

Send for Suit Lot No. 806

This is a man's suit made of a fine quality silk mixed worsted, serge lining and the tailoring is done by the best tailors in the business, better than any merchant tailor can afford to employ. Every yard of cloth is steamed and shrunk before it is cut, so that the garment will always retain its shape. You can compare this suit with any on the market at $15.

In ordering this suit send for lot number 806. You will find it the greatest suit value you ever laid eyes on.

The Press-Journal.

The Supreme Court refused to grant Charles Russell a new trial; So Mr. Russell's only chance is to get a pardon or a commutation unless some unknown benefactor springs up that would materially help the case. We have watched this case with interest, and the more we see about it the more we are convinced that Charles Russell did not kill Mrs. Studebaker and the true murderer will yet be brought to justice.

This is one case where a man's past life stands against him, and there are young men to day who are seemingly wreckless that should take warning for if they ever get into the clutches of the law their past record will stand against them to such an extent that will cause them to lose the sympathy of the public. Messrs. Russell and Fanning, the attorneys in this case should be given great credit for the manner that they have stood by their client, and if there is yet a fighting chance for Mr. Russell to gain his liberty through a pardon, they stand ready for the task.
