WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the One Remedy Particularly Suited For Feminine IIIs.

To women who suffer Dr. Williams Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold. At special periods a woman needs medicine to regulate her blood supply or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are absolutely the finest medicine that ever a woman took. They actually make new blood. They are good for men too -but they are good in a special way for women.

"It was three years ago last spring that my health failed me," says Mrs Arthur Conklin, of No. 5 Coldwater street, Battle Creek, Mich. "I suffered leucorrhoes and other troubles that, I presume, were caused by the weakness it produced. I had sinking spells, nervous headaches, was weak ad exhausted all the time and looked like a walking skeleton.

"My back and limbs would ache almost continually and there were days when I was absolutely helpless from sick headache. I tried one doctor after another but cannot say that they helped me at all. My liver was sluggish and I was troubled some with constipation.

One day a physician who has now retired from practice met my husband on the street and inquired about my He advised my husband to get some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for me, said they were a good medicine, better for my trouble than he could put up. I tried them, improved steadily and soon was entirely cured. As soon as the leucorrhoea was cured the headaches and other pains stopped. I am entirely well now but intend to continue to use Williams' Pink Pills as a spring

AWFUL ITCHING ON SCALP.

Hair Finally Had to Be Cut to Save Any-Scalp Now in Good Condition Cured by Cuticura.

"I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment for a diseased scalp, dandruff, and constantly falling of hair. Finally I had to cut my hair to save any at all. Just at that time I read about the Cuticura Remedies. Once every week I shampooed my hair with the Cuticura Soap, and I used the Ointment twice a week. In two months' time my hair was long enough to do up in French twist. That is now five years ago, and I have a lovely head of hair. The length is six inches below my waist line, my scalp is in very good condition, and no more dandruff or itching of the scalp. I used other remedies that were recommended to me as good, but with no results. Mrs. W. F. Griess, Clay Center, Neb., Oct. 23, 1905," women, would care to indulge in, and it is seldom that one would have the chance to embrace a real live Bruin in his native haunts, even if he-or she had the nerve and the inclination to try it, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. The opportunity, however, came not long ago to Miss Bessie Wells, a pretty little Texas lass, who visited in Seattle recently, and she startled W. D. Cameron, who happened to be with her at the time, by giving a full-grown cinnamon bear in Yellowstone park a good squeeze around the neck. The bear, however, much to the relief of Miss Wells' companion, did not reciprocate the caress, although he seemed to enjoy it.

Miss Wells is the 15-year-old daughter of a wealthy cotton dealer of Austin, Tex. She is a beauty of the true southern type, imbued with the daring found in the western plains girl, and is large for her age. Mr. Cameron, who came to this city a few days ago, described Miss Wells' daring escapade

"Our party had stopped for the noon started out to pick a few berries. We dangerous action by a young lady."

Knowing that all the animals in the park are more or less tame, we approached the beast. I held up my hand and the hear, thinking that I had something for him to eat, stood on his hind feet and reached up, but, finding that he had been deceived, shook his head angrily and walked away. My young companion then ran back to the wagon and returned with a few cookies. Again we approached the bear and Miss Wells held one of the cookies in her hand. The bear repeated the same performance he had gone through with me, but this time he found something. Miss Wells gradually drew back her hand while the bear was reaching for it until the animal's head was over her shoulder, and then, while he was eating the cookie, she reached around his neck with her other arm and spirit and nerve that so often are hugged him tightly. My heart seemed to stop beating, but I dared not yell, for the animal would be startled and attack the girl. When he had finished eating the cookie, she reached around dropped down on all fours again and sauntered off into the brush. In all hour luncheon and while the meal was my experiences I had never seen a being prepared Miss Wells and I more reckless or daring and even

"I have seen them used to bale hay, and tie up bags of grain, and splice cart tongues, and keep grindstones from leaping out of frames, and to tie out calves while feeding, and to fasten the hames of work horses about the collars, and to hinge the swinging part of a threshing flail to the handle, and to bind loads of wood and potatoes and apples and hay when they were taken to market.

"Fifty years ago a bundle of withes was as necessary at a funeral as a dead body. All coffins were made by the local carpenters then, without paint or varnish. Such articles as beckets were unknown.

"Instead of having silver mounted handles, a bundle of stout withes was twisted about the coffin near the head and near the foot, and when the bearers were ready to proceed they took a firm hold of the withes and went along.

"Last spring when I was digging for a den of young foxes in the old Mariaville burying ground I came upon a rotten coffin that had been boards crumbled at the touch of my spade. The coffin plate was rusted so that I could not make out any name. But those coiled and twisted limbs of sapling vellow birch were still strong enough to hold a yoke of oxen.

It fronts on the Mississippi river and the grounds belonging to the old mansion are more than one square in extent. Gen. Jourdan was a local celebrity in his time and Jourdan avenue, a thoroughfare in the lower part of the city. was named in his honor. He sold his property to M. Lavigne, who oc cupied it for many years, and it was acquired from the Lavigne estate by the late Judge C. H. Luzenburg, who was presiding magistrate of one of the sections of the criminal district court and subsequently district attor ney. When Judge Luzenburg died the property was sold to Capt. R. A. Corbin, who resided on it and improved the grounds, but did not alter the stately outlines of the house.

Now the ancient structure, yet in a good state of preservation, and one of the city's beauty spots, will again pass into new hands.
