

The demand of the day is that a man shall be judged by his efficiency, by what he accomplishes, and not by what he claims he can do. Not always but usually his ability to accomplish is judged by the care he uses in conserving his income, his accumulation. This bank cordially welcomes accounts of earnest men, men who want to get ahead, men who realize they could accomplish more if they only had a start.

Jack Johnson, the black pug, with his white wife and two costly autos sailed Monday, June 30, for Havre, France, and it is not thought that he will ever return to this country to face his jail sentence of one year for violation of the Mann act for white slavery. The courts reduced his bail bond from $30,000 to $15,000, and immediately thereafter while the authorities were napping the black fiend skipped from Chicago to Montreal, Canada, and now is off to France, where his crime is not extraditable. While the people will rejoice to be rid of the black rascal and will hope he may never return, yet that does not relieve the authorities for letting him escape while they slept at their posts.

After the present special parcel post stamps are used up there will be no re-issue, but common stamps will after that time be used to send parcel post stuff. Also, we read that the government has made a ruling that parcel post packages may be sent C. O. E. in the future, or at least after a given date.

Arcadians Scrap Over Postoffice

How to Settle Question of Arcadia Postmastership is Causing Anxious Moments

One of the misfortunes attending the transfer of the government to democratic hands is that there must be a change in many postmasters. Some of these changes, no doubt, will be for the better, but many of them will be at the expense of the public welfare.

A case of the latter kind is the change to be made at Arcadia. The present postmaster, D. C. Thompson, is acknowledged by all to be an exceptionally good officer. He has put the office into fine shape and has kept it in such a manner that everyone is pleased with his services.

Arcadians would generally be glad to have him keep it. But this cannot be, because a new political administration is in charge.

From the moment of Wilson's election things have been popping in Arcadia over the question of who should be the new Nasby.

Joe Bridges was the first to sacrifice himself for the cause and set out to get the endorsement of the ring-leaders of the party over the county and elsewhere all but at Arcadia. He got the endorsement, it is said, of Billy Thompson at Grand Island, and of H. M. Davis and Otto Murschel of Ord, who are essaying to be the pie dispensers of this vicinity. Bridges also got the endorsement of all the democratic central committee members except those of his own town. In fact, his endorsements at home are very scarce indeed.

It is claimed that his endorsement from Thompson was with the understanding that an election would be held at which all the patrons of the Arcadia postoffice might vote, but of course the candidates must be democrats only. This was thought to be safe enough, and all was going well till the name of Frank Rowe of Lee Park was sprung. This put another face to things. Frank Rowe is very popular with the people of that vicinity and was promptly endorsed by the local democratic committeemen and others generally in that vicinity.

The election idea now does not look as good for Bridges and his backers. With a more popular man in the race it is safe to gamble that Bridges will not get the position.

From good authority that comes to us from Arcadia we learn that the bosses now are hedging and want no one to vote but democrats and if possible to have no election at all.

Meanwhile the postoffice is being run in a manner pleasing to all, the only unpleasant feature about it being the unseemly scramble among the unwashed as to who shall have the job of turning a very important public office into a private snap.—Ord Quiz.

Visions From Storkland

Born, Thursday morning, June 26, 1913, at 9 o'clock, a fine 9-pound daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hatch in Webster township. It is said there never was a happier papa in the world than our friend, Charley. May the little one live to prove a blessing to her parents.

Clarence Burt has repainted his mail box the past week. Clarence always keeps his mail box painted, and in first-class order all the time. There is not anything on the route that pleases a mail carrier more than to have the patrons keep their mail boxes fixed up. A mail box and a mail carrier are in very close touch with each other. Almost every day he has something for the mail box or it has something for him.

The second cutting of alfalfa commenced and there is many tons now in the stack. The winter wheat and rye cutting started Saturday and the crop is the best in years. Spring sown alfalfa is a good stand and has plenty of moisture. Sweet corn is tasseling. Hay is good and pastures were never better. Oats are filling fast and early ones will soon be ready to cut. Corn and oats are free from weeds.

Will Hancock assisted by the Big Four are certainly doing some good work near the west bridge. They have widened the grade between the bridge and mill race and on east of the mill race a short distance. The road is once again as wide as it was before. It has been raised high in the center and a heavy coating of clay put over the top. Now put the road drag on this after every heavy rain and it will be a good road.
