The Black Odity Co., a traveling colored minstrel troop, which gave their entertaining comic opera at Andrews Hall to a crowded house Friday evening, was the best that ever came this way; the company is no fake and should receive a liberal patronage where ever they go. We have the first one to hear say the show was not more than what they advertised.

—Another notable land sale and all the appertinences thereto was made yesterday, whereby Charles Schilt bargained, sold and bequeathed to Sam Keori, his heirs and assigns forever, all his right, title and claims to the Warbonnet stock ranch, which he will vacate soon, and will his himself and family away to California, where he expects to locate before many more moons.

—Quite an extensive real estate transaction took place in town Tuesday, between E. F. Livermore, five miles south of here and Jacob Henry, near Montross this county, whereby the latter became the owner of the former's stock ranch, containing in the neighborhood of two sections of land. We are unable to give the consideration, but it is sufficient to say, that Mr. Henry has been fortunate in obtaining so valuable a tract of land. Mr. Henry informed us that his sons would occupy his new possessions, while he and his wife would remain on the home place in the valley.

—We understand that Miss Minnie Warneta, has been offered the White River school, recently abandoned by Miss Luke, owing to her inability to govern it in a successful manner. Miss Warneta is just starting in her career as teacher, and in the two schools where she has taught, patrons and pupils alike, speak of her in the most glowing terms. Sioux county, should do all in her power to encourage her own young teachers and be ever ready to give them the preference, when this can be done.

—George Gerlach, who has been engaged in the merchandizing business with his father in our town for a number of years has concluded to take a three months vacation, and will accompany the boys, who are driving Mr. Colville's horses to North Dakota. George expects to be gone until about August 1st, and will return home via Chicago, but, before returning, he expects to look over the country pretty thoroughly between the little Missouri and the Yellow Stone rivers with a view of locating a stock ranch if he can find a suitable location, George says he is tired of being cooped up in the store so long and believes there is other business enterprises which he can do and make more money besides make it much easier and be independent in the bargain.

—Kouri Brothers' stock brand will make its debut in this issue of the Press-Journal. Stockmen should read it and emulate their example.
—In another local we spoke of T. O. Williams and his son, George being shot at four times while drilling a well four or five miles south of Andrews, last Friday evening, but on Sunday Mr. Williams and his son came home to spend the day and while here some cowardly curs went to the place where they had been drilling and filled up the well, then took a sledge hammer or something heavy enough to do the work and broke and mutilated his drilling machine in such a way as to almost, if not quite, ruin it for any further use. It is coming to a pretty past if a person cannot avail himself of a homestead, and then go ahead to improve it, without being either fired upon from a bush after night fall or during his absence, for some murderous, cowardly cur to go and deliberately destroy one's property. Of course, we do not know who the guilty party or parties are, but we are convinced in our own mind, that any body who is mean enough to do such a dastardly trick would murder a fellowman in cold blood if it could be done without fear of detection and punishment.

He Has the Right Idea.
H. C. Hunter called Tuesday and informed us that he would like to have it understood that while people generally are welcome to the accommodations offered at the Hunter ranch, peddlers of merchandise need not call. The last one making his appearance there appeared much dissatisfied because Mr. Hunter, refused to use the best horse on the ranch to pull the peddler's team out of a mud hole into which he had carelessly driven it, and through which operation the peddler suffered the loss of a horse. Mr. Hunter is decidedly opposed to the peddling of merchandise and also to the sending of orders for merchandise to the large cities by the farmers and ranchmen, especially by those who furnish the home merchants with their produce and run accounts with them when they are short on cash. We believe in patronizing the local merchant and thereby sustain the town and causing the same to thrive, which directly and indirectly benefits the ranch and farm. Ask him to give you his views on the subject and he will entertain you for an hour.—Crawford Bulletin.

Mr. Hunter's idea is right and proper, but in a literary sense he has gone and done the same deed against his own county papers, that he complains the residents of his own county are guilty of committing against our home merchants. See, Henry?
