Much favorable comment was made on A. P. Culley's Fourth of July speech. Mr. Culley certainly did make a fine address taking the Declaration of Independence for his text. The speech, unlike those we have heard for the last five or six years, was noted for its absence of political expressions. He kept close to his text and rounded his periods of well chosen language with bursts of eloquence and oratory.

Wake up your liver with twenty-five cent package of Simmons Liver Regulator—enough to wake up the liver of the whole family. A dose a day is enough, and a small one at that, but it will do the work well and without discomfort. It is the Best Blood and Best spring medicine. It is the sluggish liver that clogs the system and poisons the blood. Wake up the liver. J. H. Zelin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Yesterday morning from 3:00 to 8:00 o'clock it rained pretty generally all over the county and at this place the register showed a fall of 2.10 inches. It was a cooler and all went into the ground, corn and all kinds of vegetables are looking nice in consequence. It came too late, however, to save some of the seed grain but some fields will be watered by the rain. It will be sure enough to give grain for seed and bread and perhaps a little for market. Corn will be in these parts this year.

THE CELEBRATION.
The Fourth of July was duly celebrated at Loup City and the event much enjoyed by all. The day was fine and the exercises carried out according to program. Long before day the anvils at the shops were heard. As soon as the places of business were opened up the buildings were appropriately decorated with flags and bunting. At 10:30 a column, consisting of all the civic societies were formed up and down Railroad street, and headed by the Loup City Cornet band marched around the square, after which they filed into the square and were stationed in double file facing the speaker's stand.

Here a large crowd had congregated and after listening to some fine selections by the band was entertained by the reading of the Declaration of Independence by J. W. Long followed by a 20 minutes speech from A. P. Culley. Both the reading and the speech were creditably delivered and listened to with a marked degree of interest and often applauded.

The afternoon sports were then announced by the marshal of the day, C. L. Drake and the crowd dispersed for dinner.

After the noon hour had passed the crowd, (about 2,000) gathered around the block south of the primary school building where the afternoon was fully occupied with various kinds of amusements which had been arranged for their enjoyment. The bicycle races and ball game were especially interesting.
