The Harrison Press Journal.

C. C. BURKE, Proprietor.

MARRISON, - - NEBRASKA

NEBRASKA NEWS NOTES

R. S. Albright, M. D., has been appointed pension examining surgeon at Beatrice.

B. D. Sherlody of Carlisle, Neb., has been given an appointment as railway mail cierk.

A rural free delivery route has been ordered established out of Clarks, to begin August 1.

R. H. Davis of Lincoln has been appointed teacher at the Crow Creek, S. D., Indian school.

The preliminary hearing of Al Baird. at Lincoln, charged with complicity in the murder of J. J. Gillespie, has been set for trial before Justice Green on June 15.

Governor Savage and staff will be present at Seattle on July 4, when the keel of the battleship Nebraska will be (Copyright, 1901, by Authors' Syndicate.) laid. The governor will leave Lincoln on June 30.

W. G. Lay has resigned his position of manager of the Western Union at Lincoln to accept the chief clerkship at Omaha. Mr. Lay had occupied the position for five years.

Mrs. Fannie Honn of Humboldt, aged 74 years, was attacked with a fit of coughing which caused the rupture of pulmonary blood vessel. She died before a doctor could reach her.

The city council of Beatrice, which has been in session as a board of equalization, had adjourned. Personal tax and assessment on real estate reduced knew $125

The fusionists of the last legislature have arranged for a banquet to be held to look away, lest the pretty girl should will not occur again, and we trust the in the parlors of the Koehler hotel at Grand Island on the evening of the 23d. just previous to the fusion state conventions.

A telephone line is coming into Gibbon from the southeast. It is a farmers' mutual line and starts from Shelton. The matter of a line to connect Lowell and Butler with Gibbon is beconstructed.

At a meeting of the citizens of Kearney, called by Mayor Roe, it was de- book cided to vigorously celebrate the Fourth of July at that place. Several hundred dollars have already been raised for the purpose by subscription and the committee on arrangements promises a glorious time.

Chairman H. C. Lindsay of the republican state committee has opened neadquarters at Lincoln and is preparing for an active campaign from now until the close of the campaign. Ir. Lindsay announced that as soon as er French. It just suits her." he ticket is nominated the work will commence all along the line.

Mrs. Minnie Stromer and her sister, Miss Annie Anderson, narrowly escaped drowning in Thirty-two Mile creek while driving from Holstein to Leroy. The horze fell into a deep ditch and was drowned and the women wer-

ELSE I'M A LIAR.

Else I'm a liar, Things is all wrong, With people who worry Along in the throng, Skuffle and hurry Per things what we eat, Held up by combines, On all kinds ify meat, Else I'm a liar.

Jest hold yer breath. Walt fer the turn Things'll be takin. When men who earn Their livin', are shakin' Sweat from their brow Tryin' ter think how It's done.

Jest hold yer breath Else I'm a liar.

There'll come a day When things'll break luse, With the devil ter pay. Fer the men who use Their money, ter corher The things what we need. Their own greed, ter feed. Else I'm a liar.

-EDGAR BAKER.

The Green Pocketbook

BY MRS. MOSES P. HANDY. S SHE entered the car almost everyone smiled; she looked so young and pretty and happy. Giles Hammersmith rose and offered her his seat. She took it with a turned so that he could see her. As she anything goes wrong with the paper for searched her pocketbook for a nickel which he is responsible, is as fertile in he noticed what tiny hands she had, evenues as a Chinaman. and then his eyes fell on the purse. It was made of dark green leather, with silver corners, and was dainty enough fur-trimmed toque to the tips of her columns. The following editorial note well-fitting boots.

was a beauty and a belle.

Common politeness compelled Giles become conscious of his gaze, yet he quality of the contents will make up eyed her furtively from time to time. At Forty-second street she motioned to the conductor to stop the car, and, gaththought that he might discover where notice:

the girl lived without going much out of his way. Quite a number of women left the car but on the ground lay her green pocket-pretty triffe in his pocket. It was useless to try to follow its owner in the dusk and fog.

Arrived at his own home. Giles examined the pocketbook and its con-tents. It held but little money, a two-in these or similar words: dollar bill and a few pennies, but there was a tiny handkerchief and some call-ing cards. The handkerchief was un-votion to the interests of our readers. marked; the cards read: "Miss Lucie Manners, 408 Osage street."

" 'Lucie,' that's a pretty name. Rath-Investigation proved that 408 Osage street was not in Chicago. So Giles ad-vertised the pocketbook. Days passed, and the advertisement was unanswered. "Giles." said Dorothy one day. "Grace Judson wants us to dine with her next week to meet a Miss Florence Tyson. Do go, that's a good boy."

ture. The teachings of Paul and John, following Jewish lines, do not postu-late anything but punishment until the "second death." Sin is death. Unrightcousness is its own sure agony. Guilt is separation from our Father. There is no life or peace save in love, holiness and purity, without which no man can see the Lord. More we cannot say. More need not be said. More is, as a matter of fact ,not now preached from any Protestant pulpit. liberal or conservative, save the most ignorant, where the material hell still nolds SWRV. The life on the Bowery is hell. The greed of Wall street is hell. The sus-picions and criticisms of Christian brethren one of another are hell. We have hell in our hearts, and only God's love can cast out hell. That hell should be an eternal disputant of God's sovereign redemption; that the cross of Christ should not save to the uttermost, seems hardly possible; yet we have no other message than claim that unless men take the Father at His word they must remain in the far country and feed the swine, and that every man goes to hi sown place." and HINDOO EDITORS.

Ingenuous Ways of the Journalistic Craft in the Far Orient.

Los Angeles Herald: In amusing candor and ingenuity of excuses the average editor might learn something blush, a protest and a "thank you." Giles walked to the end of the car and from his Hindoo brother, who, when

When the first copy of a new Hindoo newspaper made it appearance recently. for a princess, as, indeed, was every-its subscribers were amazed to see that thing about her, from the crown of her nearly half of it consisted of empty however, explained this vagary: We ization, had adjourned. Personal tax "She is the prettiest girl that I ever regret that this, our maiden number, In the city was increased to $18,053, laid eyes on," thought Giles. Yet he should lack completeness, due to a misknew dozens of pretty girls, not to calculation. We thought we had suf-speak of his own sister, Dorothy, who not trouble to collect more. We can assure our indulgent readers that this for the lack of quantity."

thus:

Glles hated dinners, and he rather subject of universal interest to our ient we n

ANCIENT HEAD OF MEDUSA.

Not far from Rome is the little vil- | been brought to light. Among the latlage of Nemi, and near by is a lake of ter is a bronze head of Medusa. Doubly the same name. In old days there was a splendid temple of Diana where the village now stands, and on the lake work, but also because it was one of the were seen at all times several imperial principal ornaments of Caligula's private galley or yacht. galleys, on board of which the reign-Under the direction of the Italian gov-

ing emperor and his courtiers frequenternment strenuous efforts are now bely feasted and made merry. ing made to recover any other treasures Temple and galleys have long since disappeared, the latter having been that there may be in these long-lost in a great storm, but many por- galleys, and, as the exact position of tions of the temple have been recor- several of the galleys is known, it is ered, and some of the ornaments which generally believed that the search will adorned the galleys have also recently be highly successful.

LARGEST SHARK EVER CAUGHT.

What is claimed to be the largest cured .it for the National museum specimen of a basking shark in the where the skin and skull are now be world was recently washed ashore on ing prepared for exhibition. It is conthe beach at the Hotel Ormond, Flori- sidered by scientists to be one of the most striking objects there da. This great water creature measured 18 feet in length and weighed over 2,000 pounds, and was five feet dreds of tourists from Ormond and viwide across the back, on which three cinity viewed the giant form. men could lay in an outstretched line, The shark is a species of the Indo-while his tremendous mouth could take Pacific basking shark, inhabiting the in the body of an averaged sized pony. tropics, and has never before been seen Just how the mighty monster met in our waters. In its varied colora-his death is a mystery, as the species tions its differs markedly from the ma-is known to be fierce and few have jority of sharks, being ornamented been known to have been captured with buff spots and stripes on a dark ground. The mouth forms nearly an alive.

oblong aperture and is armed with The shark being of such gigantic size, Messrs. Anderson & Price, the ho-tel proprietors, telegraphed the pres-are only two of these sharks on exence of the shark to the Smithsonian hibition-one in Paris, the other at the institution, which, recoginzing the val- British museum, the latter being 17 ue of the rare specimen, at once se- feet long.

TWO DRINKS, ONE GLASS.

COLD STORAGE OF WEALTH.

Vault That Billionaires Use for Deposit of Securites.

New York Correspondence Pittsburg Dispatch: Many persons who have been amazed during the past few days at the holdings of stock certificates that represent millions of dollars by some of the magnates of Wall street have more than once wondered where on earth the stacks of certificates are stored away over night. Some of the certificates are passed day after day in their business deals from owners to owners who have not strong underground vaults. Nor do all firms on the "street" have vanits above the average kind.

Be that as it may, from this time out the millions in bonds and certificates and other "street" valuables, as well as valuables owned elsewhere, in this city and other cities, are to be stowed away in a safe in a deposit company on Broad street, which has just been put in commission. It is the biggest safe in the world. In this safe are already eposited more securities than in any ther one place in the world. Wealth intold is represented there by stocks and bonds, jewelry and silver plate. Here also repose the wills of many of he biggest millionaires in America. So rast are the financial interests concerned n this safe that the board of directors n charge of it is made to represent every faction of the financial world. John Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan, the Vanierblits, the Rothschilds, the Harriaans, the Goulds, and other large intersts have personal representatives on the board.

The door leading into the safe is a remendous piece of mechanism. It is ircular, eight feet in diameter, and 24 inches thick. It weighs 21 tons. The hinge of this big door weighs 7,000 ounds. The door and vestibule weigh io tons, and yet so nicely is the door calanced on ball bearings that a baby ight close it with the gentle pressure of its tiny finger. The safe is 53 feet long, 38 feet wide, and 9 feet in height. The walls are four feet thick. The interior is fitted up with 2,000 boxes, but 3.000 more will be added as they are needed. Formidable as the mechanial appliances for safety are, they are not depended on altogether Day and night men guard the big door. They pace back and forth like soldiers on guard. Three times in the night a hird watchman walks through the corridor to see that the sentinels are attending to their duty. If ever a bur-giar gets anything out of the safe Wall street will go out of business.

GAVE SAGE A FRIGHT.

Man Allowed to Hold a Million Dollars Started to Leave With It.

New York Press: There was unwonted excitement in Russell Sage's office one day last week. A some-time eporter, now a stock broker, who has not yet began to handle millions, had ome business with Mr. Sage. When ie was through, he said:

"Mr. Sage, let me handle a million dollars. I'd like to experience the sensation of holding so much money

The veteran financier was in a compliant mood. He handed out a package of a thousand $1,000 bills, and enjoyed watching the young man fondle the paper representation of wealth

Thank you," at length remarked the young man, who is somewhat of a practheal joker, as he rolled the bundle up in a newspaper, and took up his hat. "Hold up! Stop!" shrieked Mr. Sage. touching a bell button, and in an inciant the office swarmed with Mr. Sage's mployes I have had the pleasure of holding a million," said the young man, laying down the package, "and you have the inxiety of keeping it." Yes, yes," said Mr. Sage, still somewhat nervous, "but it is a pleasurable inxiety," he added.

excuses as a Chinaman.

Another Hindoo editor found it nec-essary to suspend the publication of his ering up two or three little packages, paper for a fortnight without a warnshe alighted. Glies followed. The next ing. When the paper again made its street was his destination, and he appearance it contained this amusing "We regret that, owing to misunderstanding with a rival editor, in which we failed to get all the best of the argument, it was necessary for us ing spitated and will undoubtedly be at the same corner, and Giles stood back to retire unexpectedly from the conduct to allow them to pass. When his foot of this paper for the space of two touched the pavement she was gone, weeks, during which we have had opportunities of devising certain im provements which we propose to intro-As, here was a clew! Giles put the duce into it. The rival editor, we regret to report, is still confined to his home.

When the Hindoo editor wishes to rest for a time from his labor, he calm ly and confidently announces the fact "As we are beginning to feel the physical and menwe feel it due to them that we should take the rest which our labors in their behalf demand and deserve, and as a natural consequence beg to notify that this paper will cease to appear for the space of four weeks

A short time ago an Indian newspaappeared with two very conspicuous blank columns on the front page. The editor explained this eccentricity "We had reserved this space for an exceptionally powerful article on a

sunk

forced to stand on the top of the buggy until help arrived.

Fire, believed to have originated in the engine room, entirely destroyed the Elkhorn roller mills, causing a loss of $8,000. The insurance was merely nominal. The mills were erected in 1895 by Charles Schleip, the present owner. Adjoining property was only saved by heroic work on the part of the firemen.

At a meeting of the district officers of the southeastern Nebraska Grand Army reunion at Beatrice, it was decided to hold the Grand Army of the Republic reunion in Beatrice August 13 to 20, inclusive. It is the intention to have a number of prominent G. A. R. men of the country attend the reunion.

Five men and two women connected with a traveling show were poisoned at Plymouth, Jefferson county, Saturday night, and on Monday night the two women, Mrs. E. W. Dilger and Miss Myrtie Boyles, were given a zecond dose of poison. The troupe, which comprised twenty-two members, boarded in its own car, and those who partook of rice cooked for supper were affected.

Marshal Martindale of Excter received a telegram from the chief of police at Trinidad, Colo., asking him to arrest a Mr. Kellar, stopping at the Phillips house in Excter. It was alleged Kellar jumped & board bill at Trinidad. Kellar came to Excter some three weeks ago, declaiming himself to be a noted hypnotist, and gave a series of entertainments in that line in the opera house.

Three men of Nebraska City, H. W. Aird, Will Hill and Daniel Crumes, were overcome by the fumes from the ras company's mains. Mr. Aird was making a pipe connection, when he was choked by the gas. Young Hill, who is employed in Aird's shop, was working in the front yard of his home en he was caught and rendered un-socious. Crumes was working for gas company in the street, when lungs filled with the fumes. All country around Wisner has again served the proper amount of rain to a fine small grain crop without er drop of rain, and the business at Wisser have subscribed $1,000 at a Fourth of July celebration.

The controversy over allowing a bil-and hall to locate in Humboldt has an prought to an abrupt termination and of a permit to the approximan Uniond, presi ingraciously refused to yield to his sister's persuasion. The next day Dor-othy was full of Miss Tyson-her beau-within the two columns reserved for it. ty and her charms. Giles did not pay much attention to the rhapsodies, but, oddly enough, something that she said made him think of "Lucie Manners. That very day a note came from "Lucie." Mr. Hammersmith's advertisement had at last caught her eye. The young lady lived in Detroit, and Giles resolved to restore the pocketbook in person, making an excuse of "busi-

With some trepidation, Giles awaited Miss Manners in her own drawingroom. He started, when she entered, for this girl was not the one of the street-car. Explanations followed. The pocketbook proved to belong to Miss Manners. likewise the calling cards, but the tiny handkerchief was not hers. "I was visiting my friend, Florence

"Our pocketbooks were almost exactly alike, and we managed to ex-change them. Miss Tyson has told me she did not discover the mistake until after she was on the street car, on her way home. She had just seen me Fortunately off at the railway station. my ticket was in my satchel and not in my purse. Then Florence lost the pocketbook. It was odd that I should have seen the advertisement and not she, when it is she who lives in Chicago. I saw my name on a bit of newspaper which had been used for a wrapper. Then I wrote to you." Miss Manners was talking a good deal, considering that she and Mr. Hammersmith were strangers to each other.

Perhaps his breathless interest compelled confidence, and, after all, she seemed to be claiming another's property; how could she do less than ex-

When Giles left, the green pocket-book was no longer in his possession, and his brain was in a whirl. "Flormeet, the one by whom she had been so fascinated.

"Dorothy," inquired Giles the next day, for he did not tarry in Detroit, "where did Grace Judson come across this paragon of yours, Miss Tyson? If she is a Chicagoan, why hasn't one heard of her before?"

"She hasn't lived here long," replied Dorothy. "She used to go to school with Grace when they were little girls. Grace did not know she was in the city until she met her, not long ago, guite

By the exercise of a little diplomacy. Giles succeeded in getting Dorothy to take him to call on Miss Tyson. And, lo! she proved to be "the unexpressive the "

"And did you really fall in love with me at first sight?" asked Florence, three months later. "At first sight," answered Giles, as he slipped a ring on her finger.

The New Desiring of Hell. vangelist: What the utter fallare

It will make its appearance next week.

THE YOUNGEST SPY.

A 10-Year-Old Rebel for Four Days on Top of a Fence Post.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Heury S. Garr, now a deputy at the county jail, was one of the youngest sples in the service of either side in the war between the North and the South. At the age of 10 Mr. Garr received his first instruction

It was the year that the Louisville forts were built. The order for all able-bodied men of certain ages to assist in the construction of the forts had been issued, and many Southern sympathizers were looking about for some way to evade the edict. Judge S. A. Garr, father of the deputy jailer, openly de clared that he would do no work for the soldiers from the North. He also declared that his negroes should not help build the forts, and the officer in command of the federal troops heard of A squad of soldiers was dispatched at double-quick time to the Garr homestead, which was within 100 yards of Western park.

When the soldiers arrived they found a harefoot boy sitting upon a fence post. He was swinging his legs and whistling as only some boys can. A ileutenant was in charge of the soldiers, and he drew rein when he saw the boy. He inquired for Judge Garr. The boy shook his head and answered that he did not know him.

The soldlers passed. An hour later they returned, and the boy was still up-on the gatepost. All day the soldlers searched in the woods and all day th ence Tyson"--that was the name of the girl whom his sister had wished him to lowing morning the soldiers returned. and again the boy was upon the gate

'I set there for about four days. said Mr. Garr. "My father and several hid ar. Gar. My lather and several neighbors and all of their negroes were hid in the woods, and by means of a signal code we were able to com-municate with one another.

"Two or three men were stationed in the treetops. We all had white hand-kerchiefs. I watched the soldiers. One wave meant that they were in the neighborhood, two meant that they were leaving, and three meant that they were not in sight, and that all was well."

Prepared for the Sesson. "Well, Jimmy," said the hard-heart-ed employer, "I don't see how you will get out to any ball games this sesson, as your grandmother died four times last summer." "But, sir," answered Jimmy, "grand-peps has married again, although it was against the wishes of the family." And still we wonder why men adthe second the server of 13 St 13. . O tat is at

It seems incredible, zet it is a fact, that one can drink water and beer at the same time out of one glass. Any ordinary glass will suffice, and the first thing to be done is to pour beer into it until it is half full, then over the beer is to be carefully placed a piece of position the water may be poured into the glass, drop by drop. As the specific gravity of water is quite different from that of beer, it is impossible under these conditions for the two liquids to mingle. Either water or beer can now be drunken out of the glass, though the manner of drinking is different in each case. The water can be drunk in the ordinary fashion, but the beer must be taken through a straw.

Though this is really an easy trick, great care is necessary in pouring the beer and water into the glass and in placing the piece of linen in proper position.

BALD HEADS.

The Pessimistic Views of an Old Tonsorial Artist.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: The Old Barber was in a gloomy mood. He was talking about bald heads. "Hair may disappear altogether after a while." he said, "and in that event barbers will he said, "and in that event barbers will have less to do than they have now. It will force the barbers out of business. From the way I look at it men are largely responsible for being baldhead-ed. They do not take proper care of their head covering. Long hair is one of the worst things in the world. No man can keep his scalp clean and wear long hair. If the scalp is not kept clean the hair will become unhealthy. It will finally die. Besides, it requires more nourishment for a long hair than it does for a short one. "Men starve their hair to death. Hairs must be fed and nourished like "Men starve their hair to death. Hairs must be fed and nourished like any other part of the human system. There is a quantity of oil in a little buils at the root of each hair, and it is upon this substance that the hair feeds The oil comes out into the opening is an instant to the warmest part of the this way wet clothes can be removed in an instant to the warmest part of the the will be didd in a many appr any a star i be an all side.

much like the heat of the atmosphere forces the fluid up in a thermometer. At any rate, it is forced up and often oozes out the end of the hair. Barbers have resorted to singeing in order to keep this oil in the hair. Singeing closes the hollow, seals it, and the oil is absorbed by the hair. If the hair is smooth linen, and as soon as this is in there is not enough oil to properly feed allowed to grow to any great length it. It becomes dry and finally dies. It cracks open and splits in two sepa-

through the hollow of the hair, very

While it was lying on the beach hun

rate parts. This process continues until a man becomes bald, often prematurely, and he never knows just how it all happens.

There is another thing to be considered in this connection. The ten-sion of life is high now, and men are more feverish than they used to be. This condition has a serious effect on a man's hair, tending to deaden it, and it falls out. Between these influences, and others which might be enumerated. bald heads have been accumulating at an alarming rate, and unless the men begin to think more of these things the comb and brush will not be needed in the average househld, and the barber will simply close up shop, and the time may not be so far off, either. It may not come in my time, of course, but I am not mistaken about the tendency. The number of bald heads already in existence will bear me out in all I have said."

When clothes are hung up to dry in a kitchen or laundry they not only oc-cupy a good deal of room, but they are an impediment to the free circula tion of air, and for this reason a novel device, which is intended to do away these undesirable features, is with meeting favor among housewives of Europe.

It consists of a small wooden box, to which are attached several cords. When clothes are to be dried this box can be raised to any desired height, and the cords can be stretched and fastened in the most appropriate places. In LITERATURE OF LOVE.

Business Man's Experience in Search of Reading Matter.

New Orleans Commercial Advertiser: It is amoving to watch a hard-headed, practical business man when he goes to the library for a book these days. The new books are placed on a counter where one can take one's pick. The type of reader indicated above looks ing and earnestly at the list of titles, knits his brow, begins at the beginning. and goes over them all again, as if he doubted the evidence of his first inaunters out of the library-without a look if the looker-on is sufficiently curious to wonder why the hard-headed one could find nothing to suit him, she. too, looks over the titles of the new books, and this is what she sees among hoals of other and similar ones: 'Love in Its Tenderness,'

"Love Idyls."

"When Love Is Young."

"Love the Harvester."

"When the Land Was Young."

"Farewell, Nikola."

"When Blades Are Out and Love's Affeld."

'Lad's Love."

"Love Is Best."

Truly this has been a strenuous pring for the seasonable writers.

Nathan Hale's Schoolhouse.

The Connecticut chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution have succeeded, in co-operation with the Sons, in their efforts to secure the school house at New London in which the patrs. Nathan Hale, taught after being graduated from Yale. The school house was in danger of being torn down, and the Lucretia Shaw chapter of New London started a sub-scription list, which it headed with $300. The house was removed to a site at the entrance of "The ancientast burying ground" last year and the work of furnishing it for its various uses has recently been completed. The upper story has been made a deposi-tory for colonial and revolutionary rel-ies, and the lower will be used as the have succeeded, in co-operation with ics, and the lower will be used as the chapter room of the Lucretia Shaw bapter.

Now the beef trust proposes to reits enormous legal expenses in the equity suit by raising still higher the

Hair

