For Good Roads

We received a pleasant call last Friday from our friend, August Anderson of Washington township. In this connection, Mr. Anderson stated he did most of his trading at Arcadia, being some eleven miles from Loup City, and did so because of the miserable condition of the roads between his section of the county and Loup City, whereas if the roads were in condition as they should be, he would do his trading at Loup City as he would like to do. Here is a text for our business men. While we would not say a word against money made up for entertainments in Loup City, we should like to see a more liberal dividend to our business men increased training the farmers over the county than all the amusements that could be promoted. What Loup City needs is a good live Commercial Club, made up of all our business men, working as a unit for the upbuilding of the city and county as well, dropping all petty jealousies and petty annoyances and getting together as one solid body for the common weal. Can't this be done, and done at once? Who will take the initiative?

The Chautauqua

Loup City this week has been enjoying their second season of Chautauqua entertainments, and judging by the splendid attendance, the generous applause and the favorable comment on each succeeding number, our people are well pleased over all the efforts of the distinguished talent brought to us by the management. The people sent to us in charge of the tent, grounds and general management of the system are all most courteous and obliging and everything was well planned and executed. Shot in Left Hand

A sixteen-year-old lad named Hoadly, living a few miles north of Loup City on Monday afternoon of this week accidentally shot himself in the left hand with a .22-calibre rifle at his home. He was brought to town by his father and called and extracted the bullet, which entered the third finger and imbedded itself in the back of the hand. He will get along all right.

A new piano was delivered at the home of H. S. Conger last week. A surprise party was given at the home of Fred Johnson last Monday in honor of their son, Charles. The Wiggles turned out, as they always do, in large numbers and reported a dandy good time. Mrs. G. B. Wilkie went to Brock, this state, last Friday for a few days' visit. Alfred Jorgensen and Miss Laura Thickett were married at Albion, Nebraska, August 21st, and came to Loup City the same day. Alfred had a cozy little home just completed on his farm on Wiggle Creek. They commenced housekeeping at once and the people on Wiggle Creek gave them a royal welcome one evening last week. We extend congratulations. Will Draper has been plastering A. F. Kuhn's new house on Clear Creek the past week. J. M. Cummings and wife expect to return to their home at Kearney in about six weeks, so that their daughters may complete their schooling. The children will soon be on their way to school and carrier will be glad as they help to pass away the hours along the route. Ralph Teeters has cut the weeds along his line. This is the old Van Alts farm. A birthday surprise party was sprung on Stewart Conger Saturday evening at his home by friends and relatives. "Part" of the Grow was there also. The thunderstorm last Saturday afternoon for a time looking as tho' it would amount to little or nothing proved one of the worst storms visiting the country south of Route 2 in many years. The rainfall was six inches at John Kuhn's. The storm lasted an hour and swelled Dry Creek to a raging torrent. George Nelberg and daughter were crossing a bridge over the creek, when their rig was swept from the bridge by the flood and the daughter was nearly drowned before rescued. At another place on the creek a horse was drowned. There was a heavy hail storm about four miles wide in the center of the storm stripping the leaves from the corn stalks. It was reported that at Jim McKuhn's the hail was thick on the ground Sunday morning. Only about an inch of rain fell at Ravenna and at Loup City it scarcely laid the dust. The rainfall continued heavier the further south. At Casteel's perhaps three-fourths of an inch fell and at Haller's over an inch. Lightning struck in many places.
