Belated Weddings.

The love of independence and the freedom and pleasure of to-day make girls less and less anxious to marry before they are past five and twenty. Perhaps it is better that there should be that disinclination, for our modern life may fit a woman better to marry late than early .-- Lady Jeune in London Opinion.

Everybody's Magazine.

The secret method of multiplying millions by which the enormous fortunes of Standard Oil and other big financial institutions were created veritably out of nothing is the text of the September installment of "Frenzied Finance," by Thomas W. Lawson, in Everybody's Magazine. It is no exageration to say that the article is of the most sensational interest and importance. The story of how Standard Oil set about getting the control of banks and trust and insurance companies: how it juggled their funds so as to extend its operations; the process of the "trustification" of corporations as they practice it, and the upbuilding of the greatest financial power in America today. makes a revelation of the most startling significance. ,

Among American artists one of the most talked-of and most appreciated foreign paintings in this country is the portrait of "A Woman in Black," by Degas, recently added by Mrs. Gardner to her Fenway Court collection. One of the leading American portrait-painters has called it "the greatest masterpiece in portraits of the last century." A reproduction of this canvas, made by permission of Mrs. Gardner, will appear in the September Century, and the editor takes this occasion to make a new protest against the application of the principle of Protection to works of art.
