Inter-Class Debate

The most notable educational event of the year in the High School was the inter-class debate last Friday—tenth grade vs. eleventh and twelfth grades, on the question: "Resolved, That ancient Rome was more civilized than ancient Greece." The tenth grade represented by Jeannette Taylor, Orpha Outhouse, Ruth Montgomery and Mable Depp spoke for the affirmative; the other grades represented by Florence Depp, Blanche Draper, Earl Harper and Fred Leschinsky for the negative. The debate marked the close of work in Greek and Roman history. The peculiar conditions, interest in the subject and the lively class rivalry made it one of the best organized, prepared and presented debates ever held in the school. Each speaker on both sides had been assigned special lines of thought to develop, and that each prepared faithfully showed plainly in the confident and convincing presentation of the argument. It was real debate from start to finish, and it was the opinion of many that the toss of a coin would be as fair as any way to decide on the merit. The judges, Miss Byers, Miss Zimmerman and Miss Etta Lofholm after careful consideration decided 2 to 1 in favor of the affirmative. The High School is under obligation to Mr. Suter and Mr. Starr for lending Miss Byers and Miss Lofholm for the occasion.

Pray-Thornton

A quiet home wedding was solemnized at high noon Monday, Feb. 27, 1911, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Pray in Logan township, when their eldest daughter, Jessie M., became the bride of Walter A. Thornton, the ceremony being performed by the brother of the bride, Rev. Earl P. Pray of Amherst, Neb., in the presence of only the immediate relatives and friends. The bride was attired in blue silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations, while the groom wore dark blue serge. Simple congratulations were offered the young couple at the close of the impressive service, after which a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The bride and groom are among our most popular and worthy young people. They will go to housekeeping at once in Loup City, followed by the best wishes of their friends for a life of happiness and prosperity.
