It is thought that two weeks more will settle the tariff issue in the United States senate. The republicans will push it to the front with considerable vigor.

A Mississippi negro by the name of Sibley, while crazy drunk, took it upon himself to have a little race war of his own. He secured a gun and shot five colored people, three women and two children. An infuriated mob had him treed at last accounts.

Business improvements continue to make themselves apparent, both in new industries and in the reduction of the number of failures. Those for last week were smaller than in any week since the early part of 1895.

Nearly all of the thirty-five southern men who are supporting the protective tariff bill are natives of that section of the country. This will be interesting information to some of the free trade organs which have recently been charging that the southern votes cast for the bill were of the "carpet bag" variety.

The attempt to create another sugar trust scandal in the senate has been a dismal failure. The charges that the sugar trust had controlled the framing of the senate bill are so unreasonably and plainly untrue that even democratic and populist senators have indicated an unwillingness to dignify them by going into the investigation which Senator Tillman recently proposed.

The equal number in the senate for and against the Dingley bill has resulted in that document being greatly amended in order to secure a sufficient number of votes to pass it, or in other words that it might be so constructed as to meet the approval of some of the opposing element who seek to gain a reputation of being "fighters from away back." It is believed, however, that if it can pass as now constructed it will be a great improvement over the Wilson free trade bill.

Democrats who are proud of their record as members of that party and as men of integrity of purpose are probably surprised to learn that unless they are willing to force a 46-cent dollar upon the people of the United States they are no longer to be considered as democrats. The calls for state democratic conventions in various parts of the country are practically unanimous in announcing that only those who supported Bryan last fall and are now willing to subscribe to his platform are eligible to participate in the deliberations of the democratic party in primaries or conventions.

The following item appeared in the Valley County Times last week, being clipped from THE NORTHWESTERN of June 4. The Times failed to give the item proper credit, thus giving the impression that Mr. Jaeger is a citizen of Ord and that the city of Ord, this state, is possessed of an irrigation ditch of unsurpassed advantages:

"J. Phil Jaeger has a fine system of waterworks, with underground piping, and an everlasting supply of water, which comes from the irrigation ditch. He can throw water on any part of his building in case of fire."

Mr. Jaeger is a resident of Loup City and the ditch referred to is a mark of the enterprise and push of the people of Loup City and Sherman county.

FROM THE NATION'S CAPITAL, WASHINGTON, June 18.—The most hopeful man on the republican side of the senate could scarcely have anticipated the speed that has been made this week in disposing of the tariff bill. Not only has there been gratifying progress, but the republican senators in their caucus determined to accept the house sugar schedule with a slight amendment, instead of the schedule framed by the senate committee. This will not only close the mouths of those who were inclined to attack the senate sugar schedules as favorable to the trust, but will also reduce the time that the bill is likely to occupy in the conference committee. It strengthens greatly the belief that the bill will become a law during the present month.

In this connection it is interesting to inquire whether congress has really been slow in its work on the tariff bill? and this inquiry develops the remarkable fact that no president since Washington has had an opportunity to attach his signature to a tariff law within as brief a space of time after his inauguration as will William McKinley, unless some entirely unexpected development shall interrupt the progress toward its early completion. There is good reason to believe that the tariff bill will pass the senate within the present month and that President McKinley will have an opportunity to sign it within four months of the date of his inauguration. Even President Lincoln, who came into office under extraordinary conditions and circumstances, and with war in prospect, did not sign his first tariff act until August 5, 1861. President William Henry Harrison called congress in special session shortly after his inauguration March 4, 1841, because of the condition of finances and revenue, yet that congress did not put its tariff bill upon the statute books until August 30, 1842. President Polk, who was inaugurated March 4, 1845, did not sign his tariff act until July 30, 1846; Pierce, who was inaugurated in 1853, signed his tariff act March 3, 1857; Grant was inaugurated March 4, 1869, and signed his first tariff act July 14, 1870, and another June 6, 1872; the Garfield administration was inaugurated March 4, 1881, yet the tariff act signed by President Arthur was dated March 3, 1883; President Benjamin Harrison was inaugurated March 4, 1889, and signed his first tariff act October 1, 1890; Grover Cleveland and his free-trade congress came into power March 4, 1893, yet the Wilson tariff, which he refused to sign, did not become a law until August 28, 1894. In nearly all of the above cases both branches of congress were in accord with the executive politically, a single party controlling senate as well as house. When it is considered that the republican party, which controls the house, has now but forty-three of the eighty-nine members of the senate, the fact that its leaders have been able to make the speed which they have developed in the consideration of this and other important legislation should satisfy the most exacting, if they but take the trouble to compare present conditions and present progress with that of any other period in the history of the country.

Public interest in the Cuban situation has been revived by the return of Special Commissioner Calhoun from Cuba. It is believed that President McKinley and Secretary Sherman are now likely to have sufficient information within a comparatively short time to enable them to act intelligently and in a way which will bring relief and encouragement and substantial aid not only to American citizens in Cuba, but to those who are struggling in behalf of the cause of liberty. There is no doubt that the president recognizes the gravity of the situation and will give it his best attention since Reports from business centers which reach members of congress here are extremely gratifying. Dun's Review, which is accepted as a reliable business barometer, not controlled or influenced by political or other causes which would affect its accuracy, presents the most satisfactory trade statement for last week that has been made since the present business depression began. That statement was remarkable in its showing of the decided decrease in embarrassments in all branches of trade and in reports of unusual activity in all the industries in anticipation of the passage of the tariff bill. The failures reported in most branches of trade are less in number than at any time in the last thirty-six months, while the volume of business is, in quantity, larger than in 1892, the year of our greatest prosperity, the slight reduction in value being due to the smaller prices paid for the articles of commerce handled. When it is remembered that this happens before the new tariff bill gets upon the statute books, and with the industries of the country depressed by the importation of foreign goods at the rate of over $100,000,000 a month, the improvement thus noted is very remarkable.

"Let me tell you, my countrymen, that resuscitation will not be promoted by recrimination. The distress of the present will not be relieved by a distrust of the future. A patriot makes a better citizen than a pessimist. And we have got to be patient. Much as we want to move out of the old house, we cannot do it until the new house is finished. A tariff law half made is of no practical use except to indicate that in a little while a whole tariff law will be done, and it is making progress. It is reaching the end and when the end comes we will have business confidence and industrial activity. Let us keep steady heads and steady hearts. The country is not going backward, but forward. American energy has not been destroyed by the storms of the past. It will yet triumph through wise and beneficent legislation."—William McKinley, at Philadelphia June 2, 1897.

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $2.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
