TIME MINING CAMP.

Reduced Sport, Old and Penniless, but Nothing Behind the Deal, Bravely Joins the Ranks of the Great Majority.

In 1897 there were flush times in the Slocan. The overflow of the Rossland boom swished through the silver camps and coated them with gold. The wash struck Sandon the hardest, and for months the town had its Cairo-like streets literally paved with dollars and playing cards. Sandon is built in a gulch between high mountains over which the sun occasionally peeps at the burg. In those days it was a hot locality. All night long the pianos were thumped "below the dead line," while above it the booze factories had no keys and the clinking of glasses kept t'me to the rattle of chips and the cites of "That's good!" "I'm pot!" "Put in with you!" etc.

These were the days when it often cost many a plunk to look at your hole card and chubbers were under the table. Gamblers were thicker than coons at a cake walk and a flash of sunlight made the lower end of the camp look like a railroad switch yard with all danger signals turned on. The town never closed up; it was one long carnival of wine, women and cards. When one shift went flowery another took its place, and Canada's Monte Carlo never blinked an eye.

About this time Morris Butterman hailed the camp. Morris had no yellow in him and packed more than sixty years on his broad back. He had been a gambler for nearly half a century. He had faced the tigers in Montana, shot craps in New Orleans, dealt stud on the old Mississippi and peeped from behind fours in many a draw game. So when he hit the camp he was not afraid of anything in sight. He dealt faro in the Bucket of Blood saloon and kept his shirt bosom ever white. For a long time his meal ticket made Sandon look like a dirty deuce in a new deck, and the old gambler went up the hill to cook for a while, but he did not suit and wandered back to town again, broke, but sad, silent and Several of the boys noticed that he did not eat regularly and proffered him aid, but he shook his head and stood pat. One day, about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, he passed through the Bucket of Blood to the stairway at the rear on the way to his room. As he mounted the steps he turned and took a long look at the bar and Handsome Jack. Late the next afternoon Jack went upstairs to the old man's room and found him dead. He had put on his best clothes, got under the blankets, took a swallow of po son and cashed in.

And thus Morris quit the game-a philosopher.

Old, broke and nothing behind the deal, he prefered to pass up rather than burden his friends. Just a dash of tragedy in the fever of miningcamp life.-Denver (B. C.) Claim.

LIFE AFTER DECAPITATION.

French Physician Asserts That Death Is Not Instantaneous.

Considerable attention has lately been given in France to the old question as to whether death follows instantaneously upon decapitation. A French physician asserts that it does not. In his opinion the blood which flows after decapitation comes from the large vessels of the neck and there is hardly any call upon the circulation of the cranium, says the London News. The brain remains intact, nourishing itself with the blood retained by the pressure of the air. When the blood remaining in the head at the moment of separation is exhausted there commences a state, not of death, but of inertia, which lasts up to the moment when the organ, no longer fed, ceases to exist. It is estimated by the physician in question that the brain finds nourishment in the residuary blood for about an hour after decapitation. The period of inertia would last for about two hours, he thinks, and absolute death would not ensue till after the space of three hours altogether. Possibly this may be some consolation to those about to be guil-

WHY SHE WAS SORRY.

Unpopular Preacher Regretted Having Asked the Question.

A certain author, having explained the nature of his occupation to an old Manx woman, was hardly prepared for the comment: "Well, well, what does it matter so long as a body makes his living honestly?" the words being evidently meant to put him on better terms with himself. But worse still fared an English clergyman, for some time vicar of a Manx parish and from ignorance of the people and their ways, not a very popular one. Having received preferment elsewhere, he started on a round of farewell visits, but without hearing a single regret, says the London Saturday Review. At last one old woman told him she was "mortal sorry." In his delight the vicar let curiosity outrun discretion, and he asked for her reason. "Well." she said, with touching candor, "we've had a lot o' pass'ns over here from England, and each one has been worse than the last, and after you're gone I'm afeared they'll be sen'in' us the devil himself." The vicar left hurriedly.

Egyptian Cotton in Texas.

Egyptian cotton is being introduced in Texas, and promises to revolutionize the cotton industry of the South. It is much more desirable than the cotton raised in the United States now, and is even better than the sea island cotton. The Egyptian cotton has much longer fiber than other cottons, and its seed can be removed so easily that it is not necessary to cut up the cotton in ginning it.

MEALTHANDALLITS BLESSINGS

Health will come with all its blessings to those who know the way, and it is mainly a question of right-living, with all the term implies, but the efforts which strengthen the system, the games which refresh and the foods which nourish are important, each in a way, while it is also advantageous to have knowledge of the best methods of promoting freedom from unsanitary conditions. To assist nature, when nature needs assistance, it is all important that the medicinal agents used should be of the best quality and of known value, and the one remedy which acts most beneficially and pleasantly, as a laxative, is-Syrup of Figs-manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

With a proper understanding of the fact that many physical ills are of a transient character and yield promptly to the gentle action of Syrup of Figs, gladness and comfort come to the heart, and if one would remove the torpor and strain and congestion attendant upon a constipated condition of the system, take Syrup of Figs and enjoy freedom from the aches and pains, the colds and headaches and the depression due to inactivity of the bowels. In case of any organic trouble it is well to consult a competent physician, but when a laxative is required remember that the most permanently gratifying results will follow personal cooperation with the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs. It is for sale by all reliable druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

The excellence of Syrup of Figs comes from the beneficial effects of the plants used in the combination and also from the method of manufacture which ensures that perfect purity and uniformity of product essential in a perfect family laxative. All the members of the family from the youngest to the most advanced in years may use it whenever a laxative is needed and share alike in its beneficial effects. We do not claim that Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of known value, but it possesses this great advantage over all other laxatives that it acts gently and pleasantly without disturbing natural functions, in any way, as it is free from every objectionable quality or substance. To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine and the full name of the Co.-California Fig Syrup Co.-is printed on the front of every package.
