

MRS. DONALD MCLEAN.

organization and the Daughters of the

With the true, clinging nature of women's hearts, the feminine descendants of the revolutionary patriots ap-

Revolution to be taken within the ciety! The latter, however, displayed no embracive inclination and threw almost incomprehensible were it not when awakened, outstrips all otner

Eligibility in either of the above mentioned organizations rests upon lineal descent from one who served his or her country during the revolu-

to the infant government. Descent from an officer does not necessarily figure in either society. Descent from

to his country, entitles one to the same regard as though descended from captain, colonel or brigadier general.

Besides the Sons of the American

In addition to the societies already named there exist a multitude of organizations of a patriotic nature, each ernment during the revolution.

The two well-known organizations es of America, the other the Na-clety of Colonial Dam

of colonial dames-one the Coloni differ from the organizations just me served.

pealed to the Sons of the American protecting fold of the masculine so-

American Revolution as another.

The Growth "Sons and Daughters" the writer does that which the "Sons" themselves do of Patriotic Societies

By Mrs. Donald McLean

Order of Cincinnati Founded by Revolutionary Officers Crop of Societies the Result of Centennial in 1876-Refusal of "Sons of Revolution" to Accept " Daughters " - " Daughters ' Soon Greatly Outnumber "Sons" -Elig.bility Rules for Both Are Democratic-"Colonial Dames" and Other Organizations.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.) the women back upon their own pride (Mrs. Donald McLean's name is known and their own resources.

very widely not only as that of the head The result was that in October, 1890, of the New York city chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, there was organized the national sobut as that of a writer and speaker of ability on topics of especial interest to women. Mrs. McLean is a prominent member of a number of organizations of rericd, but who was not of necessity, though it is presumed preferably, a patriot during the revolution. A society closely akin to this, whose membership consists entirely of men. is known as the Society of Colonial Wars. Eligibility consists in descent from one who served in the wars during the colonial period of the

and the state of t

dian war. The United States Daughters of 1812 is a society founded upon descent from ancestors, prominent in the country from 1783 and from those who served in the war of 1812.

This brief account of the birth and growth of patriotic societies barely ouches upon their excellent achievement; but this is manifestly true: The spirit of devotion to the nation, developed by such organizations, is the "outward, visible sign" which undoubtedly follows such "inward spiritual grace" and causes the existence of such organizations to be a matter of felicitation to the entire country and the United States is surely proud of its sons and daughters and they in turn are ready to lay their best abilities, whether in peace or war, upon the altar of their country's liberty.

THE WAY OF LOVE.

And Nothing Mattered So Long as They Were United.

Once upon a time there was a man who fell in love with a woman. And they were married.

After a while the bills came in and he man sat around and thought about them. Then he went to his wife and said: "Dearie, can't you go a little slow? And his wife replied: "Alas! never learned how. I fear that I am naturally extravagant. I don't mean to be, but I am. Tell me that you love me." "I love you," replied the man. that which the "Sons" themselves de-After a while the stork paid a friendly visit. When the excitement was of the enterprise are Mr. Madison clined to do, the latter thus exhibiting a lack of that "seeing vision" which over and things quieted down, the Du Maurier proclaims a priceless gift. man took note of certain things that in other words, the "Sons" did not were happening. The servants wouldn't foresee that a declination to receive stay. The baby was either overfed the feminine descendants o' revoluor underfed. The spirit of Harmony tionary sires would deprive the society had slipped out. And the man sat Sons of the American Revolution of around and thought about it some an able, ardent and achieving element. more. Then he went to his wife and Therefore it came about that the so-"Dearie, there's something said: ciety Sons of the American Revoluwrong with our domestic economy tion, organized in 1889, exists as one Things ought to be different. The house isn't run right. Things are not done calmly or systematically. Can't vou-His wife shook her head. "I don't know how," she replied. "I never had much order. I can't help it, but-do you love me?"

admission. "I love you more and more," replied the man. And after another while the woman grew to be an invalid. She refused to take care of herself, and became morose, irritable and incapable of doing much of anything.

thought, she came to him and said: "Dearest, I have been a failure. I'm

Head of Siberian Argali.

Efforts are now being made in this | deed, is the imagination which cannot country to form a national collection foresee the intense interest which of heads and horns, and Dr. W. T. would attach to certain groups, such, for example, as the Cervidae (antlered Hornaday has given impetus to the ruminants), when it is possible for the movement by presenting his private eye to comprehend at one sweep the collection of over 100 rare specimens long line of forms related to the Altai as a nucleus. Besides Dr. Hornaday, wapiti. Imagine, also the distribution who represents the Camp Fire club in of the genus Ovis (mountain sheep) the movement to establish the collecfrom western Mongolia southward to tion, the other immediate promoters India, westward to Sardinia and Mo-

White Mountain Goat.

will maintain the collection temporarily in the picture gallery of its adminis- rocco and northeastward by the grand tration building in Bronx park. New loop to Kamtchatka, Alaska and Mex-York city, when completed, and it is ico. Then a second series will disexpected that in the course of time, play the ungulate resources of the a separate building in the park may continents. It will be made of great can be called upon to do such serv-And one day, as the man sat and be provided by the city for its housing. zoological value by maps illustrating ice. "Sportsmen and scientists and all the geographical distribution of faminature-lovers are showing the keenest lies, of genera and of spe that is said to be the largest known. The left tusk measures on the curve plaited lawn frill on either side being 11 feet 51/2 inches and the other 11 feet, the net weight of the two being 293 pounds. They are, in fact, so large that one who first sees them is prone tie to believe that they have survived Doubtless we shall suffer considerfrom some mammoth long extinct. They were once the property of King Menelik of Abyssinia, who gave them to a European officer. In the course of time they were brought to the London ivory market, where they were purchased by Mr. Rowland Ward, from whom they were bought by Mr. Charles T. Barney, chairman of the executive committee of the board of managers of the New York Zoological society. Two other especially remarkable heads are, one of a Rocky Mountain bighorn, the other of a white mountain goat, which were obtained from the northwestern wilds of America. To stalk either of these animals. rav.' the sheep in particular, is work that exercises all the hunter's qualities. physical and mental. The sheep, inhabitants of the mountains, at home among terrifying crags and precipices, perched on appallingly precarious heights, and leaping across bottomless depths, issue one of the noblest challenges to man's hunting instinct, and the mounted head of one makes an effective monument to the prowess of his conqueror. One pair of horns in the collection is from the great Siberian argali, the largest mountain sheep in the world, and wielder of the largest horns of his species, a picture of which is shown in our large illustration. They are nearly five feet in length, and measure in circumference at their base a little less than two feet. They were obtained for Dr. Hornaday in the Altai mountain, in Mongolia, by the agents of Mr. Carl Hagenbeck during the expedition he sent out to secure specimens of the Prjevalskl norse.

DROPER THING

PIN DRESS

Much of our interest is now cen- | velvets are no longer threateningtered in frills, and here I find myselt they have arrived. A coat and skirt again conceitedly exulting in my suc- of dark blue and black velveteen cessful knack of prophecy. You may met recently looked extremely well be deceived in the cost of a coat and under the influence of a dark blue velskirt, but the frills are of a more tell- vet hat with masses of black wings tale disposition, and the eyes of the at one side, and over this fell a veil least expert can detect at once which of dark blue soft chenille net. are made of fine muslin or batiste,

One would have to search far to of our summer's affections and the new princess dress which is draped the skirt slightly at one side. The under-vest is of fine white tulle illusion, encrusted with large flower motifs.

A very superior specimen has a hand-embroidered center plait, flanked | than the one pictured here. The ma-One of the features of the collection on either side with a lace frill; and a terial of which it is made is of the just begun is a pair of elephant tusks very attractive model has an insertion palest sky blue satin, cut in a sort of lace down the center of the front. a of combination of the pinafore frock edged with lace, while the collar band is of transparent lace, and the base across the figure and opens all down of this is finished with a narrow black a social and patriotic character.)

The centennial celebration of 1876 the men who "made and preserved us gave an impetus to patriotic impulse a nation" inspire the souls of their deas directed toward organization which | scendants; and woman's enthusiasm had lain dormant in a large measure and reaches, on flying feet, the gow since the years immediately succeeding the war of the revolution.

of high endeavor. The Sons of the American Revolution number several As all the world knows, the Order thousand-probably under 10,000. The of the Cincinnati was formed imme-Daughters of the American Revoludiately upon the cessation of that war and just before the disbanding of the tion over 30,000. These revolutionary daughters, hav-continental army. It was composed ing made clear to erring man his misof the officers who served through the take in refusing their gentle companstruggle, Washington being the presiionship, now entertain the most amident of the society. It is the only organization in this country promoting able feeling toward their brother sothe rights of primogeniture, and it is ciety. The latter apparently reciprosaid that Washington hesitated ere cates, and the two organizations begranting his approval to such an or- ing in perfect harmony, although unganization or becoming its president der separate governments, have become a leaven of patriotism for the because of the fear that an aristoentire country. They are represented cratic sentiment would be unduly fostered in a democratic country.

in every state, city and hamlet. All institutions of learning know them, However, Washington did consent from the public schools to the univerto take the office, and the organization sities. All rostrums have welcomed exists to this day, commanding the them, from the old-time town meeting respect of all men and not conflicting to the great assemblages in fashionwith the best American spirit. Membership in this society descends from able halls. Historic spots no longer lie neglected. but are crowned with the eldest son to the eldest son (womlasting granite and immutable bronze. en are barred), and the insignia, which is a golden eagle, cut clear, descends The heroes who spilled their blood upon the soil, then consecrated by that with the membership. In lieu of direct descendants the title and insignia red libation, no longer sleep in unknown or forgotten graves. "Their pass to the eldest son of the nearest branch of the family. The portraits children rise up and call them bless. and miniatures of many of the revolu- ed," and their country is rejuvenated by the proud memories of their martionary officers display this badge of the Order of the Cincinnati as their velous prowess. proudest decoration.

This, of course, was the father, so to speak, of all patriotic organizations. It is not, perhaps, widely known that a society was formed directly after tion, whether in the army or on the the formation of the Cincinnati pur- high seas or in giving "material aid" porting to represent the very principles of which Washington was such a warm supporter-that is, the democratic as opposed to the aristocratic a private, unknown save by his name spirit in the country. This second and a record of unflinching service society was known as the "Veteran Corps of Artillery." It, too, was composed largely of officers of the revolution and men who had made good Thus a truly American spirit is conrecords in that struggle.

It never grew to such proportions Revolution and the Daughters of the or prominence as the Order of the Cincinnati, though always highly re-American Revolution, there is a so ciety of the Sons of the Revolution garded by those who understood it. It and one of the Daughters of the Revonow lives in combination with the lution. The former claim to have been society formed of the descendants of formed prior to the Sons of the Amerthe herces of 1812, the title being ican Revolution. It is a mooted questhe Veteran Corps of Artillery and tion. It is a fact, however, that the War of 1812. Therefore, this dual-Daughters of the Revolution are an named organization has a membership composed of men descended from anoffshoot from the parent society, the Daughters of the American Revolucestors who fought in the two wars of 1776 and 1812. In a few instances tion. the same ancestors fought in both.

This was possible if the patriot engaged in the revolutionary war in extreme youth and lived to hardy manhood to fight in 1812.

having as an incentive the same loyal With the exception, however, of purposes toward its native land. these two societies, formed in the Those best known are the masculine early period of the country's history. society Founders and Patriots and all desire for such patriotic organizaa feminine society of the same name. tions seemed to die, until, as has been To be eligible to membership in either said, the celebration of the one lunof these one must be descended from ancestors who assisted in founding the dredth anniversary of the Declaration country during its colonial period and endence animated the seed of were indubitably loyal to our own govpatriotic growth which has since flowered at this end of the new century into full and luxuriant bloom. Within the last few years well-nigh a countless number of organizations, bearing titles significant of historic association, have sprung into being.

Of these "The Sons" and "Daugh aned in that eligibility to maists in a descent f to be remembered that the spirits of done what I should have done. I Hornaday. "Indeed, valuable gifts are have been lamentably weak. Aren't you, honestly now, sorry that you married me? "No," said the man.

"But I am a failure. You ought to be sorry. Why aren't you sorry?" And the man smiled as he replied: Because, sweetheart, if I hadn't married you I never could have loved you as much as I do now."-The Reader.

Source of His Supply.

Mrs. Donald McLean, who has been re-elected president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, said of ancestry at a dinner in New York: "I think we would all, if we had our choice, prefer to be well born. Good children are more apt to come from good than from bad parents. Then, besides, good birth is a recommendation. In everything we consider the source. It is like the story of the school teacher. There was a teacher, teaching in a very poor neighborhood, who received daily gifts of flowers from one of her pupils, a ragged little boy. The flowers were of all sorts, sometimes costly hothouse blooms, sometimes simple, old-fashioned garden flowers. As a rule, they were somewhat faded. One day the boy brought the teacher a great bouquet of mauve orchids. To be sure they were much wilted, but none the less it could be seen that they had once cost a great deal of money. The puzzled teacher, as she tock them, said: 'Jimmy, where do you get all these flowers that you give me? You don't steal them, I hope.' 'Oh, no, ma'am, the youngster-answered, 'father's an ash

Revolution in China.

man.' "

It is reported that the revolutionary and that secret organizations are increasing in number, especially in the Yangtse valley. Chinese officials say that 'thousands of revolutionists are concealed in the foreign quarters of the cities, thus placing themselves out side the jurisdiction of the Chinese courts. The revolutionary agitation recently was carried into the army. Murderous plots against the Manchus continue to be discovered in Pekin.

Scotsmen Wanted. Scotsmen are immigrants of the finest quality, and they bring abundant cash in the pockets as well as begin to accumulate cash as soon as they arrive. This is the type of immigrant Australasia needs, and as both

New Zealand and Australia can offer vastly more than Canada, we ought, sooner or later, to see a stream of canny Scotsmen with the hardy hodies shrewd brains and the well our direction .- Melbourne Life.

La Belle Sauvage. We may educate and civilize woman as we will, but the instinct of sav agery will cling to her still. If lovely woman can adorn herself with any thing in the nature of scalps, or set herself a-jingling with beads and tinkling gew-gaws, she never loses her pportunity. She is now decking herelf forth with jeweled imitations o creeping things innumerable.—Londo World.

Misfortune by Contraries. "That fellow is at a standstill."

thoroughly incompetent. I haven't interest in the project," declares Dr.

Grant for the Boone and Crockett club and Mr. John M. Phillips for the Lewis and Clark club. Circular letters have been addressed to all the sportsmen and travelers of America and others likely to be interested in the matter calling attention to the scheme and thereby giving them an opportunity of obtaining niches for all

The collection will be under the direction of members of the big-game hunting clubs, as well as of sportsmen at large, and the committee, selected from them to acquire specimens and to pass judgment on gifts, will maintain a high standard as to the test for

The New York Zoological society

ime in the Temple of Nimrod.

A Magnificent Pair of Tusks.

coming in rapidly; in fact, the average is something of value at least every other day. Within the past few days a gift of great importance and value has been made, in camera, and for certain reasons it cannot be announced for another month or so. When the announcement is finally made it will both surprise and delight all persons who are interested in the collection because of the importance of the addition. All American sportsmen feel that owing to the rapid disappearance movement in China is gaining strength of the big game animals in America, as in most of the remaining quarters of the world, it is expedient to gather together all the evidences that are accessible for recording the existence of species that may soon be extinguished. The exhibit, as at present proposed, will be arranged in two Broker-Say, Flush, could you lend series-zoological and geographical. The first will be grouped in accordance with the system of nature, to show evolution and relationships. Dull, in- 1 get it back?

INFLUENCE OF DIET ON SLEEP.

Effect of Certain Foods Largely Imaginary, Says Physician. Diet has little influence on sheep, except in so far as it may produce disturbances + of digestion and through these of the general balance of health. The hypnotic effects of certain foods, such as onions, lined pockets of their race setting in jettuce, milk, etc., are chiefly imaginary. Even the time of the last meal of the day is of relatively little importance, except that it is well to let this be at least two or is many healthy laboring men habitually fall asleep over, their pipes directly after supper, and children, after poking the spoon into their little eyes, nod off over the tea table, with the bread and butter still lutched in their chubby fists.

The processes of digestion prot bly go on more slowly during sleep bly go on more movely carried out, as out they are perfectly carried out, as they are perfectly carried out, as

The Real Question.

me a hundred? Flush--That's not the point, don't vou know-could I lend it-but could

> Indeed, a moderate amount of food in the stomach or intestines seems to promote slumber. Many night workers, for instance, sleep much better by taking a light or even full supper just before retiring .- Dr. Woods Hutchin-

> > Dog Has Musical Talent.

Musical Director Passmore, of the Shaftesbury theater, London, has a dog which he avers has real musical talent and is a ventriloquist. He has trained him to "sing" the refrain of a new song entitled "The Fiddler and His Dog," and is giving public perthree hours before retiring. But formances. The dog has three ways even this rule has many exceptions, of barking and changes from one to another at signals from his master.

Decline in Birth Rate.

A government report of vital sta-tistics recently published covering the decade ending with the year 1900 re veals a marked decline in the birth rate of England and Wales. In 1876 the rate was as high as 36.3 per 1,000, but at the end of 1900 it was 28.7. The birth rate is falling more rapidly than that of any other civilized coun ably from the machinations of the inexperienced or willfully wicked washerwoman, and those who are going to indulge themselves in frills of fine quality had best set about it at once to find a successful clear starcher. And having discovered her, teach her how not to starch.

It seems quite right and proper that these dainty-laced decorations of tuckers and rufflings should accompany the beaver and panne hats, trimmed with feathers and well allied to velvet gowns, they may pass for what we should have called in the early days of the century "brave ar-

I confess myself much in love with the notion of the plain dress which looks simple, with an elaborate shirt and frillings and ruffles, and crowded with a very expensive hat with beautiful feathers upon it. And, talking of beautiful feathers, I would refer once more to those new elaborations of the ostrich feather.

The manufacturers have contrived now to extend the length of their fronds, so that they have a shaggy appearance, and they are as delight. fully attractive as novel. Indeed, by the side of them the ordinary ostrich feather, even if it be of very good quality, seems quite uninteresting.

shaded, two dark colors being most color will also do good service.

There is a great rage for the satin along the opening on one side of the hat, and this shares favor with the hat skirt and borders the hem. Our art of silks. An excellent model which ist gives a little sketch of the pretty is enjoying much favor having the way the fullness of the bodice is held brim of white silk, bound with brown by the stitched bands rising back and velvet, and the crown very full and front, centered by an oval emlarge and made entirely of brown vel- broidered motif in the shape of a vet; innocent of any trimming whatso- buckle. The sleeves are of net, like ever, and somewhat in the old beef- the vest, and are finished with a twist eater shape, is this crown. The striped tweeds and the striped | valenciennes.

FOREST NOT ALWAYS SILENT. panzee frequently breaks the silence

That Wild Animals Converse.

The chatter of monkeys is a real chatter and conversation, some folks | say. Prof. R. L. Garner, who has spent the greater part of several years in the forests of Africa studying the languages of monkeys and other animals. says silence is not an absolute element in the safety of wild animal life. Wild animals are more taciturn than domestic animals, as also are the wild tribes of human beings. This he attributes to lack of social intimacies and nomadic habits. The carnivora, the only natural enemies which other animals have any cause to fear pend almost entirely upon the sense seizing their prey while asleep. The animals which have the fewest reasons to fear betrayal by their voices are by nature the most silent. During which are embellished with little em-Sometimes these feathers are pire wreaths in blue ribbon work. To increase the princess effect the entire successfully used, such as peacock dress is bordered with a fine pale blue and brown, and two tones of one blue passementerie, which outlines the bretelles of the bodice, descends of blue satin ribbon and flounces of

of the forest by answering the cries Prof. Garner Authority for Assertion of the various other animals. The gorilla is less loquacious, but there are times when he ignores all danger of betrayal and gives vent to a deluge of speech. Other monkey species are persistent talkers, and can be heard at almost any hour. The trumpeting of the elephant is common at night, and the bellowing of the hippopotamus by day or night. The antelopes cry at night when the leopard is on the hunt for them, the latter also grunting,

The heaviest stag which has been killed this season in Scotland was a royal, which scaled 371 pounds. This immense beast was shot in Arran deer through the sound of their voices, de forest by one of lord and lady Graham's guests at Brodick castle. The of smell in pursuing their game, every stags in Arran are remarkable both pecies having its peculiar odor. Also for size and quality, and the forest he carnivora generally hunt at night, carries a heavy stock of red deer, and affords first-rate sport. The shooting lodge on the west side of the island where the best stalking is obtaine during the first month of the season vered ontside with over 200 pairs mer's three years' res son, in the American Magazine.

