Cotton in South Africa.

In the last annual report of the British commissioner of British central Africa the details of exports are interesting as containing the first mention of the export of cotton. Last spring 600 acres were under cotton cultivation, and it is expected that by December there would be 4,000 acres.

An Anecdote of Napoleon.

When Napoleon was besieging Mastricht he ordered that the guns
should not be trained on the town hall, where was preserved a skeleton of a mosasaurus and when the place was captured he directed that the specimen should be carefully conveyed to Paris.

Mortal and Immortal.

I stand between the Future and the Past—
That which has been and that which is to be—
A feeble ray from the Eternal east;
A waxy pill that seeks a shoeless sea;
A living soul, treading this earthly sod;
A finite being, yet a child of God!

A body crumbling to the dust away;
A spirit panting for eternal peace;
A feeble ray from the Eternal east;
An infant-angel fluttering for release;
An erring man, whose race has just begun;
A pilgrim, journeying on from sun to sun!
Creature of clay, yet heir of future life;
Traveler upon a woe-filled trail;
Soldier of Christ, battling midst earthly strife,
Yet hoping, by that strength which God
may give,
To burst the doors of death, and glory
the Triumph from the grave, to tread the skies!

EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY.

Colored waiter overcomes the Difficulties in His Early Education.

A little story illustrative of the ingenuity of some colored waiters when they are really "up against it" is told by Moncure Burke, secretary to Engineer Commissioner Biddle at the District building.

"I went into a new, by pie-ard on the other day," says Mr. Burke, "and ordered a sandwich and cup of coffee. It is one of the rules of this food emporium that the waiter shall write the order on a little slip of paper and put the price opposite. The clerk is then paid to the cashier at the desk.

"When I had finished my light repast I picked up the slip placed on the table by the waiter and, glancing at it,
saw written thereon:

"Pie, 5c."
"Coffee, 5c."
"I called to the waiter in curiosity:
'Hey, John, I didn't have any pie, I ate a sandwich.'
"That's all right, boss," he replied
"pie and sandwich is both the same price, and I ain't so good on spelling,
that sandwich."—Washington Star.

Watches For The Boys.

The Lincoln Daily Star is making it possible for any boy in Nebraska to be the owner of a handsome American watch.
The watches are open face, stem wind
and stem set, and are guaranteed by the makers to be good timekeepers. Many boys throughout the state have already secured one of these watches, and they invariably well pleased. Fred Robinson, Tekamah writes us as follows: "I am very much pleased with the watch I got.
It keeps very good time. Thank you."
A. M. Linner Holdrege writes after getting his watch as follows: "I think it is a good little watch you sent me."
We could give the names of many more Nebraska boys who have secured the watches, and are more than pleased.
Any boy in Nebraska who will write
to us, we will tell him how he may obtain one of these watches. We do not ask you to send us money for them.
You can do as well as the other boys
who have obtained their watches.
Write us a postal card or a letter now
asking for particulars.
Address—Watch Department, Daily Star
