Through a rush of other matters, we neglected mention last week of the visit of the Burrows-Leon show the previous Saturday night. For a fact it was not necessary to say anything to add to the splendid reputation this show has among our people. The entertainment in question was, if anything, a little bit better than former plays. And that is going some. Boyd's appearance on the stage here and elsewhere is always the signal for rounds of applause and that evening the big audience was no exception to the rule and not only Boyd but each member of his company was most heartily welcomed at every point and the thread of the story was closely followed throughout. Boyd always gets crowded tents and houses whenever he plays here and he is certainly worthy of it.

Death of Grandma Rettenmayer

Last Monday morning, August 4, 1913 at the home of her son, Adolph Rettenmayer, a few miles south of Loup City, occurred the death of Grandma Rettenmayer, aged 83 years. Came to the United States in 1853 and located at Toledo, Ohio, where they resided for several years. They came to Sherman county in 1879, where she resided until her death. She is survived by five sons and two daughters." The Northwestern is requested by the bereaved sons and daughters to express their heartfelt thanks for the kindness, assistance and sympathy expressed by the friends and neighbors in the sickness and death of their loved mother.

Kicked by Horse.

A Narrow Escape

Amos Macek, a farmer residing a few miles northwest of Ravenna, was kicked by a horse, Wednesday morning, of this week, and how he escaped more serious injury is one of those problems that cannot be answered, unless it be that a man is predestined to live a certain span and his time had not come yet. He was working in his barn when one of his horses let drive with its heels, striking Mr. Macek just above the waist line with sufficient force to crush his watch in his vest pocket. As it was Mr. Macek had the breath knocked out of him, and was badly bruised about the point of contact, but Dr. Buol, who was called to attend him, does not think his injuries will prove to be serious. There was no rupture, internally or externally, and there appears to be no reason why his recovery should not be speedy and complete.—News.

Grandma Gilbert in Failing Health

Grandma Gilbert, on July 29th, reached the 76th mile post on her eventful journey through life. There has not, perhaps, been a woman of her advanced years who has had the constitution to pass through what she has in the pioneer days of Nebraska. We have heard the good old lady speak of the years gone by, and of the work and privations attending, which seem almost impossible. It would seem impossible to hear of the strenuous time she has gone through, but probably not one woman in a thousand has had the strength and endurance she possessed. Many a time in the early days she has done more than a man's work in all kinds of hard labor, and at times has walked miles to market returning home late at night with a sack of flour on her shoulder to supply the wants of her family. Even as late as a year ago out on the farm she carried several sacks of flour up a flight of stairs at her home as easily as a young person would have done the same. In fact up to a very few months ago she showed wonderful strength and endurance along all lines of labor. At present, however, she is in very poor health and is falling fast and it is feared that unless she recuperates her health very early she will be unable to do anything but the lightest of labor. The Northwestern, with her very large circle of friends, will hope that she may live to round out the 80th year in her very eventful life.

Picture Show Changes Hands

The past week has made a change in the ownership of the Gem picture show at the Daddow opera house taking effect last Saturday evening, A. O. Lee disposing of his half interest in the same to Thos. Daddow, who owned the other half, taking in exchange a residence property in west Loup City south of the residence property built by C. C. Cooper. Mr. Lee still retains his ownership of the Crystal Bottling Works, but we understand he is on a trade of the same to Chris Domgard, who, if he purchases the plant, will also purchase the residence of the former adjoining the M. E. parsonage. In event of the sale of the bottling works to Mr. Domgard, Mr. Lee will purchase the bottling works and apiculture show at Broken Bow and move to the latter town.

Thrown From Horse and Shoulder Dislocated

One day last week Frank Kowalewski, of Elm township, while riding a half-broken, fractious horse, was thrown from the same striking heavily on his head and shoulders in a ditch, dislocating one shoulder and badly bruising and disfiguring his face and breast. Falling as he did so heavily and into a ditch the wonder expressed was that he was not killed outright from a dislocated neck. However, it is thought that he will come out all right.

K. of P. Picnic
A Grand Success

A Good Attendance and a Good Time Had by All

The Knights of Pythias picnic at Jenner's park last Thursday afternoon and evening was one of the very best ever given by the order here in the past. The afternoon for the first part was given over to a game of baseball, the boys choosing sides and, under the suggestive names of the "Weaks" and "Wearys," by their playing made the fans "weak" and "weary" to a fare-ye-well. Umpire Mulick proved well versed in giving decisions to make the score come out even in the fifth inning, thus making honors even. The fans in the grand stand played much harder than the real thing on the diamond and as the score chalked up even all bets were declared off.

At the close of the great contest all repaired to the other park, except those already there, and the afternoon was put in at exciting contests along amusement lines, every man, woman, girl and boy, young and old, strong and weak fat and lean were called upon to get into the games, whatever they were, and there was ready response from each, hence the afternoon proved a strenuous existence for all.

When the supper games and amusements were again taken up and kept going until a late hour in the evening when the Sir Knights, their families and invited guests repaired to their several homes, insisting this to be one of the crowning glories of all the picnics heretofore given by the local lodge.

Nursery For Children

A nursery has been arranged for at the state fair grounds and mothers who visit the exposition at Lincoln, September 1-5, may leave their infants in charge of experienced nurses while they take in the sights. A barber shop, hospital, postoffice with money order department and a complete telephone system have been arranged.

A. E. Chase's Store in Hands of Creditors.

Last week, Wednesday evening, at a meeting of the creditors of A. E. Chase the latter turned over his mercantile establishment to them and stepped down and out. The creditors then placed the stock in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vaughn for the purpose of invoicing the same and finding the amount of stock on hand. Mr. D. D. Grow was also employed by the creditors to assist in invoicing.

While much sympathy is expressed over the unfortunate failure of Mr. Chase, who has been in business here for a score or more of years, yet it is not a matter of surprise to the people who have known for a long time the embarrassing condition of Mr. Chase, financially, and that it was only a question of time when he would be obliged to suspend his business operations.

It is understood that the indebtedness amounts to between $13,000 and $14,000, while the invoice of the stock, which has been completed, shows between $5,000 and $6,000 worth of merchandise on hand.

We are not, at the present writing, in possession of any facts save as above nor will it be known for a few days, the exact status of affairs so far as the general public is concerned. It is to be hoped, however, that the financial clouds hanging over Mr. Chase may not prove so dense as at present seems and that the creditors may realize much more than at present seems probable.

LATER—By mutual agreement between Mr. Chase and the principal creditors, J. C. Vaughn will have charge for the present and the store to remain open for regular business.
