The nearness of the congressional convention for the Big Sixth is causing more or less comment on the probable outcome. The fact that Congressman Kinkaid is receiving much favorable mention from a certain coterie of newspapers does not of necessity constitute the mouth-piece of the district. In fact in each county in the district may be found quite a following of republican voters who are not altogether satisfied with the work done by the present member during his two terms, and that coupled with the fact that he has served two terms in congress and has not pleased a very large number of voters especially in the republican territory, gives rise to the question, would it be wise to give him a third nomination? The opposition to Judge Kinkaid is much larger in his own party than his followers may perhaps be aware, and he would have an opposition that might be disastrous should he be nominated. The NORTHWESTERN has always in the past been an earnest supporter of Mr. Kinkaid but will not allow such friendship to lead it into an error which might prove costly to the republican party in this district. Among those whom we have heard mentioned as a possible new Moses in this district and one whom we understand would be favorably received by the republicans of the entire district, and of the cattle country especially, is Hon. Ed. Gould of Wolfbach, an extensive cattleman, and well and favorably known throughout the country. Owing to the questions arising between the cattlemen of the northwest and the government, would it not be a matter of most interest to the Big Sixth to send a man to congress who is in touch with the great interests above mentioned, who knows from the ground-work up all about it, whose integrity and honesty in unquestioned and upon whom the government can rely as being in direct touch with such interests? We do not know that Mr. Gould would accept such a nomination, we do not know personally acquainted with the gentleman, but we do know from knowledge of his personality and reputation as a business man that he would make a good servant of the people of the district, in case of his nomination and election.

In company with Attorney Starr, a NORTHWESTERN reporter visited the enterprising little town of Rockville last Friday, and by the way the first time we have been a visitor there. We found it one of the neatest, busiest villages in the county, and better than all a town whose people are a unit in sentiment, action and enterprise. They all work together for the upbuilding of their town and for good roads reaching out in every direction, which is one of the best drawing cards for any community. And another thing we found, and it is that from all we could learn, the new B. & M. line from Cairo through Loup City will pass through that village, instead of through Boelus, as formerly supposed. The stakes and thorough survey by the railroad people has been made, and leading Rockville financiers are assured the survey through way of Rockville will be the one on which they will surely build. We are not at liberty to say at this time by what sure authority we give the above, but our readers may rest satisfied that the best evidences point to Rockville instead of Boelus as the point through which they will come to Loup City. We will give further news later.

Rockville Items.
For county real estate, see O'Bryan & Lay.
Sheriff Williams was a visitor here last Monday.
E. Dwellus left on Wednesday's train for parts unknown.
J. L. Gray, the farmer-painter, is a daily visitor on our streets.
Miss Mary Tangerman, who has been very ill is much improved.
Editor Burleigh of THE NORTHWESTERN visited our burg last Friday.
A bright "Starr" was seen on our streets last Friday in broad daylight. This one has a prefix of R. P.
The Misses Agnes and Edna Nielson of Cairo, visited their uncle, Supervisor C. Nielson, last week.
Mr. Orvis and family of Grand Island arrived here on a visit to his brother, Frank Orvis, south of town, Monday.
Miss Dowden of Blair, Neb., after visiting with her sister, Mrs. Carl Treffer, north of Rockville, is now visiting at W. M. Smelser's.
L. N. Butts was out working somewhere north of town for three days last week. Now Louis be careful, or you will spoil your reputation.
Boelus Lodge No. 28, I. O. F., was transferred to Rockville July 11th, and the boys say there will be some thing doing in the goat-riding line.
Rockville has acquired something to be proud of and that is our baseball club. T. R. Lay, (the Mayor), is captain and pitcher, (and as long as the pitcher is the whole thing nowadays) there is no use to mention the rest of the players. Two weeks ago they played the score stood 5 to 1 in favor of Rockville, then our boys took a much needed nap and when they woke up at the end of the ninth they were beaten to the tune of 6 to 11.
JACK.

(From Another Correspondent.)
Chas. Coulter marketed hogs Monday.
Mr. Ellsworth is helping J. Plant

harvest this week.
L. Johnson and family went to Grand Island Sunday.
Mrs. C. Treffer and sister visited the Misses Hanisch Tuesday.
Relatives from Laramie, Wyo., are visiting with John Sundstrom's.
We are now having plenty of rain, another shower Monday morning.
Johnson Bros. went to work Tuesday morning on the Martin Slaborski house.
Andrew Thompson went back to Sparks, Nev., Monday morning where he is employed as air-brake inspector.
Our crack sluggers went to Grand Island Sunday to witness the ball game, and if possible gain a few pointers.
D. L. Price is contemplating a trip to San Francisco, and several of our citizens are wondering if it is a wedding tour.

Along R. R. No. 1
Pastures are getting short, but hay looks fine.
Mrs. R. D. Piper returned from a visit this week.
D. C. Leach has a splendid 90-acre field of winter wheat.
Everybody is cutting wheat and it is a good crop this year.
Farmers have just finished cutting their second crops of alfalfa.
Mrs. Andy Coppemith returned home from her visit this week.
Ross Warrick has a fine piece of winter wheat. Ross is a hustler.
A large number of farmers are noticed cutting their winter wheat, rye and oats.
John Heapy has traded farms with his father and is now engaged in putting up a new house.
Some corn fields are looking fine and coming to tassel, while other fields of corn are as yet quite small.
Farmers along R. R. No. 1 intending putting up boxes should do so now as all boxes are to be numbered the first of August.

Adam Zahn has been hauling out bridge timbers and working the roads in the north part of Elm, so the farmers may have good roads to get their crops to market.
Farmers are experiencing a good deal of trouble in getting water for their stock, lack of wind making their windmills idle. Some farmers have had to put in gasoline engines to do the work.
If farmers would cut the tall weeds on both sides of the road, it would help to keep snow from drifting this winter along R. R. No. 1, which same would be a good idea along all roads, as it would add greatly to the looks of the country.
Last Wednesday, a number of big-hearted farmers over in Elm township, hunched in and spent a day cultivating the corn fields of Mrs. Westernhouse. That was a good act and thoroughly appreciated, not only by the lady, but by everybody who knew of the generous act.
