The western roads are getting ready to fight the 2-cent passenger rate.

Minnesota also passed a 2-cent passenger rate. Railroad Magnate Hill's home, too.

James H. Eckles, former comptroller of the currency, died at his home in Chicago, Sunday.

The brewers of the state have announced their intention of fighting the new law forbidding their ownership of saloon property in the higher courts.

Wonder if Lancaster county has not finally got enough of McKesson? Joe Burns is bad enough, but he's sweetened by the side of pretty boy McKesson.

Referee Post has decided there is no lumber trust in Nebraska, whereat Attorney General Thompson has filed a bill of objections to the report of the referee post.

Senator Burkett says what a great many of us feel, that Roosevelt must be renominated for the presidency by the republican party. Nothing is now wanting to do that except Roosevelt's consent.

In Indiana last week the Standard Oil Co. was found guilty of rebating and made liable to fines aggregating nearly thirty millions of dollars. If the Rocky-fellers have to pay that it will necessitate another fraction of a cent raise in oil, eh?

The Harriman-Hill-Rockefeller combine to buy up the country in opposition to Rooseveltism fixes the price at five million dollars, eh? The late Nebraska legislature would have been difficult material for them to work on, don't you think?

Snow and a forty-mile gale at Chicago, eight feet of snow in Michigan, a lizzard throughout Wisconsin and fruit prospects killed in Missouri and Kansas, are some of the results of the weather last Friday in those benighted countries. Stand up for Nebraska.

Judging by the late explosion of the Kearney Hub over the loss of the normal appropriation, there will be more gubernatorial foot washers of the Hub variety who will find the hero they worshipped during the campaign is just an ordinary mortal instead of an immaculate deity.

Iowa has passed a very stringent anti-pass law, differing from that passed in Nebraska, practically prohibiting the giving of passes to anybody except bona fide employees. The lawyers and doctors in the Iowa senate fought hard to save to themselves an exception, but failed to win out. In this regard Nebraska did better by them.

A most dismal wall comes from the Kearney Hub, because, forsooth, the governor saw fit to draw his pen through the appropriation made by the last legislature of $85,000 for the benefit of the Kearney State Normal. The Hub was one of the papers that lauded Sheldon to the skies during the campaign as one of the greatest! Now it finds the governor is pig-headed, inconsistent, a man of wealth given him by his people, a sort of an aristocrat, incapable of understanding matters of interest to the common people and the possessor of "the evil genius of the intolerant and the intolerable ego." And the Hub man only found it out after the governor had in the interests of state economy swiped Kearney and the normal out of a nice little plum of $85,000. What a difference it makes whose ox is gored.

The Farmers Co-Operative Shipping Association, operating numerous elevators in Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, on April 4 decided to wind up its affairs and quit the grain business. The company had a good line of elevators in the country, its own selling offices at Kansas City, and at one time had a splendid manager. Its books showed at the annual meeting that the expenses of doing business, such as handling the grain and selling it, made necessary a margin between the price paid the grower of the grain and the price realized in the terminal market. This knowledge made the farmers lukewarm in their support, reasoning that by selling grain to independent dealers whose margin of profit was no more than their escape of the liability of loss through ownership of an interest in the co-operative concern, which was on an unsafe basis through admitted lack of capital. It is said to be $72,000 behind.
