Will Speaker Rouse Refuse It?

The present legislature seems to be having strenuous times to keep employes from robbing the state by getting on the pay roll for a few days more than actually put in, and they must report each morning at a designated place in order to get the said day credited to them. Economy seems to be the watchword with these wise men, and if its a good thing with employes, it must be a good thing for the solons themselves. In fact THE NORTHWESTERN is impelled to assist in this matter of saving to the state by suggesting where a little leakage of $360 can be saved to the treasury. The constitution provides that members of the legislature shall receive naught but per diem and mileage, and yet at each session a member of each house is elected to preside over that august body for which they draw from the treasury $3 per day, or $180 each. Father Rouse, as newly elected speaker of the house, has made economy his watchword. Will he show his faith by his works, and practice the economy he preaches by refusing the $180? We have faith to believe he will.

Best Town and County in State

C. C. Sheldon went to Loup City today near which place he will look after his farms. The Sheldons own over four thousand acres of land in Sherman county, which lies in four separate ranches, and they have great faith in the increase of value of their property. In the past eighteen months land has doubled in value, carpenters are rushed with orders beyond what they can accomplish, and building brick is almost at a premium. Over two miles of brick walks have been laid in Loup City this summer and a number of brick buildings have been erected. There are a number of Platte county men interested in lands in Sherman county, among them the Sheldons, Becher, Hockenberger & Chambers, J. F. Belford, M. Savage, Albert and Fred Stenger and H. B. Musser. Clarence Sheldon will be in Sherman county this week overseeing the building of houses on one of his ranches.—Columbus Daily Journal

Keep History Perpendicular.

Referring to the article in our last issue, entitled "Keep History Perpendicular," we are led to believe there may have been inaccuracies in said article whether through misunderstanding or misleading information we are unable to say. The article in question was called forth by one in the Times Independent of the preceding week on the same subject, which appeared somewhat prejudicial on the one side, hence we sought out the leanings the other way. While chatting in the office of H. M. Mathew, the other day, the matter coming up, that gentleman showed us documentary evidence differing quite materially from some of the statements we made, and in order to "keep history perpendicular," so far as our understanding goes, and with a steadfast purpose to treat all persons and all matters fairly, we give later statements. In our article we stated the Burlington railroad started a case in the Federal Court to enjoin the collection of the interest on the irrigation bonds. The case referred to was, it seems, instead, started against Loup City township by the National Life Insurance company of Montpelier, Vermont, to collect the amount due on certain bonds which had been issued by the township for the purpose of constructing an irrigation ditch, and that the railroad was not a party, according to the papers in the case, shown us by Mr. Mathew, including the contract under the seal of Loup City township, dated April 15, 1901, employing attorneys to defend the action, which was signed by Geo. W. Hunter, township clerk. We had no desire to do any injustice to Mr. Mathew, who has always treated us in a friendly and gentlemanly manner. We simply desired, after seeing the article in the Times Independent, to get at the facts in the case, and solicit-ed from the other side of the case statements and which we gave as recorded last week. Hereafter, when controversies arise, and we go after the facts, we shall give our authority, as we have herein.

We have for sale near Sterling, Ills., 187 acres, 120 acres and 80 acre tracts. We also have another tract of about 2500 acres of bottom land and upland in Mercer county, Ills. For particular call on Gunnerson & Zimmerman.
