Official Paper Sherman County

Can you look into the eye of a First Nebraskan and say I endorsed the veto.

Dewey is on his way home. He says he dreads the reception of his countrymen.

When the democrats begin their proposed investigation of the trusts of the country, will they demand information as to the amount which the silver trust has paid in behalf of Mr. Bryan during the last four years.

According to late statistics there are 812,643 Odd Fellows, 780,717 Free Masons, 410,000 Modern Woodmen and 370,000 A. O. U. W. men in the United States, or nearly two and one half million members in the four orders.

There is the complete nucleus of a ring in Sherman county politics at present that needs watching very close. If the farmer voter will keep his peepers open he will discover that some people are becoming intoxicated with success, and that a little turning down is the best panacea.

It is said that a change in parties once in a while for local government at least, is very healthy for the people, as rings and factions are very liable to be formed and officials get corrupt. We believe we have some very good populist officers in this county but our voters must not imagine that all their nominees are saints.

It takes a man whose liver has all turned to gall to veto a resolution of thanks for services well done and then run 1,500 miles to be first to shake hands with the man he has injured. A regiment who can boast of a fighting record second to none are no lick spittles and don't you never doubt it.

While it has been the practice of the populists of this state in the past to discredit any charge that was made against their leaders by asserting that, as it came from a republican it would not be believed, that day is fast passing. They got reckless just to the extent that this scheme for covering up their rottenness succeeded and from this on will be expected to show up or quit.

The populist papers of late have been doing some tall whistling to keep up the courage of their party by telling them that they were all patriots and ready to lay down their lives for the stars and stripes if need be. Well, most people are, but a contemptible wretch who never dares to publish a letter from the seat of war unless he happens to tumble on to one that is chuck full of treason and inspired by a brain as coarse as the kidney of a bullock, can't make the world believe there is much loyalty in him.

Will the populist editors and leaders generally of Nebraska experience that electric current born of a warm heart and a love for the defenders of our country's flag, start from the seat of affection and course through his veins, touching a like current from the heart of our soldier boys as they clasp hands upon the first meeting of the bronzed heroes from the Philippines, or will the blush of shame mantle his cheek as he gazes into the soldier boy's eyes and read therein the fact, though suppressed, that the odium ought to be heaped upon them and the cause for which they were fighting is well known by every home coming volunteer.

The "Trust Octopus" as it is styled by the allied forces in politics, as opposed to the Republican party, is no doubt a menace to many small institutions of production in the U. S., and therefore will work a hardship to certain classes of people, more especially the "Drummer" or traveling salesman for wholesale houses. Business will be more concentrated and less of that class will be required to do the work, competition in the wholesale trade will not be so great, but so far experience teaches us that prices will be the very lowest possible thereby benefiting the consumer directly but indirectly throwing more men upon the market to compete with him for wages, thereby probably more than overbalancing any benefit he might derive from a trifle lower prices in merchandise, therefore it is the sentiment of the people of all parties to pass good sufficient laws for their restriction. That the Republican party is indirectly the cause of the formation of these combinations we are not ready to dispute, but that that party are any more to blame for their existence than a beautiful summer day is for being followed by a cyclone that wrecks buildings and destroys life we deny. The policy of the Republican party has been the harbinger of prosperity always. One need not take the word of any man for this, but look up authentic political history and satisfy themselves. In our own day we know that trusts are active when the country is enjoying increased prosperity. During the Cleveland regime, from '92 to '96, when the country was compelled to borrow more than five million dollars for every month of democratic rule to pay running expenses, trusts were not heard of, simply because capital feared the policy of depression which always has characterized democracy. But as soon as prosperity set in trusts became active. Would the average voter destroy our present unprecedented prosperity and commit commercial suicide for the purpose of getting rid of trusts? When they do they are killing the goose that laid the golden egg. Would it not be far better to join in with the only party that ever passed an anti-trust law and restrict these combinations, than to again promote democratic demoralization as we have had it in the past.

Dr. Turton, of Lexington, in his address of welcome to the Republican congressional convention, last week said, that he had been a life long democrat but now had come to the parting of the ways, had served his country as a soldier in the war of '61 to '65 and had been a democrat through all the years since, but he could not nor would not endorse the sentiment of disloyalty promulgated by the democracy in recent platforms and speeches. Nor never would recognize the utterances of disloyalty as applauded by the populist congressional convention held in that same building the week before.

A minister of the gospel told us the other day that while on the train a short time since, he met a soldier just returned from the Philippines, who delighted in abusing the war, the President, Gen. Otis and the whole push. The minister, remembering the published statement of General Shafter, that these men were generally renegades that had been sent home in disgrace, ask him if he had got into trouble over there. He finally acknowledged that he had spent six months in the military prison and was then sent home. That is the kind of fellows the demagog leaders are getting their inspiration from. The minister is a real live gentleman and we will introduce any one to him that so desires.

The increase in the Modern Woodmen for the first seven months of '99 was $5,000.
