Conan Doyle says he has always observed that whether a woman's style of writing be plain or florid, it is always clear and comprehensible.

A Prediction About Railways.

The following prediction, made by the Royal College of Physicians of Bavaria in 1835, is now on record in the archives of the Nuremberg and Furth Railway, in that country.

KATHARINE TRENT.

IT WAS half-past 5, and almost dark. Most of the seats were occupied, either by the passengers in person or by their representative luggage.

But Miss Katharine Trent failed to find anything interesting in the new magazine, and was now leaning disconsolately back in her seat.

"I suppose," she thought, drawing together her pretty brows, "if newspapers were made of glass, I could see Dick's eyes; but it's a good thing they aren't, for I should certainly feel inclined to break that one into a thousand pieces."

The train was going at a fair speed now, and murmurs of contented conversation reached her ear.

"Dick," she said suddenly, sitting bolt upright, "here we are almost to Bushy. Are you really going to go as far as Watford with me?"

"I am afraid I must," and Dick laid down his paper with grave courtesy, and looked for a moment straight into her eyes.

But Kate had dropped her eyes when Dick looked at her; the smile and the "I'm so glad!" with which she meant to begin her overtures of peace had died on her lips.

"Tommy, who was Joan of Arc?" asked the teacher. "Noah's wife," said Tommy, who is considered great at guessing.—Philadelphia American.

KISSED HIM.

that if she did love him she had taken every precaution to conceal the fact from herself, and Dick, and every one else.

"I know he'll never look at me or speak to me again. I don't blame him. I can't ask him to forgive me, because I should certainly cry, and—O!"

"Good-bye, Will," it said, "and please write to us at once, won't you? You know mamma always worries so about you. Good-bye—a kiss—good-bye!"

"I will," she said to herself, with a swift glance around, while the pink in her cheeks changed to red and flamed clear up to her hair.

"I will," she said to herself, with a swift glance around, while the pink in her cheeks changed to red and flamed clear up to her hair.

"I telegraphed your father to meet this train," Dick was saying. "I really must hurry."

"Good-bye, Dick," said Kate, her voice positively ringing with cousinly affection. "I am awfully sorry I can't go with you and see Cousin Bess; and be sure to give my love to Aunt Katie;" and, tiptoeing a little, she pulled his face down to hers and kissed him straight on the mouth.

"You will be carried by—O, Dick!" and Kate was almost sobbing in an agony of blushes.

"I think I'll change my mind, and go on to Pinner!" remarked Dick, cheerfully, taking in at a glance the too-interested observer on the opposite seat.

"Your father—er—Uncle John might not meet you, you know; and, besides"—crushing both her hands against him as he bent over her in a blissful moment when their fellow passenger was looking the other way—"besides, you have not told me when you will marry me."—Folks at Home.

CRIME IN LITERATURE.

A Significant Fact That Deserves a Little Consideration.

An article in the Westminster Review deals with "Crime in Current Literature," the anonymous author asserting that "never were there so many pens engaged in dealing with crime and criminals as at the present time; the few, seriously and solemnly; the many, lightly and irreverently, and unwitting of the moral mischief they thereby engender."

The number of newspapers, strictly so-called, published weekly in Great Britain and containing serial stories of one kind or another is nearly 800.

Of these 592 are published in England and Wales, 113 in Scotland and 80 in Ireland. Out of this total it has been ascertained that in the year 1893 no fewer than 240 published complete, or portions of, detective stories—stories of all phases and forms of criminality, describing the details thereof with greater or less degrees of minuteness; here making the criminal a sort of Claude Duval, or highway hero worthy of emulation, and there rightly branding him as an iniquitous scoundrel fit only for the clutch of Jack Ketch, but almost invariably depicting the hideousness of crime as it certainly ought not to be depicted.

The truth was that Miss Katharine Trent was a bundle of startling contradictions. That she had a tender heart, or that she was thoughtful and earnest, no one who looked for a moment into her big, serious blue eyes could doubt. Yet often, if not indeed generally, she acted without a moment's reflection. Her little Italian singing master was fond of calling her his "beautiful chord of the ninth," and said that everything depended upon her proper resolution.

It had begun to rain. A few drops zigzagged their downward career across the pane with most fascinating unexpected movements; but Katharine did not even see them. She was thinking desperately of that look in Dick's eyes. Of course he loved her. She knew that. Didn't she love him just as much? But here her conscience awoke with a start, and informed her

At Monte Carlo. Characteristics About Those Who Play at This Famous Resort.

From a letter on the present season at Monte Carlo, the famous resort and gambling place, which is published in a Paris paper, the following extract is not without interest to American readers, says the Baltimore Sun.

1. Friendship. Verses 1-4. The companionship of the young Timothy was a benefit and help to the apostle Paul; but how much more was the friendship of Paul a blessing to Timothy!

2. Prayer. Verse 3. Paul's prayer in behalf of his young friend was another force in the shaping of his character. There are spiritual powers in this world, as well as material; and these invisible influences are called forth by prayer.

3. Faith. Verse 5. Timothy was a Christian young man. He possessed faith in Christ; that is, he accepted Jesus Christ as his master, and gave himself up to his Lord's will. That "unfeigned faith," his allegiance to Jesus Christ, helped mightily to strengthen the character of Timothy, and make him a complete man.

4. Parental Influence. Verse 6. There was a hereditary quality in Timothy's faith. It dwelt first in his grandmother Lois; then was transmitted to his mother Eunice; and thus was received by Timothy as a precious inheritance.

5. Spiritual Endowment. Verses 7, 8. Timothy had been endowed with spiritual gifts. He was a nature peculiarly open to divine influences. He received a holy impulse from on high, and he was obedient to its promptings. There are heavenly gifts in abundance for all who will accept them and improve them.

6. Knowledge of Scripture. Verse 11. The child who becomes acquainted with the Bible, and who grows in his knowledge of it as he advances in years, builds his character on the true foundation, and will become "the perfect man."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XI—JUNE 13—PAUL'S ADVICE TO TIMOTHY.

Golden Text: "From a Child Thou Hast Known the Holy Scriptures, Which Are Able to Make Thee Wise Unto Salvation"—II. Tim. 1:15.

Our lesson for to-day includes 2 Tim. 1: 1-7 and 3: 16-17, as follows: 1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus. 2 To Timothy, my dearly beloved son: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord. 3 I thank God, whom I serve from my forefathers with pure conscience, that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day. 4 Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy. 5 When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also. 6 Wherefore I put thee in remembrance, that thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of thy hands. 7 For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. 14 But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them. 15 And that from a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. 16 All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. The Second Epistle to Timothy.—The Second Epistle to Timothy was probably written about 66 or 67 A. D., while Paul was imprisoned at Rome, and "in constant expectation of martyrdom. It may be regarded as the dying counsel of the venerable apostolic father to his beloved disciple. It contains a variety of injunctions as to the duties of Christians under trials and temptations, and concludes with expressions of a full and triumphant faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, and in all the glorious promises made to his true followers."—Schaff.

Lesson Preview.—"Look back to chapter 3: 1-2. What a picture of the time to come! And is that time, to which Paul looked forward, yet past? Look only at a few touches in the picture: Men shall be lovers of self, lovers of money, boasters (Revised Version). It is not the picture of the present time. And look again: They shall turn away their ears from truth, and be turned unto fables. That is what is going on now; all sorts of false doctrine, follies, and wickedness taking the place that should be given to the truth of God. So Paul cannot but congratulate Timothy on the time that is coming—cannot tell him his path will be smooth and pleasant and prosperous. But what does he tell him? First, that in the midst of all this sickness, confusion, perplexity, and darkness there is one true and holy guide—the written word of God. Lesson Hymn: Father of mercies, in thy word what endless glory shines! Forever be thy name adored for these celestial lines. O may these heavenly pages be our ever and still new beauties may we see, and still increasing light. Divine Instructor, gracious Lord, be thou forever near; Teach us to love thy sacred word, and view the Savior there."—Anne Steele.

The theme of this lesson is found in its final sentence, "That the man of God may be perfect." What are the forces that contribute to form a perfect character? Some of the most powerful are suggested in these verses. Taking them up in the order here named, they are the following:

1. Friendship. Verses 1-4. The companionship of the young Timothy was a benefit and help to the apostle Paul; but how much more was the friendship of Paul a blessing to Timothy!

2. Prayer. Verse 3. Paul's prayer in behalf of his young friend was another force in the shaping of his character. There are spiritual powers in this world, as well as material; and these invisible influences are called forth by prayer.

3. Faith. Verse 5. Timothy was a Christian young man. He possessed faith in Christ; that is, he accepted Jesus Christ as his master, and gave himself up to his Lord's will. That "unfeigned faith," his allegiance to Jesus Christ, helped mightily to strengthen the character of Timothy, and make him a complete man.

4. Parental Influence. Verse 6. There was a hereditary quality in Timothy's faith. It dwelt first in his grandmother Lois; then was transmitted to his mother Eunice; and thus was received by Timothy as a precious inheritance.

5. Spiritual Endowment. Verses 7, 8. Timothy had been endowed with spiritual gifts. He was a nature peculiarly open to divine influences. He received a holy impulse from on high, and he was obedient to its promptings. There are heavenly gifts in abundance for all who will accept them and improve them.

6. Knowledge of Scripture. Verse 11. The child who becomes acquainted with the Bible, and who grows in his knowledge of it as he advances in years, builds his character on the true foundation, and will become "the perfect man."

"Fine feathers," said the philosophical crow unto his mate, "fine feathers make fine hat trimmings."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Of course the heart fails to act when a man dies, but "Heart Failure," so called, nine times out of ten is caused by Uric Acid in the blood which the Kidneys fail to remove, and which corrodes the heart until it becomes unable to perform its functions.

Health Officers in many cities very properly refuse to accept "Heart Failure," as a cause of death. It is frequently a sign of ignorance in the physician, or may be given to cover up the real cause.

A Medicine with 20 Years of Success behind it will remove the poisonous Uric Acid by putting the Kidneys in a healthy condition so that they will naturally eliminate it.

The Pill that Will.

"The pill that will," implies the pills that won't. Their name is legion. The name of "the pill that will" is Ayer's Cathartic Pill. It is a pill to rely on. Properly used it will cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and the other ills that result from torpid liver. Ayer's pills are not designed to spur the liver into a momentary activity, leaving it in yet more incapable condition after the immediate effect is past. They are compounded with the purpose of toning up the entire system, removing the obstructing conditions, and putting the liver into proper relations with the rest of the organs for natural co-operation.

The record of Ayer's Pills during the half century they have been in public use establishes their great and permanent value in all liver affections.
