If the equity term of district court which is to be held in the county this month had been put off for a month or so later it would enable quite a number, no doubt to save their homes. If they were given a chance to market their grain in many cases they could pay up the back interest and part of the principal. In such cases it would save additional cost of suit and expense to the county of holding court. We advanced this idea to one of our citizens the other day and he said in reply, that in such cases the judge could use his own judgement and where parties were about ready to make satisfactory settlement the confirmation of sale could be made, if necessary at a future term. Now it seem from this that the tax-payers are to be put to the expense of a term of court in order that the officers in charge may use their official power for political prestige. Every officer of Sherman county should use their influence to have this equity term go over. No criminal cases are tried at equity terms. The main bulk of the business to be transacted at the coming term is the confirmation of sheriff sales and the starting of new foreclosure suits. For heaven sakes have a little mercy on the tax-payers and unfortunate ones whose home is about to be taken from them. The Times-Independent has been black for the past ten weeks with the publication of sheriff sale notices which means that for every notice so published that the sale of some ones home at the hands of the sheriff will be presented to his honor for confirmation.

Judge Sullivan was in the city last Tuesday, evidently looking to his chances for the nomination for another term on the bench. From present indications it is doubtful whether or not the Judge will be able to secure the Sherman county delegation as some of the populist ring leaders do not take kindly to his candidacy. In fact one of our county officers was heard to say that he supposed that the Judge expected the nomination from the populist party and an endorsement from the republicans, and gave as a reason for this remark that Sullivan was badly tintured with extracts from both platforms, or words to that effect. Now it is a fact that Mr. Sullivan, while on the stump proclaimed his republicanism and endorsed the republican platform, all except the money plank. And it is also a fact that while doing so these same populist leaders cheered him to the echo, and why should they desert him now? These populists are still looking to Governor Holcomb as they would to the northern star to guide them, and yet Holcomb is guilty of being tintured with the same compound. Then, too, they should remember that Sullivan is an appointee of Silas. Why this disaffection? The only difference we see in the politics of Holcomb and Sullivan is that Holcomb perfected his fusion deal with the democrats and Sullivan is credited with having tried to keep faith with the republican party. But as democracy and populism go hand in hand Holcomb is upheld and Sullivan is denounced.

The last issue of the Monitor states that this week it will appear under a new management and that Mr. Thompson of Ravenna will assume control. We learn that it will appear as a full fledged populist paper.

Thayer on Holcomb.

General Thayer has sent the following letter to the New York Herald:

LINCOLN, Neb. July 24.—Editor of the New York Herald, New York.—Der Sir: I have not hitherto supposed that in order to be a pop, it was necessary to be a falsifier of history. I am led to make this remark after having read in the Lincoln Nebraska State Journal copied from the Herald, a letter signed Silas A. Holcomb, Governor of Nebraska in response to two very proper questions propounded by the Herald viz: Referring to the state having paid off a large amount of indebtedness in the last six months, the Herald asks: "Can it be assumed that the state is experiencing a revival of prosperity? If this be so what effect will it have on Bryan's campaign?"

One might have supposed that the governor of a state would have answered such questions in a spirit of candor and fairness, even if the truth did militate against his own views and wishes. But not so, he shows he cannot rise to the level of truth an honor in political matters.

He claims that the present pop administration have been paying off state indebtedness and have raised up the state warrants from 95 per cent to par. This administration has been in power only six months, and has done nothing to benefit the state securities or the state credit. The fact that the warrants have risen to par was because of returning confidence among the people. The confidence made itself felt when William McKinley was found to be elected president of the United States. It was the restoration of that confidence which has brought restoration of prosperity. Holcomb and his administration had no more to do with restoring state credit and raising the price of warrants than Nero had to do with the discovery of the laws of gravitation, or Judas with advocating loyalty to his master. It is false claim, state warrants have always stood well. There was only this exception when they went down to 95 cents last year and that was the result of the dread that Bryanism might succeed in reaching the presidency.

Governor Holcomb should be ashamed to assert such claim as he did in his letter to the Herald.

There is a very decided revival of prosperity in this state. It comes from two causes: One is the policy of the present national administration the prospect of protection to American industry. The other is that a bountiful providence has blessed Nebraska with an abundance of rain and we now have a prospect for crops so large that there will not be garners enough to hold them. Thank God, Nebraska is prosperous, although it has been blighted with the blight of populism. The passage of the tariff bill will give new impetus to every kind of industry in Nebraska.

He says Bryan's campaign like the spirit of John Brown in the 60s goes marching on. Yes it is marching — on down, down to its everlasting defeat.

When Holcomb was elected Governor he was being credited with being better than his party. If that was true, we might all exclaim, "God help his party then." The populist legislature of last winter surpassed all its predecessors in scenes and plottings and manipulations to make the most of their possession of power. They put upon the statute book so-called laws which never passed both houses, but which in the populist committees of conference were counted in. All sorts of schemes and trickery were resorted to. The governor himself undertook to put through a scheme for counting in two populist judges of the supreme court. A proposition was submitted to the electors last November for the election of two additional judges of that tribunal. When the votes were counted that proposition was found to be overwhelmingly defeated. Gov. Holcomb then undertook to engineer the passage of a recount bill, in order to put two additional populist judges, one his former law partner, upon the bench. It was indeed a rape of the bench. One member of his own committee whom he had appointed to recount the votes, reported a scheme of fraud on the ballot box. He refused to take notice of it and order an investigation. The recount went on, votes were changed, majorities suppressed, returns misstated, and when they reached the end, they were dismayed when they found they had not made the frauds large enough. They found the amendment defeated by a heavy vote.

This is only one of the many outrages attempted to be committed but I will not enlarge.

I have lived in Nebraska forty-two years; have been its governor, and I think have had the means of knowing something of the character of its people and I believe they know what prosperity is and they are now in the enjoyment of it and they know whence it comes.

Governor Holcomb will find that deception, false pretenses coupled with nice professions, will not go down in this state. The people will find him out. Very respectfully
JOHN M. THAYER.

Last week we set forth a few facts regarding the tampering with the headgates of the irrigating ditch by the management of the new milling company at Arcadia. Editor Day of the Arcadia Chimpion took exceptions to our statements and in his issue of this morning published an article in which he left the inference that said headgate was the property of the milling company. The following letter by W. R. Mellor, secretary of the ditch company, has been forwarded to Mr. Day, and is written in answer to his publication referred to:

Mr. C. L. DAY, Arcadia Neb.

DEAR SIR:
Having perused the article under the heading of August 6, in the Champion and knowing that you are desirous of giving your patrons reliable news, in addition to standing up for the town and community in which you live, and doing that which lies in your power to advance its interests, I desire to give you some facts which you seem to have misunderstood in your article above referred to. The Sherman County Irrigation Waterpower and Improvement Co. are the owners in fee of the land on which their sand sluice and headgates are located and do not have to put their foot upon land owned by Nurdyke & Marmion in order to open or close them. That said company have had continued and uninterrupted possession of its riparian rights and the flowage of the water through its canal for more than two years last past. That it will neither allow "Bob" Johnson nor any other party the privilege of tampering with its headgates without first entering into an agreement or contract with it for such purpose, and propose to stand on its rights and treat all courteously and fairly with whom it may do business.

I also desire to call your attention to Sec. 50 of the Irrigation laws of Nebraska and assure you that you will agree with me in the premises, that "loud and long laughing" has no effect upon the punishment therein stated.

Thanking you for championing the cause of irrigation in the past and hoping for its continuance I am
Yours Truly,
W. R. MELLOR.
