Another Hindu editor, who wanted a holiday, published this editorial: "As we are beginning to feel the physical and metal effects of a year's unremitting devotion to the interests of our readers, we feel it due to them that we should take a rest, which our labors in their behalf demand and deserve, and as a natural consequence beg to notify that this paper will cease to appear for the space of four President Roosevelt was telling a friend about his mail, which averages 500 or 600 a day. "One of the most remarkable letters I ever received," he said, "arrived on the morning the first full accounts of the Martinique disaster were printed in the newspapers. The writer said he saw that the American consul at Martinique had been burned to death. He applied for the place and wound up with this assertion: 'I make this early application so as to get in ahead of those loathsome creatures, the office seek-

Would Sell Offices at Auction.

Colonel J. D. Shires, of Marion county, Ky., seems to be rather radical in his ideas. "I am in favor," he says, "of putting up all county offices for sale to the highest bidder. Let the auctioneer run each office to the highest notch, then knock it off. The money thus obtained should be used for building and bettering roads. As it is worked now, candidates with money behind them buy the offices from floaters, who spend the money in riotous living before they get home, and leave their families breadless."

Only Open in Summer.

A sense of humor is not a very strong characteristic of the English clergy, but occasionally some of them possess its saving grace, says the London Tatler.

Canon Knox Little tells a story of being asked once to preach in the country, and being in the neighborhood went to inspect the church in question beforehand.

He arrived at a side door, over which was carved in stone, "This is the Gate of Heaven," but underneath was written, "This door is only open in summer.'

Revival of Foppism.

It may have been only one of life's little ironies, says the London Express, that, when Mr. Beerbohm Tree was giving a picture at His Majesty's of "The Last of the Dandies," there should have been a revival of foopism all over London. Bridesmaids Who Are Paid.

The profession of bridesmaid seems to be growing in New York. For some time it has been the habit at weddings in that city to pay bridesmaids. At a recent wedding there were no fewer than fifteen bridesmaids, who were all punctually paid. Besides the beautiful dresess given by the bride's father, they each received $25 apiece for appearing in the wedding trap. There are young ladies who accept so much as $100 for their office of honor. One girl who is much sought after for her beauty has appeared as bridesmaid at more than 200 weddings, and has in a short time emassed quite a goodly sum, besides receiving many costly presents.

ASKING QUESTIONS.

An Inquiry Changed a Man's Whole Life.

When you get a man to recognize that his bad feelings come from improper food and that he can get well by using scientific food, the battle is half won. One of New York's business men says:

"I was troubled for a long time with indigestion, headache, and stomach trouble, and had taken various medicines, but with no good results. I concluded to see how a change of food would affect me. I never cared particularly for cereals of any kind, but ate meat and pastry continually and drank coffee.

"I found on inquiring that Grape-Nuts were highly spoken of, and decided to give them a trial. To say I was surprised at the result would not begin to do justice to my feelings. My headaches left me, my brain became clearer and active, my attacks of indigestion grew fewer and fewer until they ceased entirely, and where I once went home tired, fagged out and indisposed to any exertion whatever, I now found a different state of affairs. "My color was good, my muscles strong and firm and fully equal to anything I asked of them, instead of soft and flabby. I live two miles from my business and walk it daily back and forth, if the weather permits. I am 55 years old and feel as well and strong as when I was 30, and can ride 70 miles a day on a bicycle without feeling any bad results." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Micb.

A CONFLICT OF IDEAS.

How Two Western Girls Proposed to be Chaperened.

The two Western girls were on a fisit to the East and they were enjoying themselves immensely. But somehow there seemed to be a conflict of ideas between them and their hostess. She had strict ideas of profind the article cannot be compressed priety and they apparently only into the two columns reserved for it. thought they had. They had determined to show that they were fully up-to-date in social matters, but-well, here's what happened:

Two western young men happened to be in New York at the same time, and they invited the girls to go to the theater, with a little supper to follow. The girls promptly accepted.

The hostess, in whose charge they were, raised her hands in herror when she heard of it.

"It will never do," she said. "You must be chaperoned on any such occasion as that.

"Chapsroned!" exclaimed one of the girls. "Why, of course we will be chaperoned. You don't suppose we'd neglect such an important feature as that, do you? We're not entirely ignerant of social usages."

"Then it's all arranged?"

"Of course it's all arranged." "I'm glad of that," said the hostess with relief, "but it would have been just as well to consult me. Who is to chaperon you?"

Why, Ethel will chaperon me, and I will chaperon her," was the ingentous reply.

EDISON'S WAY OF WORKING.

Never Lays a Book Down Until He Has Finished It.

The play of Thomas A. Edison's mind is as wonderful as the characteristic way in which he does his read ing. Outside of his technical reading he is said never to read a book unless it is spoken of to him by his wife or some friend. Then he sits down and reads until he has finished it. One evening he happened to be unusually engrossed with some "problems," and was nervously pacing up and down his library like a caged lion.

To divert his thoughts his wife came in and picked up the first book she saw. It happened to be "The Count of Monte Cristo."

"Have you ever read this story?" said Mrs. Edison to her husband.

He stopped and looked at the title. "No, I never have. Is it good?"

Mrs. Edison assured him that it

"All right. I guess I'll read it now," and within two minutes the "problem," whatever it was, had been forgotten, and he was abscribed in Dumas' great story. As he finished the book he noticed the light of day peeping in, and on looking at his watch found it was 5 o'clock in the morning.

No sconer had he laid down the book than the forgotten "problem" jumped into his mind, and, putting on his hat, he went to his laboratory and worked unceasingly, without food or sleep, for thirty-six hours .- New York

SHE MICSED HER GUESS.

Vindictive Woman in Her Anger Overshot the Mark.

The car was crowded with shoppers, each of whom carried the special brand of headstrong and aggressive bundle that shopping alone can yield. The woman stood in various attitudes of peril and discomfort, and made those what sat still more uncomfortable by jabbing them or half smothering them. A tall woman, with angular bundles in her arms and wrath in her eye, had been torturing a small, shrinking man during the passage from Fourteenth to Seventieth street, says the New York Press. There he grose with what sounded like a sigh of relief. The dignified woman pushed him back to his seat, saying with a smile of grim satisfaction, "I have stood so far, and I am perfectly able, sir, to stand the rest of the way."

He subsided with a gasp, but at the next corner he arose again. "Be seated, sir," she said, "I do not care for your seat."

He choked a little, but managed to sputter, "You can stand if you wish, but this is two blocks beyond my screet. I must get off."

The other passengers smiled, but there was an ominous frown on the dignified woman's brow, and it boded trouble for somebody at home.

A "Divine" Tree.

The "divine" trees of India are commonly freaks of nature, for instance, two trees of different species united by a kind of natural grafting. There is a very good example at Colombo, in the Island of Ceylon, where a slender and graceful borassus palm can be seen growing cut of the heart of the banyan, or Indian fig tree. The trunks of these alien trees are so strongly joined that only violence can separate them, and it will not escape the attention of the reader that the aspiring palm is protected against the fury of the wind by the sturdy branches of the serrounding fig tree.
