Brer. Brown got busy last week announcing prospective republican candidates for the legislature. Now if he will please announce prospective candidates for county attorney on the republican side, also, we will have positive knowledge of those he does not want to see win.

A bill is being pushed through congress to pension all veterans of the civil war who have past the age of 62 years. Such a measure should have become a law years ago. No honor or return to the old soldiers could adequately compensate them for the trials and deprivations they experienced.

Among those spoken of for the republican nomination for state treasurer we hear the following: Peter Berlet and State Senator E. E. Good, both of Auburn; Senator A. E. Cady of St. Paul; L. S. Brain of Allion; Michael Riley of Fairbury, and A. D. Beemer of Cumming county, present warden of the penitentiary. A pretty good layout from which to choose.

Some subscriber of the Times wrote Brer. Brown last week, stating that one of his articles of the preceding week smelled to the irate reader like a small section of "limberger cheese" and worse than the late "cereals" Sekutura articles which caused so little sensation as to have been a frost to the author. Brer. Brown acknowledges his article must have been ill-smelling indeed.

The state republican committee at its meeting in Lincoln last Thursday after a hot fight decided to retain the coming state convention at Lincoln. It knocked into a cocked hat the direct primary idea, and wisely adopted the popular idea of nominating a United States senator in the state convention, thus doing away with the bargain and sale work of nomination by legislature by giving happy instructions from the republican party in advance. It was also recommended that the convention be asked to vote for or against the endorsement of the constitutional amendment relating to a railway commission. According to the basis of representation fixed of one delegate for every 125 votes cast for Judge Letton, with one delegate at large from each county, Sherman county will have a representation of six delegates in the convention. The state convention was fixed for Tuesday, August 22nd.
