BEAUTIFUL HOMES.

The Tendency of the Age is Toward Mural Decorations.

Probably at no time in the world's history has so much attention been paid to the interior decoration of homes as at present. No home, no matter how humble, is without its handiwork that helps to beautify the apartments and make the surroundings more cheerful. The taste of the American people has kept pace with the age and almost every day brings forth something new in the way of a picture, a draping, a piece of furniture or other form of mural decoration. One of the latest of these has been given to the world by the celebrated artist, Muville, in a series of four handsome porcelain game plaques. Not for years has anything as handsome in this line been seen. These plaques are American Wild Ducks, American Pheasant, American Quail and English Snipe. They are handsome paintings and are especially designed for hanging on dining-room walls, though their richness and beauty entitles them to a place in the parlor of any home. These original plaques have been purchased at a cost of $50,000 by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Elastic Starch, and in order to enable their numerous customers to become possessors of these handsome works of art they have had them reproduced by a special process in all the rich colors and beauty of the original. They are finished on heavy cardboard, pressed and embossed in the shape of a plaque and trimmed with a heavy band of gold. They measure forty inches in circumference and contain no reading matter or advertisement whatever.

Until September 1st Messrs. J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co. propose to distribute their plaques free to their customers. Every purchaser of three ten-cent packages of Elastic Starch, fat-iron brand, manufactured by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., is entitled to receive one of these handsome plaques free from their grocer. Old and new customers alike are entitled to the benefits of this offer. These plaques will not be sent through the mail, the only way to obtain them being from your grocer. Every grocery store in the country has Elastic Starch for sale. It is the oldest and best laundry starch on the market, and is the most perfect cold process starch ever invented. It is the only starch made by men who thoroughly understand the laundry business, and the only starch that will not injure the finest fabric. It has been the standard for a quarter of a century, and as an evidence of how good it is twenty-two million packages were sold last year. Ask your dealer to show you the plaques and tell you about Elastic Starch. Accept no substitute. Bear in mind that this offer holds good a short time only, and should be taken advantage of without delay.

The receivers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad have turned their attention to the improvement of the grades on the third division, from Cumberland to Grafton, or rather that portion which lies between Altamont, the top of the seventeen-mile grade, and Terra Alta, where the Cranberry grade begins to descend. The line passes through Deer Park and Oakland and crosses what is known as the "Glades" of the Allegheny Mountains. The grades are short and choppy, some of them being 80 to 85 feet to the mile. One of the first pieces of work to be done is now in progress at No. 53 Cut, where the grade is being reduced from 81 feet to 42½ feet per mile, with equations for curvature. It is expected that the cutting down of this grade will enable the receivers to increase the train load from 1,000 tons to 1,300 tons on east-bound trains. One mile of the roadway will be lowered and it is expected that the work will be completed by the middle of October.

JUSTICE OF THE PLAINS

HOW A MURDERER WAS QUICKLY AVENGED.

Indians Paid the Penalty—Lieutenant Colonel Carroll of the First Brigade of the Cavalry Division at Santiago Was the Hero.

Lieut.-Col. Henry Carroll, commanding the First brigade of the cavalry division before Santiago, who was seriously wounded in the three days' fight, was major of the First United States Cavalry in 1890. He is known in the Indian country in Montana as the man who avenged the death of one white man by killing two Indians, according to the New York Sun. Hugh Boyle, a young man from Illinois, was found murdered near Tongue river agency. He had been visiting relatives in that section and was about to return to his home in Illinois. Maj. Carroll called in American Horse, a chief, and the two examined the dead body and the country where the murder was committed. Maj. Carroll said to American Horse: "I want the men who did this murder. I want you to bring them in." After a few days American Horse returned to Maj. Carroll and told him that Young Mule and Head Chief, two Cheyennes, were guilty. Their father was Two Moon, a chief of renown. He was brought to Maj. Carroll's headquarters and was told to bring in his sons. When he had heard the charge against them he made a speech, in which he said that his people had held a council and were prepared to satisfy the law, from their standpoint. Their proposition was that the agent take thirty ponies in payment for the death of young Boyle. They intended that the ponies should be accepted and sent to the relatives of the murdered boy as a compensation for the death of the young man. The offer was rejected, and Two Moon was given to understand that the white man's law could not be satisfied in that manner. He must bring in his sons. The old chief grunted and said he would do this. He disappeared, but within a half hour he was seen returning. With him were his sons, Young Mule and Head Chief. They were dressed in war bonnets, in war paint, and fully armed. Their ponies were handsomely decorated. The young bucks rode defiantly toward the cavalry commanded by Maj. Carroll and showed fight. The cavalry fired, killing Young Mule's pony. Then he and his brother began firing. They fought subornly until they reached a hill near by, where they were surprised to find another detachment of Maj. Carroll's troops. One of the bucks, Head Chief, wounded several cavalry horses as he rode into the lines. One arm was broken, but with the other hand he fired his rifle from the pommel of his saddle. Another volley was fired at him and he fell dead from his pony. Young Mule saw his brother's fate and realized that he had not much time on his hands. He advanced toward the cavalry chanting the death song of his tribe. He fired several shots and jumped into a ravine. There he kept up his fight, still singing. At this juncture the young buck's mother made an appeal to the troops to save him from impending doom. It was impossible to grant her request, as the warrior continued firing at his enemies, plainly showing that he had determined to die as his brother had died. The mother realizing that all hope had vanished, staggered to the open plain, and in accordance with the custom of the Indians when they lose a relative or dear friend, slashed her limbs with a knife from the knees down. With the blood streaming from the wounds and trickling to the ground she chanted the death dirge of her son, who was presently shot dead. In honor of the bravery of Head Chief and Young Mule their people marked with stones the death trail traveled by the young warriors that pleasant September day.

TO MRS. PINKHAM

Mrs. Budd, in the following letter, tells a familiar story of weakness and suffering, and thanks Mrs. Pinkham for complete relief:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I think it is my duty to write to you and tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I feel like another woman. I had such dreadful headaches through my temples and on top of my head, that I nearly went crazy; was also troubled with chills, was very weak; my left side from my shoulders to my waist pained me terribly. I could not sleep for the pain. Plasters would help for a while, but as soon as taken off, the pain would be just as bad as ever. Doctors prescribed medicine, but it gave me no relief. "Now I feel so well and strong, have no more headaches, and no pain in side, and it is all owing to your Compound. I cannot praise it enough. It is a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to every woman I know."

Seasonable Advice. "Se heah, "Rastus," said the good old colored deacon to his eldest son, "yo' all am gwine out inter de wicked worl' to make er livin', is yo'?" "Yes, suh," replied the youngster, "I's done gwinn' ter try gittin' 'long on mah own hook."

"Den erbout all I's got to say, "Rastus, am dis heah," continued the old man; "Don't try to break de record blowin' froth offen beer; don't start ter raisin' poultry in de light ob de moon, en don't loaf 'round in front of de hin' part of er mule. Ah' may de good Lawd hab mercy on youah soul."

They Must Sob. "She trembles like a fawn!" whispered the man in the second pew beyond the white ribbon, as the bride swept down the aisle. The woman who wept beside him laughed scornfully; at weddings women often laugh and cry at the same time. "Go on!" she protested. "Nobody ever saw a fawn tremble like that! She acts as if she hadn't rehearsed one bit!" And then, being invited to the breakfast after the ceremony, she burst into more tears.—Detroit Journal.

Their Grudge Against Spain. Dr. Eastman, the Sioux Indian of South Dakota, who has been interested in the affairs of his nation in Washington, was asked the other day what his people thought of the war. "Well," he answered, "in case our people are needed they will go to the front. You see, we have a grudge against Spain. It was she who discovered the American continent and enabled the whites to dispossess us of our most valuable lands and push us out on the bleak and barren lands of the far west."—Washington Star.

Last year my brother-in-law had been away and brought a box home with him, and when my cough was at its worst he wanted me to try it and I did and WAS RELIEVED ALMOST INSTANTLY. So this fall when I got so bad my husband went to all the drug stores here and couldn't find it, so we sent to you, and this fall my cough got better as soon as I began to take it. I am all right now, but suppose of course I will have hay fever again next fall and will try and get the Dr. Kay's Lung Balm before I get so bad."
