TALK ON ETIQUETTE

Beau Says United States More Polite Than France.

World's Most Famous Cotillion Leader Calls on Youth of His Nation to Recover Lost Science of Politeness.

Paris, France.—M. Fouquieres, who is called the world's most famous leader of cotillions and is also known as the "last true dandy of the Beau Brummel type," finds that the United States and England are now more polite than France, thus contradicting F. Hopkinson Smith, who has held up France as a model in matters of etiquette. The noted society leader has issued a stirring appeal to Parisians in which he describes the decline of courtesy, calls politeness a most useful quality and urges his fellow citizens to regain their reputation for good manners as they are recovering in serenity their reputation for berism.

"Politeness is disappearing," declared M. Fouquieres. "It must be admitted that we are no longer the most courteous people in the world. The politeness which was formerly a national virtue, and the former gallantry which always characterized Frenchmen are today neglected, ridiculed and almost despised.

"Look at our young folk. They are formal, stiff, indifferent and disdainful; their movements are identical and homelike like a funeral ballet, and they affect a phlegmatic countenance which is calm to criticism, for it is the mode.

CONSERVES HER JAW POWER

Nebraska Man Has Device by Which Mother-in-Law's Maxillaries Run Machine.

New York.—"By a system of differential pulleys and straps I have devised a scheme to make my wife's jaw do useful work when she chews gum," says a man who utters he is J. Montgomery Gubbins, Omaha, Neb.

"With this device attached to her jaws," he continued, "my wife runs her sewing machine and thoroughly enjoys herself while doing so. I invented this simple machine because my wife has rheumatism in both ankles and has a stiff wrist. With a similar machine I have set my mother-in-law to work running a churn. It takes more power to run a churn than it does a sewing machine. I came out to look over the field with the view of trying my invention on the New York public if I found gum chewing popular.

OLD GARDEN OF MONTEZUMA

Brief is Prevalent in Mexico City That Ancient Aztec Lords Grew Rare Flowers.

Mexico City.—That an unknown, highly cultured people, of whom neither history, tradition or legend has preserved any record, flourished in or near the valley of Mexico and enjoyed refined chocolate and aromatic beverages from transplanted tropical fruits grown by them in a marvellously built garden at Guatemala, from 1500 to 1590 years ago, is the latest theory of Guillermo Teller, regarding the recently discovered garden of Montezuma.

Mr. Teller applied to the department of public instruction for a special permit to make exploration in the garden. He states that concerning 21 successive raddices, on the land with codices in possession of the national museum has led him to believe that the garden has great antiquity. He has been devoting a large part

SHE HAD 1,001 PROPOSALS

Young Seattle Widow, a Telephone Operator, to Marry the Last One to Decline.

Seattle.—New York may have its herd of 185 loves in the person of one Roscoe H. Sanborn, but Seattle has a real merry widow with 1,001 proposals for her credit. The one thousand and first man is the lucky one and the wedding will occur shortly.

The merry widow is Mrs. Rilla May Dike, a phone operator. It is questionable if Mrs. Dike ever saw more than a scant half-dozen of the 1,001 suitors. But that did not detract from the ardor of their love epistles. They wrote from the north, the south, the east and the west.

Mrs. Dike was formerly an Iowa girl—Ottumwa being her home. Three years ago she married and with her husband went to South Dakota. He was killed in a wreck and Mrs. Dike bravely faced the world and took up a claim.

She called her place "Ottumwa," and it is still known by that name in South Dakota.

At the state fair in Huron, S. D., in 1908, Mrs. Dike was awarded the prize for being the prettiest young woman in the state. Newspapers devoted columns to her photo and beauty.

At first letters came by two and three, but finally the rural delivery man had to put on an extra mule to aid in hauling the mail out to "Ottumwa."

Mrs. Dike has a bungalow on her 160 acres. There she opened and read every one of the proposals. Her house needed papering. Nothing would better serve the purpose than a ton or two of love letters. Mrs. Dike plastered the walls and the ceilings and used the photos for roofing, and with the surplus built a chicken corral. Over all the pasted this large sign:

"Love letter shack. Tack new proposals on vacant space."

Mrs. Dike was literally driven off her claim. She came to Seattle in 1909 and found employment. There, however, her beauty attracted other wooers, and though she fought them off with her rugged South Dakota experience she at last fell victim to Cupid, and a Seattle business man won her hand.

FISH DRAGS MAN FROM BOAT

Enormous Muskellunge Lunges at Captain When About to Use Gaff—Fight in Water.

Minocqua, Wis.—An enormous muskellunge, weighing 62 pounds, and lacking only four inches of five feet in length, pulled Howard Kennedy, a Milwaukee fisherman, into the lake before being captured. Mrs. Kennedy fired four shots at the fish with a deer rifle before placing a bullet in a vital spot.

The fish was hooked on Lorraine lake, between Minocqua and Rhinelander, in the woods south of here, where the Laura Fishing club of Milwaukee has a camp. The Milwaukee man and his wife were fishing when Kennedy got the strike and reeled in his prize until he was almost ready to snuff it.

As he reached out with his gaff, the fish gave a lunge and Kennedy was in the lake. His wife helped him to catch the painter of the boat, and then he hung to the fish while Mrs. Kennedy used the rifle.

TRUTH TELLING IS A VICE

Philadelphian Startles Teachers' Institute by Saying Tendency to Lie is Natural.

Pittsburg, Pa.—That an alarming proportion of children between the ages of 7 and 12 years are addicted to lying, was the statement made by Dr. Earl Barnes of Philadelphia, in an address to teachers attending the Allegheny County institute. In an address on "The Truth-Telling of Children," he referred to a specific instance. In drawing this conclusion and declared that the tendency to lie is natural under the natural law of self-preservation, and that the average child can't help but lie.

He told his audience that "truth telling is not a virtue but a vice," and asserted that "the fox that tells he will die." He then drew parallels to illustrate his statement. He insisted that "animals that tell the truth surely will die."

"Lying in America began with the Indians," he said, "and he left progeny behind him to perpetuate his qualities."

Dr. Barnes took up business life and said that on the whole, there was great stability in business as it rests on men's word. He declared that any kind of fraud is due to the force of a weak nature, and contended that "this

COWBOY MAYOR LOOKS HIGHER

James C. Dahliman, the cowboy mayor of Omaha, flushed by his success in securing the nomination for governor, has widened his field of ambition and it is said may become a candidate for United States senator.

Dahliman was born in 1856 in the village of Yorktown, a place that was then right in the range country. As a boy he received an education such as the town where he lived afforded but when hardly out of short pants he straddled a horse and became a cowboy. All over the state, until 1890, he rode the range. In 1890 and when the settlers commenced to encroach upon the big stockmen of Texas, the drive to the north commenced. Dahliman was among those who moved, and during that year followed a big bunch of cattle across the country to Nebraska, driving to Dawes county, well beyond the outposts of civilization in the extreme northwest corner of the state. Here he rode the range for several years, serving a portion of the time as inspector of brands for the cattlemen of Nebraska and Wyoming.

With the building of the northwestern railroad toward the Black Hills there was a rush of settlers and the town of Chadron was established. It was a typical frontier city, a large portion of its inhabitants being gamblers, sure thing men and thugs, who terrorized the reputable inhabitants. One day when Dahliman was in town a committee of citizens called upon him and offered him the position of mayor. He laughed at the idea.

Dahliman rode back to camp, where he lay awake all night and thought. When morning broke he arose and ate breakfast as usual, but he did not go out with the boys. Instead, he bade them good-by, remarking that he had quit the range.

Saddling his cow pony, Dahliman rode into Chadron, where he called upon the city council and told them he was ready to accept the position of mayor. He was immediately elected and that day took charge of public affairs. He organized a police force and soon Chadron was as quiet and orderly a town as there was in the state.

Dahliman held the office of mayor of Chadron four years, during the time being elected sheriff of Dawes county, an office which he held six years. In 1898 he removed to Omaha and engaged in the live stock commission business. He is now serving his second term as mayor of Omaha.

M'CLUNG FOR THE TREASURY

No longer young himself, Franklin MacVeagh of the United States treasury is the patron of youth. He brought the north wind with him to the flat banks of the yellow Potomac, a Washington correspondent asserts.

So short coats, fancy vests and stick pins to match shirts and cravats—the visible symbols of a new class—have displaced boots and rusty plug hats in the somber offices of the nation's treasury.

Lee McClung, the new treasurer of the United States, is a bachelor of forty, but a boy when he is compared with his antediluvian forerunners.

McClung's blood, Confederate, though whiggish, points to his politics with a pretty certain guess. However, he makes no flourish of his views, and in his speech, now accepted by the east, he declined to mention John Marshall, the chief justice, or Albert Sidney Johnston, killed at Shiloh, or John Morgan, the cavalry leader and raider—all of whom were of his family in the past—unless in answer to a question.

At Yale McClung—still square, muscular and heavy breasted, slim at the waist, and thewed in the legs like a racer—was captain of the football team and famous as a plunger and runner. Socially he was a leader. In all respects he was conspicuous and popular. He went into traffic as a profession—obtaining freight for a railroad—and then he became treasurer of his university, watching $10,500,000 of endowments and receiving $1,250,000 annually in rents, interest and tuition.

Some of the McClungs—Scotch Presbyterians, back in the Highlands fierce men in love, in war, and as musicians—brought their temperamental eccentricities to America and handed them down to their generations. A notable heir, notorious heir, indeed, to such an inheritance, was Alexander Keith McClung, the Mississippi duelist, who should have maintained a graveyard of his own and employed an undertaker in his retinue.

THINK CHANLER WAS DUPED

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winthrop Chanler have recently been the topic for gossip in two continents. It being alleged that Mrs. Chanler tricked her husband into turning over to her his property, leaving him penniless. They were married in Paris June 18 last. Mr. Chanler, whose portrait is here shown, is connected with the Astors of New York and is well known in society in that city. He inherited a large fortune and became an artist early in life. His first wife, who was Miss Julia R. Chamberlain, obtained a divorce from him in France in 1908. Mr. Chanler formerly was sheriff of Dutchess county, New York. He is a brother of Stuyvesant Chanler, ex-lieutenant governor of the Empire state. Mrs. Chanler, better known as Lina Cavallieri, is celebrated for her great beauty as well as for her fine voice. She is the daughter of an Italian workman, and in early life sold flowers on the street. Then she became a cafe singer, and through the aid of a Russian count studied for the operatic stage. Mme. Cavallieri's debut in Madrid was a failure, but she persevered, and finally won great success in Europe as well as in the United States.

Although neither Cavallieri nor the lawyers who drew the contract have divulged its terms, it is said that it contained a provision that Cavallieri was to receive $30,000 yearly, and a stipulation was made that this sum was to be paid whether they lived together or were separated or divorced.

Chanler was anxious to give the singer all he possessed. There is a clause in the contract, which was principally drawn by Cavallieri's French notary, that is believed to have compromised the trust fund of $250,000 belonging to Chanler's two young daughters as well as the alimony allowed by the courts to the first wife.

It is believed by Chanler's friends that the marriage contract is void, because the first wife and the guardian of the children did not sign it.

BRITISH NURSE IN AMERICA

The experience of a competent nurse in the first steps of her humane though arduous mission is a little history of itself. This is exemplified in the career of Miss Elizabeth Murray, who recently came to the United States to study up the methods of our great hospitals. Her tour of inspection is later to take in the Philippine Islands and China, and she will return to England to go on duty at the military hospital in Devonshire.

The life of an active English army nurse is one of great self-sacrifice and toil. There have been instances in the career of such where short rations meant an onion a day for food. Miss Murray was brought up to an ideal country life, excelling in athletics, and first attending the Stevens hospital in Dublin. After her graduation she took a six months' course in fever cases in London, and later still received her diploma from Bolland hospital, Dublin.

When she finally entered the British army reserve corps she was welcomed into the organization by Princess Christian, a daughter of Queen Victoria. That association has very rigid rules. The applicant for admission must be of good family, perfect health and careful professional training. A high grade of intelligence also is required. There is a certain social life, too, for the army nurse, for she must necessarily associate with the wives of officers at military posts.

As "Sister Murray" this noble woman, who has devoted her life to the welfare of others, is a true type of the modern nurse whose skilled ministrations are a vital element in army life.

"I can," she replied, "unless you think you will be able to support a wife as soon as it develops into something else."

MAN'S WORD MUST BE KEPT

Essential of Business Life is to Have the Confidence of Your Associates.

A man's word is his stock in trade, and it cannot be broken without injuring his commercial standing. Many good men grow careless of their word and fall to see the importance of keeping it until they have suffered some serious consequence. There are those whose word is said to be as good as their bond. Whether it is or not, their word must be good, for the world is not easily deceived about such matters.

Keeping one's word is more often a matter of habit than character. Good men, with the best of intentions, sometimes become careless in respect to a promise, a statement or an engagement, and while no harm is meant, it might as well be, for one cannot habitually break his word without losing his caste as a "man of his word." Nothing is more essential in business life as the element of confidence, and confidence, after all, rests entirely upon one's care in doing what he says he will do. This matter of personal integrity cuts a larger figure in business than we are sometimes willing to admit. It is one of the demands, that business makes of men to fulfill their words. Let business learn to distrust a man's reliability as to his word, and it will soon discount his liability as a business man—Omaha Bee.

NO HEALTHY SKIN LEFT

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement," and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day, twelve years or more since the cure was effected. Robert Wattam, 1148 Forty-eighth St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9, 1909."

The Effects.

"I have come to my friend, for comfort. My best girl has treated me very badly. I was trying to explain something to her, but she gave me such sharp looks they cut me to the heart; she withered me with her scorn, crushed me with her coldness and stabbed me with her keen edged tongue."

"See here, man, you oughtn't to come to me for comfort; what you need is to go to a hospital for treatment."

A Generous Gift.

"You may say what you like against young ministers, but I have nothing but praise for our young pastor," the pompous Mr. Brown remarked, as he passed out of the church. "Nothing but praise!"

"So I observed," dryly retorted the deacon who passed the plate.—Harper's.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. No case out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH CURE. Send for circular free.

The Tenderfoot Farmer. It was one of those experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well cut shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unerring remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a true medicine. It contains neither toxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."
