DEMOCRATIC COUNTY NOMINEES.

For Sheriff. J. K. PEARSON, of Harrison twp.

Say Eddy, let's swap votes. What say you?

Holcomb says I pass, throw up the deal.

We don't believe in calling names but "Slippery Si" is too sweet.

Kinkaid for congress, Hamer for judge and the Reece(s) is, to much "Reform."

It is an undisputed fact that the fusionists have placed men in nomination for state offices this fall that the leaders of the party are a shamed of.

It is rather amusing to see a small office chasing the Times man. There should be some legal protection in this state for a populist when an office gets after him.

Judge Hamer made us a good judge before and he is going to gain. The people have all they can easily stand of sham reform. It biteth like a democrat and stingeth like fusion.

Kinkaid never failed of election for district judge though he lived in a strong populist district, and there will be no exception to the rule this year though he is running for congress.

When Judge Hamer was on the bench he always stood by the farmers, and they always received the benefit of the doubt. When he run for that position the last time, he was defeated by 13 votes, which is a sure indication that in these changed times and conditions he will be elected by a handsome majority. Farmers are like every body else they stand by their friends if they know them and they are acquainted with Mr. Hamer.

We were not aware Mr. Times, that Rev. Mailley was a free silver republican, and care not, for that is only a hybrid democrat who could not stomach the name. But we do know that he was persuaded to go to the Philippines by your populist governor, Holcomb, because he was one of you, and your party considered him one of their right bowers. We also know that he was the chaplain of your legislature, which fact you seem desirous of obscuring. But when he caught you red handed making bullets for our enemies to shoot down the stars and stripes with, he quit you cold what ever his former politics were. You must grin and bear it boys, and remember the fate of Benedict Arnold. He gave up the ghost despised by all.

How does the Northwestern stand on the expansion question.—Times.

Were the Times not 100 years behind the present era, it would know, but we beg lief to answer. We are for expansion first, last and forever. Where Old Glory goes we follow, wither it be under a Democratic or a Republican administration. We skulk not, neither do we disgrace our native country by spreading treason and bowling anarchistic calamity. Since Thos. Jefferson wrote his famous letter to our consul, Livingston, in Paris, in 1802, saying, "Tell the Emperor of France, that there is one spot on earth so dear to the American people, that any country who occupies it must from that moment consider themselves an enemy to this republic, and that spot is New Orleans." Since he sent James Monroe to France to negotiate the purchase of Florida, and instead secured the entire Louisiana territory with out asking congress, and which body at their next sitting confirmed the purchase by an overwhelming majority. This nation has stood for expansion.

Since the democratic National convention of 1844, in which Henry Clay and Martin Van Buren, the two great democratic leaders were turned down because they were against expansion and James K. Polk was nominated because he was an expansionist. The democratic party went before the country on an expansion platform, one plank of which said: "The reoccupying of Oregon and the annexation of Texas, are two great American measures which we heartily recommend to the democracy of the union," this country has expanded. And when they made their campaign cry "Fifty-four forty or fight," the masses took it up and sounded it all over the land and James K. Polk scarcely knew any opposition. But when your political ancestor, John C. Calhoun, agreed to a compromise whereby he stole 300,000 sq. miles of our territory and gave it Great Britain, all because he knew that every foot of land given to a foreign power would diminish Northern free soil just that much, the people arose in their might and the Grand Old Republican party was the result. Again when the democratic party, in National convention in 1854, the party of which you, Mr. Times, said two weeks ago, that you felt at home in their councils, avowed that "every foot of land that had ever been annexed to this country was done by a democratic administration except the frozen iceberg of Alaska," no one contradicted them, they were welcome to their glory. But to-day when you and your descendants of Calhoun undertakes to foment disruption of the only free and positively just government on the face of the globe, you should hide your self in shame and tremble lest the words of "Old Hickory" to the democratic nullifiers in 1833 might be appropriate when he said "These nullifiers and flag haters are a cross between a Puritan and a blackleg and should be hanged higher than Haemon, Sirs: Higher than Haemon."

Yes, dear Eddy, we are expansionists of the first water, for we see laying on beyond the setting sun, a poor credulous people who have been deluded into a war by democratic nullifiers of the Calhoun stripe, occupying territory purchased by the blood of our brave boys after an honest treaty, and that laid the open door for Twentieth century civilization and American principles for a downtrodden people. "There is none so blind as he who will not see."

ASHTON LOCALS.

John Crabowski's son Frank had the misfortune last Thursday, to get his finger caught in the machinery of a wind mill and crushed. Dr. Howard amputated the wounded member.

Mr. R. E. Hall of Bushnell, Ill., was a pleasant caller Friday.

Mr. F. W. Edmonds of Greeley Center, Neb., was here Friday in the interest of the Beatrice Creamery

Co., looking for a location to build a branch plant. We are in favor of a creamery and should be pleased to see one here.

Dr. Howard and Freddie Wichman drove to Boelus and back Friday. Fred is the crack duck shot.—ask him about it.

Mrs. Clarence West of Lincoln, arrived Friday evening for a visit at the home of Mrs. A. N. Conklin.

A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Henry walked in on them quite unceremoniously Friday evening, to show their respects and esteem for the worthy people. All who were present report having a delightful time. A memento was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Henry.

A party was given Mr. Henry Ojendyk Friday evening in honor of his birthday. A merry time was had by all present, and at a late hour all took their departure wishing him many happy returns of the occasion.

Theo. Ojendyk made a flying business trip to Farwell, Saturday.
