Three Days' Carnival

Loup City will hold a three days' Carnival some time this fall. This was decided upon at a meeting held on Monday evening of this week. For some time, the local papers have been advocating the holding of another Carnival this fall and the response has been most flattering from all with whom the editors talked. On Monday, Bro. Brown and THE NORTHWESTERN quill pusher canvassed the business portion of town and called a meeting for that evening in the old Times building. At the appointed time the building and street adjacent was packed with an enthusiastic throng of pro-Carnival enthusiasts, and no dissenting advocates. The meeting was organized by selecting Judge Wall as chairman and Bert Chase as secretary. A motion to hold a three days' Carnival met with unanimous approval and Messrs. H. M. Mathew, R. P. Starr and M. C. Melick were chosen as an executive committee, with full power to select sub-committees, arrange for and attend to all matters pertaining to the Carnival, selecting the dates, and in fact being the "Head Push" and de facto organizers and commanding officers of the Carnival that is to outdo all preceding events of the kind ever held in Sherman or adjoining counties. As it will be necessary for the county fair association to hold a fair this fall satisfactory arrangements will be entered into with the fair folks to join hands with the Carnival association to make everything harmonious and the biggest time in Sherman county history. Now let everybody lend a helping hand and aid in every way the executive committee in the untiring efforts they will put forth.

Here is a tough one on Bro. Brown. We got it pretty straight. It seems that he received a fowl, which he supposed had been sent by an appreciative friend, and he had it dressed and cooked. After having dined off the bird, he went to the postoffice and received a letter stating that the writer had sent him a chicken to settle a dispute, and asked him if he could tell what disease it had died of. In the future none but live poultry will be accepted at that office on subscription.

On Friday, May 19th, Miss Suzie Terry closed a nine months' term of school at Hazard. A large number of the patrons assembled at the schoolhouse just before noon, bringing with them all kinds of good things to eat, and after all had partaken of the splendid dinner, the pupils rendered an excellent program which was enjoyed by all. At the close of the program, Rev. H. S. Wold of Loup City gave a short but interesting talk which was well received. Supt. Hendrickson was present and gave a short talk to the patrons and graduating class and also presenting diplomas to Luella S. Terry, Thora Jacobson and Fred Anderson, who finished the work of the 8th grade.

On Friday evening, May 19th, Miss Sarah Lofholm closed a successful eight months' term of school in district No. 57. Three pupils, Miss Minnie Knight, Earl Pray and Nelson Fisher finished the 8th grade work at the close of this term, and this being the first class to graduate in this district, the teacher and pupils made an extra effort to do good work and make the closing exercises a success. That they succeeded is beyond question. The splendid record made by the class and excellent manner in which the program was rendered, speaking for themselves. Rev. H. S. Wold gave a short talk to the school and Supt. Hendrickson also gave a short talk to the patrons and graduates. This district always conducts a successful term of school, because every person in the district takes an active interest in the school work. The patrons were all present at this entertainment and at the close on the motion of the School-Board, by a rising vote, extended thanks to Miss Lofholm for her splendid work in the schoolroom, thus showing their appreciation of her earnest and honest work.

NEBRASKA GIRL IN OREGON

Continuation of Series of Interesting Letters.

NEHAMA, Ore.—I must continue my often interrupted story of our delightful visit to the mountains.

I must hasten over the story of our second fishing excursion, and will only say that while the guide and the Baby Schoolmaam were catching forty-four speckled beauties, the Nebraska Girl succeeded in landing two small trout. And I must not omit telling you about the salmon which we saw in the deep pool, resting after their long journey from the ocean.

We watched them for a long time, but even the fertile brain of the guide could not devise any plan by which one of them could be induced to come ashore.

But the crowning event of our mountain trip came when on Wednesday the Baby and the guide, both experienced campers, packed up for a three days outing and we started for House Mt. Rock.

We had a pack horse and two saddle horses, which the ladies took turns in riding. We had to ford the river, the guide riding ahead on the pack horse and then taking a horse back for the Little Mother.

Our trail followed the river a little way, up across Canon creek, then away from the woods and up a very long steep hill covered with tall ferns.

The heat was intense and there was no shade except an occasional tree and no water.

When we finally reached the timber again, we knew how to appreciate its cool shade, after our two hours or more of hard climbing in the sun.

The guide went in search of water, and finding none, returned with some delicious salmon berries and after eating them we no longer felt the need of a drink.

Our trail led us up over a rocky ledge where the ascent was steep and the summit not more than three feet wide sloping down into canons on either side.

From the highest point the view was extensive and beautiful, the descent being very abrupt, and at the base we found a tiny spring, though the water was not very cold it was very grateful to our thirsty palates.

Only a few more hills and we discovered a little creek where we stopped for lunch.

After luncheon we pulled leaves and mosses for pilotwax and lay down for a half hour's rest.

But time was flying and we were still a long way from the Rock, so we resumed our journey, travelling all the way through a dense forest of the grandest trees, up hill and down, with the trail growing dimmer and still more dim.

The underbrush obstructed our path and the long slender, graceful branches the vine maple drooped across our path, without a thought to our convenience.

There were holes at regular intervals in the trail, made by a little animal called the mountain boomer; and used as our horses were to watching for them, they would sometimes stumble into one.

At last we caught a glimpse of the Rock quite close at hand.

I can not describe to you the feeling of wondering, admiring awe with which I beheld this stupendous monument to the Creator's power and glory.

"The firmament declares the glory of God, and the earth showeth his handiwork."

Soon we came out upon the shore of beautiful Mirror Lake, and dismounted in the loveliest place for a camp.

For a time we could do nothing but stand spell bound and gaze upon the massive masonry of House Rock and the beauty of the lake, in whose clear depths the Rock and surrounding trees were reflected.

But soon the guide led the way to a spring of ice-cold water and the Happy Four proceeded to quench their thirst, and carry some back with them to use in preparing supper.

The guide built a fire and prepared to pitch our tent, while the Baby being the only one of the ladies who understood the mysteries of "sog," was soon engaged in getting supper.

After tea we pulled ferns for beds and then sat down to enjoy a quiet talk by the camp fire, until weariness began to assert its sway over us and kneeling we thanked God for all we were enjoying and retired.

The Little Mother had the morning meal all ready when the Baby and the Nebraska girl got up the next morning and had to wait, while they went to the spring and made their toilet, but as the guide helped her while away the time, their effusive welcome did seem rather overdone to be sure.

That forenoon we went away off through the woods to look for elk moss and came back with an armful of it, also large bouquets of rhododendrons and other flowers.

We left them in camp and went to explore the lower story of the rocky castle.

There was an ascent of about six or seven hundred feet, which was made rather hard climbing by being so covered with loose shifting stones.

Then from that point the solid rocky wall rose perpendicular to the top of the mountain.

The guide and the Baby spent two or more hours in exploring all the attractions of the ledge, and finally returned to the Nebraska Girl and the Little Mother, bringing with them a great block of snow.

We ate all we wanted and played snowball with the rest on the last day of June.

We returned to camp, ate our lunch and prepared to ascend the mountain.
