozen other topics of especial interest to the wiseawake man and woman.

If you wish success in life, make, perseverance your bosom friend, experience your wise counselor, caution your elder brother, and hope your guardian genius.—Addison.

Great learning consists in an aggregate of an infinite number of little facts which have been separately mastered. That great philosopher, John Locke, said, "The chief art of learning is to attempt but little at a time. The widest excursions of the mind are made by short flights, frequently repeated."

For the special benefit of our younger readers, and it may not be out of place for those of more mature years, to peruse the following:

One of the commonest mistakes, and one of the costliest, is thinking that success is due to some genius, some magic—something or other which we do not possess. Success is generally due to holding on, and failure to letting go.

You decide to learn a language, study music, take a course of reading, train yourself physically, work with the bible will it be a success, or failure? It depends upon how much pluck or grit and perseverance that word "decide" contains. The decision that nothing can overrule, the grip that nothing can detach, will bring success. Young people, should remember the old Chinese proverb, "With time and patience the mulberry leaf becomes satia."

On last Saturday night at Limon, Colorado near the scene of the heinous crime, which he had committed just a week before, Preston Porter, a negro was burned to death at the stake. Thus in order to avenge a wrong, another crime, equally as dastardly and unjustifiable, was committed. Did one wrong right the other?

Adversity is the grindstone on which we lose enough to put an edge of usefulness on our lives.

The wife of Guiteau the murderer of President Garfield, is about to try her third nuptial venture. She is a resident of the windy city.

Last week two noted millionaires, the one Marcos Daily, the Montana Copper king and the other Henry Villard, the great financial agent of the Northern Pacific R. R. company, passed to the great beyond. With wealth and influence at their command, they were unable to stay the hand of the grim reaper death, which is no respecter of persons, but reaps down all, irrespective of station.

Joy For Two Hearts.
Dean Swift was walking on the Phoenix road, Dublin when a thunder storm suddenly came on. He took shelter under a tree where a party were sheltering also two young women and two young men. One of the girls looked very sad, until as the rain fell, her tears began to flow. The dean inquired the cause and learned that it was her wedding day. The young couple were on their way to church, and now her white gown wet and she could not go. "Never mind—I'll marry you," said the dean. And then and there he married them; their witnesses being present. To make the thing complete, he tore a leaf from his pocketbook and with his pencil wrote and signed a certificate, which he handed to the bride.

The certificate was worded as follows: "Under a tree, in stormy weather, I married this man and woman together; Let none nose but Him who rules the thunder sever this man and woman asunder. Jonathan Swift, Dean of St. Patrick's."

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Booneville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly every night." The Ir. R. Hicks 1901 Almanac.
Whatever may be said of the scientific causes upon which the Rev. Ir. R. Hicks bases his yearly forecasts of storm and weather, it is a remarkable fact that specific warnings of every great storm, flood, cold wave and drought, have been plainly printed in his now famous Almanac for many years. The latest startling proof of this fact was the destruction of Galveston, Texas, on the very day named by Prof. Hicks in his 1900 almanac, as one of disaster by storm along the gulf coast. The 1901 Almanac, by far the finest, most complete and beautiful yet published, is now ready. This remarkable book of nearly two hundred pages, splendidly illustrated with charts and half tone engravings, goes as a premium to every subscriber who pays one dollar a year for Prof. Hicks' journal, WORD AND WORKS. The Almanac alone is sent prepaid for only 25c. Order from WORD AND WORKS Publishing Company 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo.

You Can't Cheat God.

Ned took his cousin Grace along to keep him company while he worked at a job he had to perform. "I don't think you're doing your work very well," she said. "It looks to me as if you were slacking it. That's all right," laughed Ned. "What I'm doing will be all covered up by you know!" "But isn't like most cheating you know?" "That's not the way to look at it," said Grace. "If it's cheating, it's cheating; you know that. You can't excuse it because it isn't the worst kind of cheating." "But the man won't know about it," said Ned. "He may not," said Grace soberly, "but God will." "You can't cheat God." Ned stopped work and went to thinking. Presently he said: "You're right. I'm glad you said that Grace. I'm going to begin over. There shall be no cheating this time." Ned undid what he had done and began again—began right—and I know he felt better. I hope he will always remember that no one can cheat God.
