To Mothers of Large Families.

In this workaday world few women are so placed that physical exertion is not constantly demanded of them in their daily life.

Mrs. Pinkham makes a special appeal to mothers of large families whose work is never done, and many of whom suffer, and suffer for lack of intelligent aid.

To women, young or old, rich or poor, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., extends her invitation of free advice. Oh, women! do not let your lives be sacrificed when a word from Mrs. Pinkham, at the first approach of weakness, may fill your future years with healthy joy.

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was not able to do my housework. I suffered terribly at time of menstruation. Several doctors told me they could do nothing for me. Thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's advice and medicine I am now well, and can do the work for eight in the family.

"I would recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with large families."- Mrs. CARRIE BELLEVILLE, Ludington, Mich.

In speaking of her experience she says:

"During my twelve years as a trained nurse I have often observed how many different physicians give their patients Dodd's Kidney Pills in cases of Diabetes and Kidney Trouble. About three years ago I myself suffered some months with a weakness and continual congested condition, and I decided to try what the Pills would do for me. I soon found that they built up the affected parts and restored harmony to the entire system, and although I often lose much sleep and rest while attending severe cases, I find that I was never in finer health nor had more endurance than since I have used these marvelous Pills."

Clergymen say they are good. TRAINS BICYCLISTS.

O. L. Pickard's Methods of Handling Track Riders.

There is probably no other cycle rider today who is so versatile as is O. L. Pickard, trainer of Johnnie Nelson and Johnnie Lake, now team mates. Pickard rides in the races, trains his men, attends to the motors, and builds training quarters or cycle tracks with equal facility. In his position he attends to everything, from cutting down a motor frame to wiring a motorcycle complete, or building a new bicycle. He rides the motor, either on the front or rear seat. He knows the cycle and the motor tandem, as he knows everything else, thoroughly. His work was responsible for much of the success of Neison during the past season, for he attends to every detail, and allows nothing to go undone, Many have called Nelson lucky in winning several hard races, forgetting that it was the fact that a second motor was always kept ready and waiting to pick him up, or that a second wheel was always under the hands of this trainer, and ready to be rushed to him at any point around the track. In five races Neison punctured, but he won all five contests. His extra wheel was not in the dressing room at such times, under lock and key, but was waiting for him at the point where he dismounted. That was not good luck, certainly. The extra motor for Nelson was not on the stand, and cool, but was circling the track, and at all times the riders were watching Pickard for a signal, under instructions from him. The fact that they picked up their men so quickly and neatly, was not good luck. A man of the caliber of Pickard is hard to find, and when a rider has found him he is certain that unless in the hardest kind of luck he will have an Literature is art. It is art whose crude material is language, as the sculptor's material is marble, or as the potter's is clay. Its mission in the first place is so to shape its material that form and beauty may emerge. The day has not passed wherein the grace of words fitly spoken has power to quicken and inspire human life, nor has Spencer's dictum. "For pleasing words are like the magic art," lost in reality any of its value, despitet the chronicler, the intelligencer and all the apostles of the matter of fact. It cannot be denied, however, that a practical age has had its effect. Men certainly do hesitate frankly to confess that in their own usage language is used as an artistic material and subjected to artistic treatment. There is apparently a feeling that the confession would involve something demeaning to the content of thought. Rhetoric is in bad cdor-chiefly the name. In the schools they try to hide it under the name of "English." There never was, however, in all the days of our civilization, a more widespread and certain demand for what is called "good English," or a more perfect appreciation of what is said to be "well written." Rhetoric as a name has fallen into discredit, because it has come to be associated with tinseled phrase and empty words. But this is no rebuff to the art. Every material of the arts, from ivory to wood, has someetime been misused as tinsel. The empty display of material is not art; it is child's play.-Atlantic Monthly.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Ragman Makes Scene in Detroit wit Wagon Afire.

The ragman blew a mighty blast and then entered to see if there were any old clothes for sale. After he had purchased $5 worth of goods for 50 cents, he went to the front and there let out a yell that turned the lady of the house to fall down the cellar stairs. Explanation came later. The perambulating merchant is troubled with cold feet. To counteract this affliction he used an old iron kettle for a stove with paving blocks for fuel. He kept it in the front end of his wagon, and when he came out his whole cargo was afire. After the yell he made a flying leap into the rickety wagon, thrashed the dejectedlooking horse into a semblance of animation, and went up the street creating a bigger sensation than Ben Hur's chariot race. Shouting boys and barking dogs were in the train, and all the elder heads coincided in a belief that the man who was thrashing his horse, shouting in a foreign tongue, who fell through a broken seat as he made the corner, his head and heels being all of him in sight, was crazy. But he was not. His presence of mind was to be envied by many a statesman, for he pulled up in front of a hose house and the laughing fire laddies soon conquered the conflagration. Black, scorched, half-drowned and gazing sadly upon what was left of his rig, the victim hissed between his teeth that he would sue the city.-Detroit Free Press.

Mixed in His Location.

The following is told of an American gentleman who was recently stopping with his wife at the Hotel Cecil in London. On their first evening there he happened to retire somewhat later than his spouse. Arriving at the door of what he imagined to be his room and finding it locked, he tapped and called "Honey!" No answer came and he called again and more loudly, "Honey!" Still he got no reply and becoming somewhat uneasy he shouted the endearing term with his full lung power. This time a reply came, and in a male voice: "Go away, you blithering idiot! This is a bathroom, not a blooming beehive!"

Teachers Commend the Geography Literature of "Overland Route."

As an evidence of the efficiency of the Union Pacific management the principals of public schools are constantly applying to this road for maps, pamphlets descriptive of the territory it traverses and data on the history and building of this famous transcontinen-

Upon this phase of school work many of the principals of the public schools declare there is no text so available as that of the Union Pacific. the principal artery of traffic and industrial life in the great west.

The principal of one of the largest public schools in the state of New York writes: "These books are used in all georgraphy classes from year to year until worn out. The children talk at home with their parents over what they learn about the Union Pacific railroad and the country through which it goes, and the publications fill a dual role, viz.: that of advertising mediums and that of educational instructors.

As a matter of fact, the mere building of the "Overland Route" was a great engineering triumph in itself, but the war of the repellion demonstrated the construction of the road was a necessity. A United States history which dealt with the great west would be poor indeed if it did not recount the historic efforts of many public spirited men from Whitney to Abraham Lincoln (and others since) to organize and carry through to completion this great national highway.

The recent irrigation congress held in Chicago illustrates the value of the missionary work of this great road. Until the Mormons conveyed the waters from the mountain streams of Utah and distributed them over the valleys and table lands there was no progress made in the west in the matter of irrigation. In fact it was hardly thought of until the Union Pacific took the matter up and urged it upon settlers of the west.

Typographical maps and reading matter descriptive of the country and a synopsis of irrigation laws are being turned out in profusion for the enlightenment of the public generally.

The Union Pacific's history of the nation's new possessions ("Our New Colonies"), descriptive of the Hawafian island became so popular that the public schools of the country, appreciating the value as an adjunct to histories and geographies in use, made great demands for this publication, and it has been largely adopted as a text book on this subject. Other publications which have been issued from the advertising department of this road are descriptive of the resources of Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, and territory tributary to the Union Pacific. Thousands of these have been printed and sent broadcast over the United States and Europe, used as advertising mediuma for inducing settlers to come west. They have been effective in this, as thousands of the business men and investors have come solely on account of descriptive matter contained in the little volumes, and the facts therein contained. One book that has attracted particular attention is "Some of Wyoming's Vertebrae Fossils." This is descriptive of the great burying ground of Wyoming, where lie the bones of the thousands of great animals that roamed over the western hemisphere when it was unfit for the habitation of man. This publication has been read by men of all classes and has formed the subject for innumerable lectures by the professors in the colleges of the east.

Instead of merely using bill boards and dead walls for calling attention to the running of trains the advertising department of the Union Pacific has followed the plan of putting out attractive reading matter, thus getting the books before the public and making them valuable additions to the library and the household.-The Chicago "Chronicle," December 9th, 1900.

Shares Public Schools' Honors.

The Passenger Department of the Union Pacific is in receipt of a letter from Superintendent C. G. Pearse inviting it to share in the honors bestowed upon the Omaha public schools at the Paris exposition. As is well deathly pale and caused the hired girl known, the Omaha schools were awarded a gold medal for excellence of the showing made by their method of teaching geography. The most important part of the exhibit consisted of a set of illustrated publications and maps showing the sources from which geographical material and information are obtained. Superintendent Pearse acknowledges that great credit is due to the Union Pacific Passenger Department, which furnished many of the publications and maps for the Paris exhibit.-Omaha "Bee," Dec. 11th, 1900.

Following is an extract from her letter: "If you could only be here this winter morning and see for yourself you would no longer doubt me. Roses are blooming in our front yard and all nature is as far advanced in this lovely American summerland as it will be in your cold eastern home by June. "We made the journey from Missouri River to the Golden Gate on the Union Pacific to avoid the circuitous routes-an important item in the winter. A trip to Calfornia is made delightful by the perfect service and luxurious accommodation of 'The Overland Limited,' which is perhaps the most finely equipped train in the world." Detailed information furnished on application to E. L. Lomax, Gen. Pass, and Tkt. Agent, Union Pacific R. R., Omaha, Neb.
