Hartley Saxton and family are home again.

Mrs. Jane Griffin proved up on her claim Monday.

Rev. Zimmerman filled his appointment at the church Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Groves of Ames Iowa is here visiting in the family of her son Charles.

We have been blessed with some good showers or late everything looks green and refreshed.

Frank Carlson returned from Minn. last week. He expects to work for John Meekin this Summer.

A heavy frost visited this section of the county last Friday night doing considerable damage to gardens.

Mrs. Jesse Arner and baby of New Castle Wyo. arrived last Saturday. to visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. Eli Sowers.

Albert Cullers went to Chadron last week and brought home a wife we are not acquainted with the bride but just the same we wish them much joy.

Mrs. R. W. Otey and babies who have been visiting with friends and relatives here for the past month returned to their home in Douglas, Wyo. on Monday.

Mrs. C. P. Lyon made a visiting tour among friends in the valley last week.

She reports a very pleasant time and now is at home again at the parsonage.

TIMOTHY.

Bodarc Gleanings.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thayer made a trip to Indian creek the latter part of the week.

Nearly all the young folks in the valley spent Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Thayer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Coffee and Miss Blanche returned to Chadron Saturday after spending a week at their home in the valley.

Miss Lillie Zimmerman went over to Old Woman Saturday to visit her brother Cleve who has the care of his father's cattle at that place.

Matt Hall and family spent Sunday afternoon at Mr. Miller's. Baby Hall we are glad to state has entirely recovered from it's late illness.

Every one who has alfalfa in this vicinity is very busy. John Coffee has his entire crop nearly down in the field and is rushing to get it stacked before a shower can catch it on the ground.

Jan. Wilson had the misfortune to lose a fine young mare about two weeks ago that in some way got cut by barb wire and slowly bled to death, she was considered a very valuable animal by those who had seen her.

A baby cyclone visited this locality about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon that made things lively for a time at the Miller place. Lambs were torn from the trees and scattered promiscuously over his meadow between that place and Coffee's ranch, fair sized trees were blown down and others twisted off. At James Wilson's place stacks were torn to pieces and fences blown down and his crop of rye, the finest he has raised for several seasons and which was already cut was entirely blown away. Jimmy was nearly home with a load when the squall struck his place, he jumped from the load just as it went over, the wagon turning completely over. He and his team escaped injury, although large hail stones falling made the horses almost unmanageable. Mr. Wolhuter also lost a considerable portion of his rye, fortunately a part had been hauled off the field and stacked, what remained on the field was carried away like thistle down. It is believed the storm was more severe farther north, but no particulars have as yet reached us.

Adelia Items.

Mr. Robert Harrison has cut his alfalfa which was a fine crop.

The South Dakota people were on a round up in this vicinity after stray cattle last week.

There was a fine rain in this locality last Thursday night, which was very much needed.

A. P. Rosenberg is very busy cutting rye for feed, and he will have a large crop of rye hay.

Mr. P. L. Raben is busy cutting feed on his ranch, and also on shares on Mr. M. D. Jordan's ranch.

Mr. Jas. Nelson is very busy fencing now-a-days, the quarter section of land he purchased from Mr. Scott Metta.

Mr. Scott Metta purchased the house and improvements belonging to Mr. Lindburg from Mr. Howard L. Smith, and Mr. Metta expects to file on some land in Sioux Co.

Mr. Harlaway the former section foreman, has quit the section foreman work at Adelia, but we have been unable to learn the name of the new section foreman as he came from Missouri to Marsland about a month ago.

THE GREENEORN.

In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth, then the editor, and then the liberal advertiser and prompt paying subscriber, which was all very good. Next day it snowed, and he created the man who does not believe in advertising, another one who does not take the paper, and then he rested. Then the devil got in the moulding room and created the man who takes the paper for years and fails to pay for it. After he had completed that sorry job, and having a few lumps of mud left, he created the excuse of a man who settled his arrearage by instructing the postmaster to mark his paper "refused."—Bayar Transcript.

A BLOW TO HYPNOTISM.

Hypnotism has received another hard blow. And in Milwaukee, at that.

An ardent follower of the mesmeric art offered to wager $100 that he could get into a pasture in which a ferocious bull was charging everything in sight and by means of a few passes put the animal to sleep.

The wager war promptly accepted by a friend, and the amateur Svngali began operations. He walked boldly up to the animal, stared it in the eye and made a pass. So did the bull. The artist side stepped and tried again. Then, in the parlance of the sport, there was "something doing."

The bull refused to recognize the superior of mind over matter. In violation of every rule of the hypnotic manual, he swooped down on the luckless experimenter, and chased him to a high board fence. The barrier was too high to be climbed, and so the bull butted the slumber-artist right through an inch board, breaking it beyond repair, and also fracturing three ribs of his antagonist.

After the man came to in the hospital, he acknowledged he had lost the wager and that he would pay up, providing he had enough money after liquidating his hospital expense account.

Of course the bull ought to have known better. He should have promptly rolled over on his side and begun snoring at a prodigious rate. But he didn't.

It is quite a blow to science, but hereafter, when that hypnotist wishes to overcome another angry bull he will probably feed him on half a barrel of the stuff that made Milwaukee famous. Then perhaps the hypnotic spell will work. It will, of course be slightly irregular, but it will be a blamed sight more effective—and safer.—Omaha Daily News.

Rev. W. R. Warren went to Gordon Wednesday to attend the Epworth League convention and from there expects to go to Nance county where his brother is located for a short visit. We have noticed an expression on the countenance of the reverend of late of unusual brightness, and other things indicate that some thing is in the wind, so without fear of being scooped we predict that when he returns to Rushville he will bring back with him a lady to look after the welfare of the M. E. parsonage. We are going to chance the event at any rate and herefore extend congratulations to the Rev. and Mrs. Warren.—Rushville Standard.

Economy in Coronation Robes.

Some of the robes at the coming coronation, both for peers and peeresses, will be made of velveteen instead of velvet and trimmed with rabbit's fur instead of ermine.

Not Just What He Meant.

Hostess—What, going already, professor? And must you take your dear little wife away with you? Professor—Indeed, madam, I am sorry to say I must.
