Letter From Mrs. E. L. Rice.

Hotchkiss Colorado, Sept. 12 1904. Perhaps our friends who read the JOURNAL would like to hear about our journey home. My last work in Nebraska was along the line of the Union Pacific railroad ending at Kearney and North Platte. On Monday Sept. 5th I went on to Sterling, Colorado, where I met mother in the morning Sept. 6th and we went on to Denver together. Our train was late, so we reached Denver at 11 a. m. We shopped and enjoyed the store windows until 3:45 p. m. when we took the train for Colorado Springs, where we were to spend a couple of days with a lady who was mother's pupil in Massachusetts, who is now the wife of a Professor in Colorado College.

Colorado Springs is the third city in Colorado for size. It was so arranged from the first that it can never have saloons, if any property is rented for that purpose it is forfeited. Liquor absolutely sold to some extent but there are no open saloons, which is certainly a gain. Colorado College is a fine institution in every way—has about 500 students, the best of instructors, and every privilege. The buildings are beautiful and more are planned.

Wednesday morning we had a lovely carriage ride of about seventeen miles into the mountains. We went up Cheyenne Canon, following a beautiful mountain stream, crossed a ridge and came down Bear Creek Canon. It is useless to try to describe the beauties of that ride. Thursday morning we spent in visiting the college buildings, museum, etc. And at noon took the train for Salida. One pleasure of the visit was that our friends also had visiting them, Dr. Charles Sheldon, of Topeka, Kansas, the author of "In His Steps", Dr. Sheldon and his wife were charming people and we considered it a great privilege to meet them in this way.

Thursday afternoon we passed through the wonderful 'Royal Gorge.' For seven miles and a half we went through the canon of the Arkansas river, most of the way it was so narrow that the railroad was built on a steel trestle directly over the river and the sides of the canon were very high and precipitous. In some places the canon was only fifty feet wide at the bottom and seventy at the top. The highest point of the rock wall was over 3,000 feet above the river. We spent the night at Salida so as to have the whole mountain ride by daylight. Our train was late on Friday morning, but we got away about 9 o'clock crossing Marshall Pass—Was a very interesting ride. We wound round and up the sides of the mountain. In some places we could see two tracks below us. The top of the pass is 10,000 feet above sea level.

After crossing the mountains the railroad took us through the Black canon of the Gunnison river, which was a repetition of the Royal Gorge, except that it was always wide enough to allow us to go by the side of the river instead of on the top of it. The rest of the ride was prosaic enough and at 8:30 we reached Hotchkiss and found Harry waiting for us.

We are all in the peach business; Roy nailing boxes, and Harry picking at the nearest big orchard. I have been unloading peaches to can—Have brought home two buggy loads—mother paring them for me to put in the cans.

The fruit crop is immense. The peach trees are a sight to behold, and the apple trees just as full. The packing house in town is running night and day loading cars with peaches, and everybody is busy taking care of peaches in some form or other. After it is all done I may write again. E. S. RICE

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The twelfth annual Sunday School convention which met at this place last Saturday and Sunday was largely attended and was one of the most spiritual conventions that has ever been held in the county. Prof. Steidley and Miss Haines were ever ready with some good thought and spiritual suggestions, and every subject on the program was well discussed and if any Sunday school worker did not get any good from this convention it was his or her fault. The lecture Saturday night by Prof. Steidley on "The Boy God Made" was full of good suggestions and common sense, and every father in Harrison should have heard it; And his address on Sunday was excellent.

The lecture given Sunday night by Miss Haines, on her trip to Jerusalem, was without question, the best lecture that has ever been given in Harrison. Miss Haines is a very descriptive speaker and we are sure the people that listened to her learned more of Palestine than they could get from reading books for years. The people of Harrison vied with each other as who could make it the most pleasant for the visiting delegates and we heard many complimentary remarks by them as to the many kindnesses shown them. Several of the schools were not represented, but Bodarc and the Pleasant Ridge school of Wyo. had a goodly number of delegates present during the whole session. Glen not being represented, and no invitation being extended from that place for the convention next year, the Pleasant Ridge school extended such a cordial invitation and as this school has been considered a part of our association since its organization, by an unanimous vote the next convention will be held there.

There were many good thoughts brought out by the papers presented by the delegates, and discussions entered into by them. We look forward with pleasure for the next meeting, for we know the Pleasant Ridge people will give us one of the best times we have ever had.
