OFFICIAL PAPER OF SIOUX COUNTY.

1 Dollar Per Year.

WHY?

Our local contemporary takes occasion to exploit the fact, last week, that he had not picked out anyone on the opposition ticket for defeat, and had refrained from heaping personal abuse on the opposition candidates. This is easily explained by the fact that the Fusion candidates would have profited more than anyone by such abuse, because nothing could be said of them truthfully which would not be to their credit. As a matter of fact articles which were copied from the Omaha Bee were the only evidence that could be noticed from a careful perusal of the Sun's pages, which would indicate that a campaign was in progress. Possibly he was afraid to bring his candidates out of the woods and let people look at them, or perhaps they were a little particular who brought them out.

TAKING BATHS IN FINLAND.

Heroic Methods by Which the Men Cleanse Their Bodies.
A primitive sort of Turkish bath is indulged in by some of the Finlanders of northern Norway. In winter in this part of the country, the thermometer averages 40 degrees below zero and water bathing is not practicable. These Finlanders, unlike the Lapps farther north, have an instinct for bodily cleanliness, and manage to preserve it after the following fashion: Paul Du Chaille, who knows from personal experience, declares the method fine. Each hamlet has a bathhouse for common use. It is perhaps 15 feet long by 12 wide. It boasts no windows and only when the door is opened can air or light enter. Bathing day comes once a week—Saturday. Early in the morning of that day wood is brought and a fire started. When the stones become hot the fire is put out, the place cleaned, a large vessel of water and some slender birch twigs brought in and the preparations declared complete. As no dressing room is provided, toilets are unmade and made in the various homes. It is scarcely necessary to add that no time is lost in the progress from the home to the bathhouse. No clothes and a temperature of 40 degrees below zero are incentive to haste. When all the men and boys are in the bathhouse and the door closed water is thrown upon the hot stones until the place is filled with steam. Perspiration pours from the sweltering bodies, yet more active exercise is demanded and switches come into play. Each bather lays on his neighbor with a will until "Enough" is cried. Again water is thrown upon the stones, more steam raised and another switching indulged in. As may be imagined, the bodies are now as red as boiled lobsters and the blood circulating actively. A roll in the snow completes the novel bath.—Philadelphia Times.

PREMONITION OF DEATH.

Strange Case of a Sailor, Vouched For by Admiral Evans.
In his autobiography, "A Sailor's Log," Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans relates a strange instance of premonition which a fellow sailor had the night before the attack on Port Fisher, in January, 1866. He says: "We had on board the Powhatan a fine young seaman named Flannigan, who came from Philadelphia. On the night of the 14th of January he came to my room with a small box in his hand, and said to me: 'Mr. Evans, will you be kind enough to take charge of this box for me—it has some little trinkets in it—and give it to my sister in Philadelphia.' I asked him why he did not deliver it himself, to which he replied: 'I am going ashore with you tomorrow, and will be killed.' I told him how many bullets it required to kill a man in action, and in other ways tried to shake his convictions, but it was no use—he stuck to it. He showed no nervousness over it, but seemed to regard it as a matter of course. I took the box, and, after making a proper memorandum, put it away among my things. On the afternoon of the next day, when we were charging the fort, and just as we came under fire, at about 800 yards, I saw Flannigan reel out to one side and drop the first man hit, with a bullet through his heart. I stopped quickly to his side and asked if he were badly hurt. The only reply was a smile as he looked up into my face and rolled over dead. The box was delivered as he requested, and I afterward assisted in getting a pension for his sister."

A Counting Girl's Description.

A wise girl in Garnett, Kas., has an apron around her waist whenever she sees her "steady" coming, and when she lets him in she brushes and scowls herself on the plan that she has been "helping mamma."—Kansas City Star.

A Forester's Waap.
One kind of waap found in Brazil and Guiana is that of a brilliant white pinstriped suspending it from the highest branches of the trees, so as to escape the attention of the monkeys, which, in those regions, have a troublesome habit of investigating everything, even a horse's seat.

Sheriff's Mortgage Foreclosure Sale
By virtue of a judgment and decree of foreclosure given in the district court of Sioux county, Nebraska, in favor of J. Lawrence Brown, Assignee of the Western Farm Mortgage Company, as plaintiff, and against Andrew Proenauer, Mary Proenauer and Zoe McClinton, as defendants. I will on the 9th day of December A. D. 1901, at ten o'clock in the forenoon at the east front door of the court house in Harrison, in said county, sell the following described real estate:
The east half of section thirty-two (32) in township thirty-three (33) north of range fifty-three (53) west, in Sioux county, Nebraska, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to satisfy said decree.
Alex Lowry, Sheriff.
