For County Attorney

To the Voters of Sherman County, Nebraska: I have filed for the republican nomination as a candidate for the office of county attorney at the coming primary to be held April 19th, 1922, and would appreciate the support of those who have faith in my getting forth an effort to make good if nominated and elected.
Respectfully Yours
J. S. PEDLER

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the republican nomination to the office of County Attorney at the primary election to be held on April 19th, 1922, and respectfully request your vote and your active support if you approve of my candidacy.
HERBERT S. NIGHTINGALE

The Northwestern wishes it distinctly understood it is not responsible for any of this county attorney controversy except in the publication of the same as paid matter.

Several candidates for the legislature have sent in statement No. 1 since the ballot has been made up, but in each instance the secretary of state has informed them it was too late to get it on the primary ballot.

Ord changed from wet to dry this year by a majority of 52. Ravenna went wet by about half the usual

Clark or the great and untamable William Jennings. An anxious public awaits with breathless interest for the answer, to know just how to cast its vote. After Bro. Beushausen has told us who was the proper man to have in the presidential chair, will it also state who it wants for governor? Is it for Moorhead or Metcalfe? The Northwestern is willing to admit it is for Gov. Aldrich, without stammer or stammer. And while we are on the political subject, will the Times editor tell the interested public its choice for U. S. senator? Is it for Little Giant Thompson, Willis Reed Ex-Governor Shallenburger or Robert Smith. The Northwestern prefers Norris. And as both our candidates have the same prefix and affix, we make it plain that we prefer the Norris prefix to the Norris affix, or in other words favor Norris Brown to Geo. W. Norris. Now, if Bro. Beushausen will be as frank as the writer in making public the right men for the above places of trust, the voters will feel easy and the result in no further doubt—as to where we stand.

Bryan is a believer in Statement No. 1, if the voters of Nebraska say Wilson or Champ Clark are winners at the state primaries as expressed by the few who get out to vote in that rotten affair, but if they choose Harmon, then he is not in favor of said statement by his actions, and will refuse to go as a delegate, but will go as a private citizen and fight the nomination of the Ohio man. Oh, consistency, thou art a jewel; but evidently the thrice defeated candidate for the presidency doesn't wear it.

A delegation of Republicans called at the Northwestern office Tuesday of this week and asked us to urge the republican voters of Elm, Webster and Clay townships, comprising Supervisor District No. 3, to write in the name of W. O. Brown as their candidate for supervisor. He did not file this year, but if the Republicans as a whole or majority wish him to get into the race we are sure he will respect their wishes. But if only a few write in his name he will take it for granted they do not want him and he would be justified in refusing to run, which would mean a democratic supervisor from that district. The Northwestern trusts every republican voter in those three townships will write in the name of W. O. Brown.

The special attention of voters is called to the blank lines following names of candidate for the various offices. These are for the purpose of allowing voters to write in any name they see fit, if they prefer, rather than vote for some printed name. Last year the judges and clerks of election in Bristol and Hazard townships refused to count the name of Sheriff Williams written in on the democratic and populist ballots at the primary, under the mistaken idea that it was against the law. Had they done so, as should have been done, and was done in other townships, he would have received those nominations as well as the republican nomination. That's what the blank lines are placed on the ballots for. Don't make that mistake this year. A recount would change their ruling.

W. J. Bryan, we believe, claims to be father to the First Statement idea in politics nowadays, which takes away from the party candidates their political preferences and ralatages that to the voters at the polls, so that whatever political preference the elected senator or representative may have, he goes to the legislature as a machine to vote for the man for any office whom the voters say is the fellow who should get the prize. But what is the matter with "Father?" He will not take his own medicine. Bryan wants to go to the democratic national convention, but is not willing to vote for Harmon, even if the voters say he is the man. Statement No. 1, means to Mr. Bryan that if things go my way I will stand for it but if the voters say otherwise then they are wrong and I won't stand for it. Will the Times please enlighten us as to whether it feels the same way. Our brother editor is a great advocate of the idea. But also being a follower of and strict believer in Bryanistic utterances, how will he reconcile the Bryan idea of riding two horses going in opposite directions?

One of the candidates for county attorney at the hands of the republican voters at the coming primaries in this county is Herbert S. Nightingale, son of R. J. Nightingale a lawyer who has practiced law in this county for the past thirty years. Herbert was born and grown up to manhood in this county, and is therefore a genuine Sherman county product. He got his education in our public schools for the first ten years of his young life and then went to Kearney, and from there to the State University, where he spent five years, three of which were devoted exclusively to the study of law. He made a record at the University as a student of law, of which our people may justly be proud, and passed his examination with honors. Afterward he was admitted to practice in the supreme court, and last June came home to join his father in the practice of law, having previously familiarized himself with the practice during his vacation. He is a bright young man, full of energy and ambition, and if nominated and elected will devote his chief attention to

He owns a half interest in his father's library, and so has a great number of authorities at election. All our people unite in giving Herbert the credit of a mastery mind and excellent ability, coupled with a splendid education along the lines of his profession.

EDITOR NORTHWESTERN: I started in business as a blacksmith in Loup City 32 years ago and have resided here all the time since, and people should know me: those who don't may inquire of my friends and neighbors who do. My life has been an open book and full of mistakes, but I have never made the mistake of slandering my neighbor under the fictitious name of "Voter" or "Interested Reader." There is some little truth in part of the "misnomer, in that I served in the offices referred to part of the time alleged and plead guilty to having been poor and acknowledge a partial recovery, but was unaware that it constituted a rich man or was a criminal offense. I was not an intruder in the judge's office, as shown by the Supervisor's Record 5, pages 611 and 617. I was not county attorney at the time of the Elm township chicken thief episode. Sheriff Williams was my opponent twenty-five years ago, and we have been friends ever since, and while I appreciate your offer of space in your valuable paper to engage in a newspaper controversy, I must decline, as I have neither time, money nor a disposition to slanderously advertise my opponent, and I have long since learned the futility and empty delusion of such political tactics, and prefer to admit that my opponent is a bright young University graduate, while I am lacking in training and classical culture, and can only give a practical common sense business administration by way of saving litigation and expense to the taxpayers, and do not want to wound a mother's heart by such abuse. I am willing that you give your space to Mr. "Voter" and "Interested Reader," (Mr. R. J. Nightingale), who has the price and wants to indulge. I am convinced that the interests of the county will be best subserved by humbly submitting to the answer the people may make to Mr. "Voter" (R. J. Nightingale) and Mr. "Interested Reader" (R. J. Nightingale) at the primaries on the 19th. Respectfully yours,
J. S. PEDLER.

EDITOR NORTHWESTERN: In justice to the Board of Supervisors; in justice to Judge Smith, Judge Pedler and myself, and in order that the people who may have had official business with Judge Pedler during Judge Smith's absence may know that Judge Pedler was not an intruder in the office, and of my authority to make the appointment of Judge Pedler, will you be so kind as to publish the action of the board in the matter, and oblige yours for gentlemanly politics?
J. H. WELTY,
Chairman of Board.

[Book 5, Page 611, Supervisors' Proceedings: "Motion made and carried that in case the County Judge is disqualified from acting in any cause before him, or is temporarily absent from the county, the chairman of the county board is hereby authorized to appoint and approve bond of a judge to act during his absence or disqualifications."]

To all the voters of this county, and especially to republican voters:

I feel it my duty to warn my fellow citizens not to cast their vote for J. S. Pedler as county attorney at the coming primary election, and if you have the least thought of doing so, I wish you would first hear from my lips the true story how Pedler, by deception and fraud, got every dollar of my property away from me, when I was not in my right mind, and drove me to the asylum for the insane, and afterwards succeeded in separating me from my wife and dear little children, and from my home, and turned me out in my old age, a poor cripple, without the ability to earn my living, to die of a broken heart, in loneliness and poverty. This man, Pedler, has grown rich and powerful, and has become the president of a bank, through years of wrong doing, but the day of his downfall will surely come, if there is a righteous God in heaven, as I believe there is.
