W. H. WILLIAMS, Republican Committeeman for Loup City Township

Billy Bryan is still striving to convince the people that he is the only proper caper.

A soup house is the first thing the wage earner strikes for after a successful campaign of Bryan's party.

The Republican committee that was investigating the investigators succeeded in unearthing a nest of old time pirates equal to Capt Kidd's gang.

Since the little Americans said we were feeding our soldiers on em-balm'd beef, the Germans say they don't want our beef it is embalm'd.

Our wheat crop this year seems to be a regular pop hillarium but the corn crop bids fair to ruin the party.

The "Shamrock" is out on the briney deep coming to America to verify the oft repeated lesson that the fast yachts are only built in America.

The big strikes east indicate that there is some work to do back there.
That kind of recreation never bothers the laboring man under a democratic administration.

The B&M, railroad company can not get hands sufficient to do their work on the new extension above Arcadia and still the populist papers are claiming that the poor man cant get work.

President McKinley is rusticated in the Adirondacks this summer hunting deer, bear, wild turkey and grouse, and it is said sometimes pinching the tail of a copperhead.

The Kansas corn crop is said to promise the largest ever that state produced, it is even larger than the crop of pops raised there when sackless Jerry and beardless Peffer was cultivating them.

Ex. Governor Holcomb says he made improvements on the property he rented with the $773. 20 that he over drew from the rent fund. It takes considerable cash now days to make an improvement in the pop party large enough to be seen with a microscope.

The republican papers this week will contain a report made by the Prout Investigating Committee. The report was submitted to and revised by the republican campaign committee. The charges made against the populist officials are not substantiated by the evidence.
Said charges are made at random, regardless of truth in hopes of deceiving the voters. There will be a time when the investigating committee? Will be an boomerang to the republican party.— Times Independent.

The above was written in the same spirit by which the democratic party accumulated the warp and woof from which they wove the populist party i. e. deception. If the report of the Prout committee was first submitted to the Republican campaign committee for revision how did the editor of the Times find it out? If he will explain to his readers how he got his information, they will be in shape to the better judge as to its reliability. If such is the facts the people should know it. But if this important bit of knowledge only exists in the mind of the writer of the above, then they should catch on also. As to the charges, well, they are all made under oath and some of them by such widely known men as O. P. Hedlund, and others by York county men whose names are attached, and who are ready to accept the consequence of their affidavits if any one wishes to bring suit against them for libel.

As for the man Simon, every assertion he swore to has been verified by an examination of the ballots themselves and other corroborative evidence, but then the populist state officers sought to know him best he was one of them when the crime was committed, and turning states evidence should not save a man when he is striking at the instrument of our civil rights which we must protect or suffer the consequences. Let all who accept the above statements of the Times as facts, go get the evidence as taken under oath and judge for themselves whither the charges are substantiated by the evidence or not, and ascertain from the sworn statements of men whose veracity is not questioned at home whither they believe the committee has reported "regardless of truth" or whither the evidence is there under oath just as claimed and therefore the fact staring them in the face that it is they who "hope to deceive the voters," for a knowledge by the voters of the disgraceful acts of their '97 recount committee, will relegate them to deserved oblivion henceforth and forever.

The time for that "Boomerang" arrived when Simon first "peached" on your cherubs at the state house.
It then began to return to the tel-lows who manufactured it and the longer it keeps coming the more force it gathers until now the sworn statements of honest men fasten a crime upon your party that is more heinous than that of Bartley, and yet you endeavor to shield them by half hearted attempts to ridicule the honest work of a committee as honestly appointed and clothed with the same authority as your committee of '97, they were created by the same power that created yours. The only difference being that your party placed at their disposal $10,000 to defray expenses of which they used it all (if there was any left we are willing to be corrected) but when the Prout committee was allowed $2,000 to ascertain if the charges of fraud made against your party was true, the governor, (the same fellow who said the First Nebraska boys were not entitled to any thanks) vetoed the bill and the Prout committee had to root hog or die.

Now gentlemen if you are what you claim to be "Reformers" look up the crimes of your own household with the same care you do others and people will take some stock in what you say, otherwise the handwriting will be upon the wall.

He Sent the Pork.

Professor Comstock of Cornell in speaking to his class on the trials of scientists told this authentic tale of the experience of a professor of invertebrate zoology in a sister institution, which had better be left nameless.

Trichinae in pork, the cause of the frightful disease trichinosis in human consumers, give a peculiar appearance to meat, which is studded with little cysts. It is then known to the trade as "measly pork." The learned scientist, wishing some for study, went to the butcher and asked if he ever got any measly pork.

"Sometimes," said the butcher cautiously, "but I always throw it away."
"Well," said the professor, "the next time you have any I wish you'd send me up some," meaning, of course, to his laboratory.

The butcher stared at him, but said he would. Three weeks passed, when the professor, growing impatient, again dropped in.

"Haven't you found any measly pork yet?"

"Why, yes," said the butcher. "I sent up two pounds a week ago."

A sickly grin broke over the professor's face.

"Where did you send it?" said he.

"Why, to your house, of course," said the butcher.—Kansas City Times.

Jerry's Version of It.

A prominent Detroit woman with a great interest in juvenile mission work has this excellent anecdote to tell:

One of her classes in a certain mission is composed of little street children to the number of 20 or more whose ages range from 3 to 6. Most of the scholars are boys, though now and then one notices the pinched face of a little daughter of poverty in the ranks.

The other day the lesson was on the peculiarities of English. Words that are pronounced alike and spelled differ-ently and words that are pronounced differently but spelled alike were discussed at length. She explained the difference between lead the metal and lead the verb, and the children grasped the point instantly. Then she took the two words "week" and "weak." She explained the difference in the meaning and use to the tots, and then called up a little fellow, aged 5, to use the word "weak" in a phrase. The little fellow thought a moment, then answered, "A weak old woman." The teacher nodded her approval, and smiled into the eyes upturned to hers.

"Now, Jerry Ryan," she said, turning to another little boy, "you take the word 'week' and use it in a phrase." Jerry thought a minute, and then, he, too, replied, "A week old baby."—

His Final Request.

A Scotch farmer, celebrated in his neighborhood for his immense strength and skill in athletic exercises, very frequently had the pleasure of contending with people who came to try their strength against him. Lord D., a great pugilistic amateur, went from London on purpose to fight the athletic Scot.
The latter was working in an inclosure at a little distance from his house when the noble lord arrived. His lordship tied his horse to a tree and addressed the farmer. "Friend, I have heard marvelous reports of your skill and have come a long way to see which of us two is the better wrestler."

The Scotchman, without answering, seized the nobleman, pitched him over the hedge and then set about working again. When Lord D. got up, "Well," said the farmer, "have you anything to say to me?"

"No," replied his lordship, "but perhaps you'd be good enough to throw me my horse."—Public Opinion.

Fooled the Passengers.

A man sitting in an electric car the other day pulled out of his pocket his handkerchief, when out sprang what seemed to be a snake. It wriggled and jumped around on the floor at a great rate. The ladies screamed and huddled together, the men made for it, and one stamped his foot on it, but upon examination it proved to be a copper wound bass piano wire, which the man with the handkerchief had coiled up in his pocket and, having become uncoiled, jumped to the floor. How the women looked daggers at him after they became quieted down was a caution. He soon got off, we presume to put it in the piano that needed it, not because of the looks of the women.—Salem Gazette.

Once Was Enough.

This is one of General Miles' stories.
In the Confederate army, Longstreet's corps was making a night march. About 4 o'clock in the morning, when every one was worn out, a Georgia regiment stopped. A Georgia soldier put his rifle up against the tents on the other side of where Longstreet was.

"Well," he said, "this is pretty hard —to fight all day and march all night.
But I suppose I can do it for love of my country." He continued: "I can go hungry, I can fight, if need be, I can die for my country, because I love my country. But when this war is over I'll be blown if I'll ever love another country!"—Woman's Journal.

Put Out as a Feeler.

Mr. Willingham—What would you do, Mr. Rockington, if I were to ask you for your daughter in marriage?

Mr. Rockington—Well, that is something that I hardly want to answer off-hand.

Mr. Willingham—I'm glad of that.
Now, if I could be sure that you would not answer with your foot I would feel free to go ahead.—Chicago News.

In the year 1806 a party of crusaders brought a number of rose bushes home to England with them from Damascus, and these flourished so well that in a short time the beautiful flowers were to be found everywhere throughout the country.
