Dressed Just as Well.

The lawyers were swapping yarns the other day during a recess in the District court. A lawyer whose wife was marked for her good dressing told how he had come to be such a good provider. Soon after he was married his wife met a girlhood friend. The friend said to her that she wasn't as well dressed as she used to be before marriage. "Oh, you are mistaken," said the wife. "I am wearing the same clothes I did then."

Newspaper Work in Russia.

Newspaper work in Russia is not pleasant. The government spends more money on its press censors than on its schools. Last year eighty-three papers were suspended for various periods, and twenty-six were forbidden to accept all advertisements, while 226 editors were told they could have a short vacation in Siberia if they confessed their methods of responding to various public questions.

Blanket instead of an Overcoat.

Wearing a blanket is usually associated in the ordinary mind with indians and barbaric surroundings, but a blanket is far more useful to the outdoor man than it would seem at first glance, therefore I will attempt to make plain a few of its good points for the benefit of the man who likes to know of the good things of the east, and the blanket is one of them.
It is the best hunter's overcoat in the world for cold weather, because it is light, warm and loose. It clings closely and yet it is not in the way at all and it is good alike in the chill of morning and evening and in the more moderate midday. Also it is a comfortable garment that enables a man to travel against a storm of wind and snow that would soon wear him out if he tried to travel either with a cumbersome overcoat or to "go light."

"Grafting" in Nigeria.

Among the commonest and most troublesome of the offenses with which the courts of Nigeria have to deal, however, is that of personation or extortion. Wearing a fez cap or some other article of disused soldier's uniform or carrying some discarded envelope carelessly dropped a man will present himself at a village and claim by this token to be an emissary from the government. The credulous natives deliver up all he demands.
Any hesitation is met by the threat that on his report the government will destroy the town. Many cases have been before the courts in which such extortion had been going on for months undiscovered.

HAS CLAIMED TO FIND.

Story of the Man Who Discovered the First Beefsteak.

Beefsteak, like most other good things, was discovered entirely by accident, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune. It appears that Lucius Pla-cus, a Roman of rank, was ordered by the Emperor Trajan for some offense to act as one of the mental sacrifices to Jupiter; he resisted, but was at length dragged to the altar. There the fragments of the victim were laid upon the fire and the unfortunate sacrifice was forcibly compelled to turn them. In the process of roasting one of the slices fell off the coals and was caught by Placus in its fall. It burned his fingers and he instinctively trusted them into his mouth. In that moment he had made the grand discovery that the taste of a slice, thus carbonadized, was infinitely beyond all the sordid cookery of Rome. A new expedient to save his dignity was suggested at the same time, and he at once evinced his obedience to the Emperor by refusing to go through the sacrifices with due regard to and his scorn of the employment of turning the whole ceremony into a matter of appetite. He swallowed every deluded Trajan, defrauded Jupiter and invented the beefsteak! A discovery of this magnitude could not long be concealed; the sheriff began to disappear with a rapidity and satisfaction to the public that a great thing to be noticed. The Emperor, who had adopted the practice, was soon the king of Rome. He was soon starved to death on a share of the share of the Emperor of Rome.

FORCE GROWTH OF FLOWERS.

Industry an Important One in Selly and Guernsey.
In Selly and Guernsey the industry of growing early flowers for the London market has reached large proportions. From the former island as many as fifty tons of early spring blooms are shipped to the mainland in a single day. The flower season begins in January, when the early varieties are coming into bloom. Often, when the weather is cold and cloudy, the buds are tardy in opening and it is necessary to resort to artificial aid in order that the waiting markets may be supplied. The flower heads are picked as soon as one bud penetrates the caps and placed in jars of water, which are ranged upon the shelves of a greenhouse kept at a temperature of 60 to 70 degrees. In a few hours the backward buds respond to the genial warmth, spread their petals, assume their glowing colors and are ready for bundling and packing.
