We received a pleasant call Tuesday from our good friend, J. K. Gray of Harrison township. Mr. Gray has just sold his big farm consisting of a section of land to a Mr. Shimmerhorn of Bradshaw, for $10,000 and was here fixing up the papers. Mr. Gray is one of the oldest settlers of Sherman county, having been here thirty-one years, but now contemplates finding a home elsewhere, although he admits he has not the slightest idea where he may go. He may take an extended trip to the Pacific Coast this summer and take his time in looking up a future home. We wish him success and happiness wherever he may conclude to locate.

Severe washouts on the Burlington and Union Pacific delayed traffic on these roads to quite an extent Sunday and Monday. In fact the great rains, tornadoes and wind storms of the past few days have been disastrous all over the country, almost with precedent, hundreds of lives being lost and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed.

It has become customary among the young(?) ladies of Loup City to visit en masse, consequently, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lee was the scene of unexpected revelry last Friday afternoon. Wedding Bells.

Married, Tuesday morning, May 16th, 1905, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Froehlich, in this city, Mr. Francis G. Nightingale, of Lincoln, and Miss Elfrieda Froehlich, the Rev. H. S. Wold officiating. The marriage of this worthy young couple was performed at 9 o'clock in the morning, only the immediate families of the contracting parties being present, except Mr. and Mrs. Stalley of Cairo, who were visiting at Mr. Froehlich's at the time. The happy bride and groom, after a neat lunch was served, took their departure on the B. & M. train for Lincoln, where they will be at home to their many friends after June 1st. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Nightingale of this city, and is manager of the Dierks Lumber and Coal Company of Lincoln, with whom he has been for the past eight or nine years as one of their most valued employees, and is a son of whom any father would be justly proud, being enterprising, energetic and a first-class business man. The bride has been employed for some years as chief clerk in the land office at Lincoln, under Register Greene, a most difficult station, which she has filled most satisfactorily. THE NORTHWESTERN extends its heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Nightingale in their new relations and wishes for them all the happiness possible.

The Leininger furniture store this week moved into the vacant store room south of the square. John Solms will thus be enabled to occupy the old Hoover furniture store building, which he owns, at an early date, and we understand his old store room will be taken by the shoe men, Swanson & Smith, when John vacates the same.

May 28 will be observed as Memorial Sunday throughout our land and services will be held in Loup City at Pilger's Opera house at 10:30 a. m. The pastors of the M. E. and Baptist churches, assisted by the choir will conduct the exercises. The public is cordially invited to attend this service. Comrades and ladies of Circle will meet at Hall at 10 a. m. and march to the Opera House.

Those who go to see the great masterpiece of Henrik Ibsen, "Ghosts" expecting to see a lot of white robed figures cavorting about the stage will be disappointed. It is a heavy drama—a problem play—is a great life story and teaches a strong moral lesson. It is high class—reaches deeper into the lives of men and women and creates more talk than any play ever brought before the public. It will be the topic of conversation in your city for weeks after the play. This company is under the management of Sanford Dodge and will play here Saturday evening, May 20.

tance when we meet the pack train returning from the mines and have to turn out of the trail and let them pass.

As the darkness deepens along the trail we cheer on drooping spirits by discussing the possibilities of meeting bears in the loneliest part of the wood.

We soon find our hats burdensome and leave them hanging on a tree till our return.

When we reached a point opposite the Narrows and left the trail, we began to realize what mountaineering in the dark really means.

There were ferns as high as our heads to go through, logs to climb over and huge boulders which had to be surmounted before we finally reached an area of solid rock extending to the brink of the precipice which rises perpendicular from the river to a height of five hundred feet on either side of the gorge.

The moon had not yet risen and we went back a little way from the river and building a fire waited for the moon to rise.

As it began to rise over the Semilunar mountains, its silvery light revealed to us the rugged outlines of Mt. Helene, to the west of us, which has an elevation of 6500 ft.

It is bare and bleak, with precipitous rocks here and there on every side. As the moon rose high enough so that it could peep down into the gorge at the rushing waters beneath, we sat down on the rocky ledge drinking in the wild beauty and grandeur of the scene and listening to nature's beautiful anthem.

Just beyond those mountains which we can see off in the northeast are the gold mines, and across the river are the Semilunar and Elkhorn mountains and back of us are Mt. Henline and Mt. Evans.

At last we realize that we really must go home; but still we linger to gather some cones and lovely white flowers growing all about us.

We found getting back to the trail, now that the moon had risen, a much easier matter than going over to the river had been.

As we quietly retraced our steps, the holy calm of the scene and the deep silence of the place so crept over our hearts that we fairly trembled in delighted awe.

In the shadiest glade of all, we stood for a time quiet and alone, hearing no sound but the cry of a night bird.

For the time being we were as much away from the strife and discord of the world as though we had suddenly been removed to some distant region of the blest.

On a rustic bridge over Henline creek, made by felling a tree across the creek, cutting off the upper side and putting a railing on one side, we paused again and wrote our initials and a quotation from "The Bridge" on the railing.

It is a beautiful spot and the spell of the hour was upon us as the Baby sang that grand old song for us.

We were tired and so were thankful when we got back to our team.

My letter is growing too long and I must close.

In my next letter I will tell you about our trip to House Mt. Rock.

Yours ever,

THE NEBRASKA GIRL.
