MORE RAPID WORK IN VIEW

"Insurgents" Said to Be Causing Delay, They Giving More Trouble than the Democrats.

Washington. - Beginning Monday the daily sittings of the senate will commence at 10 o'clock in the morning. The hour has been advanced in the hope of expediting final action on the tariff bill by more rapidly disposing of the long speeches as well as of the detailed discussion of the various disputed schedules. The consideration of the measure has developed greater opposition on the part of a dozen or so of republican senators than was expected, and the supporters of the bill feel that every possible effort must be made to exhaust their criticism and bring the bill to a vote. So far, however, they have reseived no encouragement from the "insurgents," and the republican leaders are quite in the dark as to when the end may be reached. Indeed, they are finding less difficulty on that point in dealing with the independent republicans and the opinion is freely expressed that but for this antagonism a day might soon be set which would decide the fate of the measure.

The discussion this week will deal with the various paragraphs which have been passed over, but there will be a few speeches on the general tariff question, including one by Senator Depew, which probably will be delivered Monday. Senator Clay has prepared and will deliver, probably on Tuesday, an elaborate speech criticising the sugar schedule and undertaking to show that it is in the interest of the sugar combination. The razor schedule will receive first attention Monday and Senator Simmons will conntinue his efforts to have the rate

Senator Bailey will continue to press his demand for a vote on the income tax as a feature of the tariff bill, but it is an open secret in the senate that he is not now nearly so confident of a successful result of such a vote as he was in the beginning of the agitation. Indeed, he has confided to some of his friends his conviction that some of the advocates of such a tax have been "picked off" by the enemy. The general opinion senate has been materially weakened | throughout the country." by the decision of the president not to press for the tax. At any event, question will be reached this week.

made to pass the Philippine tariff bill on Monday and the Porto Rico bill on Thursday. The latter measure will be reported Monday. Both bills will arouse discussion, but it is not believed there will be any stubborn opposition to either, and the committee having them in charge are confident of disposing of each after a day of de-
