To get the latest news from any daily newspaper you should subscribe for the morning edition of the Nebraska State Journal, as the morning edition of any other paper cannot reach here before the day following date of issue. The evening Bee reaches us at 12 o'clock m., four hours and a half earlier than the morning Journal, but the morning Journal goes to press twelve hours later than the evening Bee and of course contains twelve hours later news.

Our little neighbor on the east, Ashton, is a very pleasant place to spend a few hours. She is beautifully situated on the banks of historic Oak creek, her trade is of no mean proportions. Ashton is noted for her hospitality and eggs, the junior laborer of this Zeitung, saw two dray loads of empty egg cases going from the depot to the stores of that metropolis last Friday. They were piled eight feet high and owing to the late rains the streets were damp enough to make locomotion difficult, the under part of the dray scraped the ground, and the mules ears by times was all that could be seen. The lay of the land around the city is like that of a paradise, her crops are prodigious, her fair daughters as beautiful as a Zobeida, and her horny handed sons full of sociability and bee—garlick.

A few years ago the Village board cleaned up the town, at a considerable cost removing the manure that had been piled up on the east and west roads leading from town, and put up sign boards warning all parties under penalty not to deposit any more near the city limits. Those sign boards have been destroyed and the roads are fast becoming a beautiful thorough out, piled up on both sides with the refuse of all kinds right in the city limits. In one part of the town people have to keep their windows closed to avoid the stench from a yard that has been used as a feed yard all winter. If the council would see that these nuisances were abated at once it would save cost in the future and probably our health at the present.

The county court was occupied Monday and Tuesday with a replevin case, wherein William Heckes, plaintiff, replevied one jack and one stallion, from defendants, Thos. Greening, J. T. Hale, W. W. Wilson, W. D. Lashmet, et. al. E. J. Clements, of Ord, and Wall & Burrows of this city, were attorneys for plaintiff and T. S. Nightingale, for defendant Hale, and H. M. Mathew, for defendant Wilson. The case was very closely contested on both sides, a jury being first sworn in. The trial lasted all day Monday, and until Tuesday noon when the jury retired. The jury was out about twelve hours and brought in a verdict for plaintiff.

Alexander Taylor, a native of Hope-well township, spent a week among friends in that section. He attended the reunion of his old Company at Hope-well and stopped a day or two with his niece, Mrs. A. B. Crawford, of Everett. Alex. looks natural, except a little better looking than he used to be, owing to the change in color of his hair and mustache, which are now a beautiful milk white. He is as jolly and as good natured as ever and all his old friends met him with heartiness and good will. He left for Pittsburg on Thursday last where he will visit his brother, W. Y. Taylor, after which he expects to return to his home in Loup City, Nebraska.—Everett, Pa. Press.

The Royal Neighbors, of the M. W. of A. had a grand initiation and supper last Tuesday night, the following persons were received into membership. Mrs. Joseph McCoy, Mrs. W. Pedlar, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Brewer, and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gibson. After the initiation a forty foot table was brought in and loaded with some of the good things of this life, and a large dish of ice cream to finish up with. J. L. Hopper, was master of ceremonies, and he discharged his duties in his usual satisfactory manner. When called upon to return thanks before the feast he said he wasn't much on originality but would favor us with a quotation, and said "I am a hunger and you are going to feed me" and after eating an hour or so he finished up with "I am sick you took me in." Ten more candidates will be shown the mysteries of the order at their next meeting.

Anson Hawley, the young clerk at J. Phil Jaeger's store, accidentally shot himself through the foot, last Sunday afternoon while out gunning. He was in company with Frank Smith, and some other boys at the time and was carelessly loading his rifle which was resting with the muzzle on the instep of his foot. The gun is one that breaks at the breech and receives a rim fire cartridge, which was exploded when breech was sprung back to place. It was of thirty-two caliber, and sent the ball clear through the foot. When the shoe was removed, his companion, Frank Smith, picked the ball from his foot, it having broke the skin on the under side. He was brought to town and the wound dressed, which upon examination was found to be quite serious, the bones having been somewhat fractured. Anson was taken home to Arcadia, on Monday, and it will doubtless be months before he can again be on duty at the store. He was quite popular with our citizens and his absence will be noticed.

The obsequies of the late William A. Wilson, of Ashton, were held at the Presbyterian church in that city, at 1 o'clock, Friday last, Rev. Matthews, of Loup City preaching the funeral sermon. The services were conducted by the Masonic lodge, which Mr. Wilson, was a member of. The funeral cortege left the residence of Mr. Lewis Wilson, son of the deceased, at 1 o'clock and proceeded directly to the church, the corpse being carried by six of his brother masons. Upon arrival at the church the casket was deposited in the center of a circle of chairs so arranged that the friends encircled the head of the casket and the Masonic brothers the foot. Services opened by singing an appropriate hymn by the choir followed by the sermon from Eccl. 12: 7, after which the funeral ceremony of the Masonic lodge was very beautifully carried out. The Knight Templar uniform, of which degree the deceased had attained, was laid across the casket, and a large bank of flowers were piled around it. Many floral offerings were deposited by kind friends as they came in. All seemed to sympathize deeply with the sorrowing family, and very few dry eyes were to be seen at the close of the services. Mr. Wilson's long residence among us and his active business career, has made him many warm friends who felt deeply grieved by his untimely taking off. At the end of the services the corpse was returned to the home of his son where it was kept until Saturday morning, when it was taken to Plattville, Wis. for interment at which place Mr. Wilson's father and mother and a daughter are buried.

Electricity and Balking Horses.

One of the recent extensions of the use of electricity is in conquering a balky or lazy horse. A western Pennsylvania gentleman owned a horse which he said was worth $1,000, provided he could cure him of balking. It was suggested that he try electricity. He purchased a three volt storage battery and connected it by wires with the bit and the crupper. The battery was placed in the road cart to which the horse was attached. At first the horse refused to move, but stood with all four feet braced. Then the owner touched the button connected with the battery. When the horse felt the shock, he snorted, jumped and began to move off at a lively pace. Every day for a week he was given the same lesson. His owner, who does not care to sell him, declares that now he never balks, bites or kicks. The West Pennsylvania Humane society, which investigated the method, came to the conclusion that a small amount of electricity used upon a horse was more humane than a whip.—Exchange.

England's Shortest Railway.

The shortest railway line in Great Britain is the Brighton Dyke Steep Grade railway, which was opened recently, adding a new feature to the attractions of Devil's Dyke. The Dyke, which is a favorite resort of the Brightonians, is a great but remarkably regular chasm on the South downs, situated about six miles to the northwest of Brighton. The view from the tableland, nearly 700 feet above the sea level, which surrounds it is one of the finest panoramic views obtainable in the country. The new line, which descends direct from the top of the hill to a point about a quarter of a mile distant from the village of Poyning in the plain below, is only 840 feet in length.
