

PASTURE FOR HOGS.

The Kansas experiment station has realized $11.90 per acre from rape pasture and $24.10 from alfalfa pasture in ninety-eight days.

Thirty shoats averaging 52 pounds in weight, were divided as nearly equally as possible into three lots of ten each. Lot 1 was fed on a grain mixture of shorts one-half, corn meal one-fourth, and Kafir corn meal one-fourth in a dry lot.

No. 1—No pasture; grain consumed, 3,801 pounds; total gain, 1,023 pounds; grain consumed per 100 pounds gain, 371 pounds.

No. 2—Rape pasture; grain consumed, 3,244 pounds; total gain, 1,076 pounds; grain consumed per 100 pounds gain, 301 pounds.

No. 3—Alfalfa pasture; grain consumed, 3,244 pounds; total gain, 1,078 pounds; grain consumed per 100 pounds gain, 300 pounds.

The gains of the three lots are very nearly equal. The dry lot consumed 557 pounds, or 70 pounds for every 100 pounds of gain, more gain than the pasture lots.

The lot without pasture required 3.71 pounds of grain, to produce one pound of gain. Assigning the same value of the grain fed hogs on rape pasture, we have 877 pounds of pork credited to the grain and 199 pounds credited to the rape.

The cost of preparing the seed bed and seeing the rape was $1.80 per acre. It was seeded in the feed lots on soil that would otherwise have remained idle, or would have grown up to weeds.

The shoats on pasture enjoyed their diet and seemed satisfied. Those in the dry lots seemed to be hankering after something green, and their appetites seemed unsatisfied without some kind of roughness.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP Cured by One Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "When I had an attack of the grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, editor of the Enterprise, Shortsville, N. Y.

Al Mawhinney has, within the past week sold 85 or a hundred hogs for which he has received in the neighborhood of $1,600. In a car load Mr. Mawhinney sent from Rockville last week there was shipped one stag which weighed after delivery in Omaha, 820 pounds.

him of a swine breeder in Iowa three years ago, paying $25 for him. In Omaha Swift and Armour's buyers would not make a bid for him, one of the buyers stated that once in Chicago a hog of that size cost them $800 in broken machinery in the process of slaughtering, etc.

We were to busy last week to pay any attention to what the Times said about circulation. The only evidence that it produced to prove that it had the largest circulation was to charge us with lying and swiping a statement of his account with the Western Newspaper Union.

Whether or not John's great liking for the girls was due to his lack of knowledge of the female character I am not going to discuss. Certain it is that while I knew him his heart was never disengaged for more than three weeks running.

"Teddie, old man, I'm in love." This beginning had become an old story to me, and so I answered with as much of a sneer as I could command.

"What—again?" "Now, don't, Teddie," he pleaded. "This time it's serious."

"Who is it?" I asked, having made a lightning calculation to see who was left for him to fall in love with. "Why, Miss Klemmeyer," he answered.

"No, I did not mean that. Except her parents. I am afraid I could not stand her parents." "What have they got to do with it except to give their blessing?"

"There's just the rub! I don't think they could say it grammatically. You see, the old man was nothing but an ordinary cobbler, and I don't believe he can sign his name to his checks—"

"My dear," said Growells the other morning, as he was trying to read his paper at the breakfast table, "do you know that you have one of the best voices in the world?"

"Do you really think so?" queried the delighted Mrs. G., with a flush of pride at the compliment. "Sure," replied the heartless husband, "otherwise it would have been worn out long ago."

Amateurish. Last night I kissed her in the hall— My promised wife. She said, "Now tell me truly this— Another girl did you ever kiss in all your life?"

John Kingsland's "Last Chance" John Kingsland was a splendid engineer. I say "was" not that he is dead, but because somehow he has dropped out of sight building that "across the Andes" railroad.

The night before the sailing John impressed his traveling companions with the necessity of being on hand bright and early at 9 o'clock, as the steamer was due to sail at 10 a. m.

And so it happened that being left behind with me they made the best of it till the sailing of the next steamer, with the result that when John received them on the other side the fair Marguerite wore a new ring as splendid as I had been able to purchase with the remainder of my vacation money.

The Future Made Easy. There was recently in White Haven, Pa., an up-to-date evangelist, who secured a pot of yellow paint and decorated all the rocks along the Lehigh river with Bible texts and admonitions.

It was only a week, however, that the rock displayed this alone. For an enterprising advertisement writer came along and painted just below: "Use Delta Oil—Good for Burns!"

"Teddie, old man, I'm in love." I do not believe John ever forgave me, for it was his firm conviction that the failure of his fine scheme was mainly my fault, and that I caused him to lose this last chance in the matrimonial lottery, as he was pleased to call it.—Christopher Shadow in New York Times.
