Address on Leaving Senate.

Talks of War Record and Pleads for Erasure of Mason and Dixon Line-Tells of Pity for Millionaires.

Washington.-Having attained his lifetime ambition, a seat in the United States senate, Senator James Gordon of Mississippi the other day bade farewell to his fellow-senators in an address that held them spellbound for 20 minutes.

So deeply touched were many senators that they violated one of the most strict of senate rules, and applauded the aged veteran from Mississippi. After a scant two-months' service time enough, however, to win the hearts of every one in the capitol-Senator Gordon gives place to Le Roy Percy, the choice of the Mississippi legislature to fill the unexpired term of the late Anson J. For dramatic interest, the scene in the senate has seldom been equaled in | When Coach Plunges into River He recent years.

As one who fought until the very last, Senator Gordon asked that ses tional feeling, bitterness bred in the civil war, be forgotten. As one who Pacific train plunged into Spanish had owned 800 slaves, he implored river near this city in a driving, blindagainst breeding race hatred by agitating the negro question; and here he read his poem, "My Ole Black Mammy." As one who had been a millionaire who now is both poor and happy, he denounced the "flannel mouths," who stir up envy and hatred against the rich among those who are less lucky.
