The men of the Methodist church will serve supper at the church tomorrow (Friday) evening. The editor of this paper has received a special invitation to be present and eat, but when he learns that among the chefs are Editor Bushhausen, Jim Dewey, Herman Johansen, Dr. Evans, and others whose wives have the time of their lives in finding enough to prepare for those attenuate frames, he shakes his head and wonders where the guests are to come in. Later—We learn the above fellows are handicapped and have to wait till all are served first, so its all right, and everybody will get their share and have a good time.

We see by the Lincoln dailies that Clifford Rein has again this year been chosen as one of the teams to represent the State University in debates with teams from the universities of Iowa and Minnesota. Last year, Clifford made good as a member of the debating teams, and this year again won out. His team will debate with Minnesota. There were only two this year who were in the team that defeated Illinois last year on the closed shop question. The question for this year is "Resolved that the United States should adopt a policy of shipping subsidies. Rein and his allies taking the negative side. The many friends of young Rein here will be interested in the outcome.

Mrs. Clara Hawk's fine new residence west of the M. Be Your Own Rain Maker

Did the recent long, dry spell hit you pretty hard—cutting down your crop yield and your income for the year? In the Big Horn Basin and Yellowstone Valley farmers have raised splendid crops. Their income this year will be greater than ever and it all comes from an ample water supply. The farmer "controlled the rain" and applied the water as his crops needed it. The Government system of irrigation provides during the growing season two feet of water per acre, the equivalent of twelve heavy rains of two inches each; think what such a water supply would have meant to your community during the summer of 1911.

Why not go with me on the next excursion into the Big Horn Basin and look over that land of sunshine and bounty; new Government units of the finest kind of irrigated land near Ralston now available with perpetual water rights on the easiest of terms. These are the richest gifts the Government has had to bestow upon its people within thirty years.
