Major McKinley On Top.

The Eagle screams for joy, McKinley is elected.

There is no doubt about congress having a good working majority for sound money. All indications point to this fact.

The position of the Nebraska republicans who went off after the free silver craze and the democratic wild goose chase are not very well pleased with their present situation.

The whole Democratic State ticket is probably elected. Holcomb's plurality as given by the State Journal of last evening was 12,499. Bryan carried the state by about 6,000.

David Mercer is saved to the republicans and will represent the second congressional district of Nebraska in the next U. S. congress. The first district is still in doubt. The other four congressional districts have gone democratic.

Altgeld is woefully beaten, a fact which he now admits and lays the blame of both his and Bryans defeat at Cleveland's feet. He calls Grover bad names and says although turned down he will rise again.

The city of Lincoln gives McKinley 3,845, Bryan 2,836; Lancaster county gives McKieley a plurality over Bryan of about 900. This is Bryans home. Mr. Bryan run about 200 votes behind Holcomb in the city of Lincoln.

"There are some evidence of a return of confidence already. Three weddings have taken place since McKinley's election and both wheat and hogs have taken a rise," says J. S. Peddler as he rushed into our sanctum yesterday.

Editor Brown rushed into our office to-day and said, "have you heard the latest Kentucky and Indiana are placed in the doubtful column. They will sure go for Bryan and he will be elected." Brown, we learned, had just been reading a telegram from chairman Jones.

This cock crows for the great national victory in the election of William McKinley for President of the United States. Nitze Brown has his cock out crowing for the success of the state and local ticket.

An Avalanche.

Triumph for Republicans.

NO RESELECTION FOR REPUDIATION.

Nebraska Gives Bryan a Complimentary Vote in the Electoral College.

Every since the returns on national count has commenced to come in there has been nothing to indicate that the people of the U. S. want repudiation.

Reports from all over the nation are to the effect that the whole country has gone overwhelming republican, by the largest popular vote ever recorded in the history of the country. It is estimated that the plurality of the popular vote of the United States will be at least a round million while McKinley will have a clean majority in the electoral college of 177. The latest report shows that McKinley has an electoral vote of 277, Bryan 170.

The following is a tabulated statement giving the states and their electoral votes as given by the last United Press dispatch.

The Flag To The Fore.

There has been no campaign in recent years in which the patriotic sentiment has found fuller and more vigorous expression. It is especially notable that nearly all the Union veterans of the Civil War and many ex-confederates have organized for effective work in behalf of the Republican candidates and platform. From all parts of the country, South as well as North, we have reports of the activity of these survivors of the war in behalf of the national sovereignty.

No feature of the campaign has attracted wider attention or awakened deeper interest than the tour which Generals Howards, Sickles, Alger, and other distinguished men who won their scars and titles in the Federal service, have made of the Western and border States. These Union officers have traveled thousands of miles in a special train consisting of a baggage, dining, and combination sleeper and observation car, and a flat car on which is mounted a brass rapid fire gun and a mortar. As the train comes to a pause at a station, the bugler, under the direction of General Sickles, gives the regulation call, whereupon the old comrades in the audience step to the front and salute. Then the bugler runs the gamut of artillery, infantry, and cavalry calls, and between them plays the reveille and the call to arms. Then the guns blaze and the mortar belches, and this ordinarily is followed by the singing of national songs and speeches from the tourists. An account in the Sun says that these scenes are repeated all along the route. General Sickles, who is the hero of the tour, does not talk politics at all. He simply talks to the old comrades like a general who was their commander and their friend.

The response in all cases shows that the hearts of those who hear are right. He makes much of standing by the flag now, as in the stormy sixties. "There is," he said on one occasion, "no bitterness in our hearts, but as old comrades we must stand by the flag, we must stand by the old colors, we must stand by the country. Do your duty, comrades, as you did thirty-five years ago." We can easily understand the effect of this sort of campaigning. We are not surprised to learn that at all the stopping places of this special train of thousands of citizens, among whom the veterans are the foremost, ordinarily assemble to testify their faith in the canvass and their fidelity to the principles for which the old flag stands.

This may be said to be especially a flag campaign. It was a happy thought which led the Republicans to abandon the old style of campaign banners and adopt the flag as the emblem of this great fight for the national honor and integrity. No one can visit any one of our great cities and see the vast number of flag which are displayed, in business as well as in residence quarters, without realizing the depth and intensity of the feeling which finds expression in those patriotic displays. It is impossible that any party which antagonizes the principles for which the national standard stands can even command the approval of the American people—Leslies Weekly.

It was a master speech and caused the ranting blather skites who would destroy the fundamental principles of our government to wince. It showed up the fallacies that they have been teaching and exposed their false statements regarding the so called "crime of '73."
