effort. It was with a feeling of relief that the assassin heard the words, "Remove the prisoner," pronounced by Judge White. He heaved a great sigh as he was manacled and was led away.

Tells of His Life.

"Stand up, 'Czolgosz, please," said Mr. Penny, turning to the prisoner. Nudged by bailiffs, the prisoner stood up, the center of all attention in the crowded room.

In answer to questions put by Mr. Penny, Czolgosz said under oath that he was born in Detroit, that he was educated in the common and church charged with the murder of Président schools, that he had been a Catholic, McKinley on Sept. 7. He refused to that he was a laborer, and that he had lived in Cleveland and in Buffalo.

The court clerk then asked the queson trial. Pleaded guilty to charge. Plea tion for which all had been awaiting. Judge Titus asked that the prisoner be permitted to make a statement in exculpation of his act.

Czolgosz leaned heavily on a chair. He then spoke, saying he alone comoner to be put to death in the electric mitted the crime. No one had anychair at Auburn prison, sometime dur- thing to do with his crime but himself, he said.

Latest Quotations From South Omaba and Kansas City.

SOUTH OMAHA.

Cattle-The receipts of cattle were not very heavy as compared with those of the last several days. Packers seemed to have quite liberal orders, and as a resuit the market was active and fully steady on all desirable grades. The supply of cows and heifers seemed light after the big runs of the last few days, as there were only about thirty-five cars on sale. Buyers took hold with considerable life and paid just about steady prices for anything at all good. The medium grades were a little dull, as has been the case all the week, and on such kinds the market was barely steady. Bulls, calves and stags sold again today in just about the same notches they have for several days. Heavy feeders are still in good demand and steady prices were paid for all that were offered if the quality was satisfactory. Western range beef steers were rather scarce and the few that were offered sold at good, steady prices.

Hogs-There was a light run of hogs, but owing to the fact that Chicago and other markets were quoted lower prices at this point took a drop. Packers started in bidding 577% lower, and the first hogs sold mostly at $6.72½ and $6.75. After the first round the feeling improved a little and the market was not over 5c lower, with the long string going at $5.75. The choice loads sold from $6.75 to $6.95 and the commoner grades went from $6.721/2 down. At those prices the hogs changed hands quite rapidly and it was not long before the bulk was disposed of.

Sheep-The supply of sheep and lambs in sight this morning was fairly liberal. for this time of the week. The demand however, was apparently equal to the occasion, as just about steady prices were paid for anything at all desirable. Trading was fairly active in both sheep and lambs, and the bulk of the offerings was disposed of in good season. Some of the coarse and common stuff was neglected by both packers and feeder buyers and was hard to dispose of, but aside from those the market was in good shape. The demand for both feeder sheep and lambs continues active and strong prices are being paid for desirable grades.

The hush as the solemn words were pronounced was like the silence of the tomb. For several moments the silence was unbroken. Manacled to detectives who had brought him into the court, the assassin was conducted away. Between the wall of bailiffs, policemen and spectators the murderer passed. He looked not into a single eye. Justified by himself or not, his deed lay heavy on his head. A groan of execration followed him down the broad court house stairs to the jail tunnel below.

Some Remarkable Stories Told of Its Mysterious Influences.

Doctors disagree as to the influence of heredity. Some hold that a great deal hinges upon it; others believe the contrary. Some of the authentic stories told to exemplify this mysterious bond one duck, and at the same time placbetween ancestors and descendants are very curious. There was a loan collection of old portraits exhibited in London lately and a young girl was among the visitors. She was an orphan and wealthy, but without near relatives, and was often heard to complain of the loneliness of her position. As she passed through the gallery one

He advanced no reason in justification of his monstrous deed. Not a word did he utter of anarchy, of his enmity to government or of the motives which prompted him to the commission of his crime.

Hall Cleared By Police.

Greater crowds gathered for the sentencing of the assassin than came for any one session of the trial itself. Before 12:30 p. m. a crowd had gathered in the corridor in front of Justice White's court room. By 1 p. m. the corridor was jammed. Capt. Regan then appeared on the stairs with a squad of 100 uniformed officers and cleared the hall. It was a case of first come first served after a line was formed, and the tickets of admission issued for the trial were worthless. It took less than ten minutes for the single file to fill the court room and then the doors were closed to be opened only upon the arrival of officials, counsel and others connected with the day's proceedings.

Dramatic Scene in Court.

In a hush that was like the silence of death Justice White pronounced the prisoner's doom. Physically tottering under the ordeal, but sustaining himself by sheer force of nerve, the murderer heard the words of death pronounced, was shackled and quietly submitted to be led away.

In no brazen fashion did the prisoner face the court. Swaying from side to side, boyish looking, trembling with nervousness, but held up by nerve, he stood leaning on the chair in front of him.

Falters in His Words.

Falteringly, hesitatingly, he spoke, after having been asked each question several times. He acted almost as if him, it took him so long to find utterance, and he spoke so rapidly when the first word left his lips in response to a question.

His voice was hardly heard ten feet away, although every ear in the great court room was strained to catch the slightest sound from his lips.

His face paled at no time during the proceedings. It was flushed with the emotion it was costing him so much strength to master. As the preliminary to the pronouncing of sentence many questions were asked by the district attorney. Czolgosz evinced the utmost willingness to answer all these questions, but his utterance seemed to smother in his throat.
