AN AMAZING EVOLUTION.

Only Sixteen Seedless Oranges in 1879, Now Ten Million Boxes.
Mr. La Salle A. Maynard tells "The Story of the Seedless Orange" in The World To-Day. Mrs. Luther C. Tibbits of California obtained in 1872 four orange shoots from the agricultural department at Washington, sent there by William F. Judson, American consul at Bahia, Brazil. They were presented to him by a native, who had several shoots of a seedless orange tree growing in a swamp on the Amazon.

"Mrs. Tibbits brought the infant trees carefully home and her husband planted them in the garden. One died, another was chewed up by a predatory cow, but two lived, and five years later produced 16 oranges. These 16 golden globes and their immediate successors produced results comparable only in value to the famous discovery of another kind of gold in Sutter's millrace, and brought fame and no small fortune to their lucky owner."

The new orange could be produced only by budding, and the first buds sold at $1 each, and later at $5 a dozen. One box of naval oranges was grown in 1880; since then the annual product has risen to 10,000,000 boxes, and "the two trees which the cow did not chew have multiplied to over 4,000,000." The original parent tree living in 1903 was transferred to the yard of the Glen wood hotel at Riverside, Cal., President Roosevelt aiding in the ceremony of transplantation. Last year the tree bore two bushels of choice fruit, which, of course, were expressed to the White House. In southern California alone $100,000,000 is invested in citrus fruit culture, chiefly of oranges, and in related industries.

War Against Stray Curs.
The war of extermination against stray curs has been taken up with vigor in Baltimore. The health department is conducting the crusade and is being strongly supported by leading physicians. "No dog should be permitted to run at large at any time of the year in the city or country," declares Dr. N. G. Keirle, director of the Pasteur department of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. "Even if a dog is muzzled," Dr. Keirle argues, "he could scratch a child or any person with a wire muzzle, and that would be just as bad as a bite if the skin were broken, for the dog's saliva would get into the wound. The germ of hydrophobia lives in the saliva, and the muzzle is not a guaranty of safety."

Population of the World.
The population of the world is now estimated to be about 1,503,000,000. Of this number 150,000,000 are black, 600,000,000 yellow and 750,000,000 white.
