Congress, 6th district.
NORRIS BROWN, of Kearney.

Where are those middle-of-the-road populists? Alas they have been fed to the democrats.

The Independent party had better change its name to dependant party as they are wholly dependant upon the democrats and fusion for success.

The government expects to defray the expenses of the late war with the receipts of the war revenue act in twelve months. This will relieve our pop friends of the fear of those dreadful bonds hanging over them for the rest of their natural lives. If one year's receipts do not pay the bills it certainly will not take over two years to square up.—State Journal.

When the independent party started out one of its planks in its platform was, "let the office seek the man not the man the office?" This is the principal which Brown of the Times advocated after he became a full fledged pop. Last week he made light of the fact that the republican party did not have several candidates for each county office, who like the pops were hounding their party to death for recognition.

Norris Brown, the republican candidate in the big Sixth district has issued a challenge to Bill Greene, the fusion candidate, for joint debate on the political issues, the debates to be held in various cities in the district beginning the 10th of September and continue until the night before election. The people of the Sixth may therefore expect to be visited by hurricanes of oratory every night during that time, excepting upon those occasions when Bill will be taken with severe attacks of tonsillitis and will therefore be unable to hold up his end of the string.—Grand Island Independent.

France is again being shook from stem to stern by the disgraceful acts of her men in high places and Captain Dreyfus, the much sinned against victim of the chicanery of French army officers, is likely to get a rehearing and a vindication in the near future. M. Zola, the fearless Frenchman that laid the charges against the high officials of forgery and purgery in the Dreyfus case and who was stoned and mobbed by the populus for interfering in the case, had the pleasure last week of seeing one of the forgers confess his guilt and then commit suicide. The once proud nation that had all Europe at her feet is crumbling to decay from the weight of her own perfidy. If she don't change her tactics she may soon be calling upon Spain to return the good offices she has supplied her with so as to save herself from going ashore on similar shoals.

When men so far forget themselves as to use the language in connection with the chief executive of this great republic that some of the pop papers in this bailiwick have been using of late it is a sure sign of desperation, on their part and of dry rot at the heart of the party they represent. The people of this land of the free elect men to the highest office in their gift on account of their worth and the republican so far has never made a mistake. When Grover Cleveland was elected, on false pretense, the republicans in congress assisted him in carrying out the policy which he said would heal our woes all for the purpose of showing him and the voters that elected him that he was mistaken in his ideas. While they criticized him and told him, and his party that their policy would ruin us if persisted in, yet he was always treated with respect by republicans because he was our chief executive, elected by the people and therefore worthy of our respect. But some of our pop editors have sank so deep into the slough of discontent that their foul emanations will ere long disgust the better classes and convince them that nothing good can come from such putrid carcasses. Heaping insult upon such magnanimous men as President McKinley always kills the viper that spuse it out.

A Nebraska female horse who was the mother of a mule colt, watched over her offspring with care and solicitude, hoping that it would finally develop into the likeness of her family; but one day when the colt getting wellgrown it turned loose a long bray, whereupon the mother exclaimed sadly: "Alas this is the result of fusion. I thought I could raise you for a horse but whenever you open your mouth you speak like an ass."

Moral—The result of fusion is necessarily disappointing.—Ex.

Gen. Joe Wheeler, an experienced soldier, held a little investigation of his own the other day at camp Wikoff. He had been told that there was a scarcity of medicines in the camp. He routed out Colonel Forwood, the chief surgeon of the command, to know what was the matter. The colonel assured him that he had an abundance of medicines, but the division and regimental surgeons would not come and get them. Then he called a meeting of the division surgeons, told them that there were plenty of medicines to be had for the asking and that by the next day he would excuse no one found without a supply.

The next day there was still complaint and he summoned all the doctors before him and inquired if any of them were unsupplied. One of them, a Dr. Wood, complained that he had made a requisition, but had got no medicines. "How is that Forwood?" he asked, turning to the chief. "The requisition was all right," answered Forwood, "but Dr. Wood did not send a conveyance to take them away." Then Wood said he had only one horse and it required three horses to haul those medicines. Wheeler rose in wrath and hammered the table while he thundered "see here, if you don't know enough to send your one horse three times for your medicines, then you have no business here." And he added: "This nonsense has got to stop right here. There are supplies enough of all kinds here in camp and if the soldiers don't get them it's your fault. Men are dying for lack of medicines because of your petty ways of doing things. If not stopped at once I shall hold you personally responsible for every death that occurs from lack of care. I shall accept excuses about lack of medicines from no one."

Wheeler has hit the right nail. The camp lacks for no medicines now and the general took a more direct and sensible method to stop the abuse than to call in a correspondent and abuse the secretary of war for the lack of medicines in camp Wikoff.—State Journal.

Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand. These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

work from the kindergarten up through the State University and is pronounced by leading educators of other state as one of the finest educational exhibit they have ever seen. The New England Journal of Education, published at Boston and Chicago, in its issue of July 14 makes the following comment: The educational exhibit of Nebraska at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition, Omaha is one of the best, if not literally the best, ever made in the United States." Great credit is due to the thousands of educators and pupils of the Nebraska schools who so faithfully co-operated with us in making the exhibit a success.

While we all are proud that Nebraska has the lowest per cent of illiteracy we feel that this exhibit is right in keeping with the high standing our state has attained.

The work is neatly arranged and tastefully decorated. Visitors can find seats where they can rest and examine the work. You can "Stand up for Nebraska" perhaps in no better way than by taking your friends with you to see this exhibit which no doubt is as fine an educational exhibit as was ever put up by any state
