ODD CEREMONY IN TURKEY

Picturesque Occasion Occurs Weekly in Constantinople When the Sultan Goes to Pray.

Constantinople.-One of the most picturesque sights in Constantinople is a Selamlik, or sultan's levee, a ceremony which takes place weekly. Those invited under the ex-sultan's reign had seats in a pavilion which faced the mosque and thus saw the arrival and departure of his majesty when he went to pray on Friday, the Mohammedan Sabbath.

Nowhere out of Constantinople do more nationalities jostle each other, and the color and variety of dress is amazing. The hill leading to the mosque where I attended a Selamlik was a blaze of color, writes Lady Jepson in the Queen. Many were the curious tales which teached us of Abdul Hamid. He lived chiefly on eggs, they said, served a la Coq, because it would require the skill of a Borgia to poison them. His terror of assassination was so abject that he never left the Yildiz palace except to say his prayers once a week at his mosque, and he employed a "taster" like any mediaeval monarch.

The ex-sultan, as all the world knows, was and is an enemy to progress and reform and excessively narrow in his views. The Young Turks had a bad time of it under his sway, and women a worse one. He enforced strict seclusion for Turkish to be veiled, and obliged all respectable women to be indoors by sunset.

Even now, under a more enlightened rule, although they go out and about the streets disguised in yashmak and ferejeh, the Turkish lady is Custodians-P. H. FIREMEN MAY FORM UNION Boston Hose and Ladder Men to Talk en Knapp, Arthur E. Howard, A. O. Over Plan to Have an Organization.

Boston.-Boston's firemen are considering a step that may earn for them the distinction of being the first of any city in the east to affiliate themselves with organized labor. The members of the department-the hosemen and laddermen-have agreed to meet to decide definitely whether or not they want to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. It is believed the bulk of the firemen will favor such a step. The promoters of the movement explain that, while the proposed organization will be a regular labor union there will be no danger of its members making arbitrary demands upon the city for increased pay or shorter hours, much less of a "walk-out" when called to fight a
