

STOMACH MISERY GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" fixes sick, sour, gassy stomachs in five minutes.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, or foul breath. Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless. Please for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one of the family eat something which don't agree with them, or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis, or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night, it is handy to give the quickest relief known. Adv.

E Pluribus.

A small boy of three was playing in the street between the car tracks while a bigger boy of eleven or thereabouts stood on the sidewalks and looked on. The Good Samaritan passed that way. He addressed the bigger boy. "Is the little fellow your brother?" he asked. "Yep." "Then bring him in from between the tracks; he might get run over." "Aw," replied the bigger boy, "that don't make no difference, we got plenty like him to home."—New York Washington Post.

IS CHILD CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well child again. Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

Opium Culture In Persia.

Opium smokers in a Persian tea house.

THE cold season in southern Persia is short, but occasionally so severe that snow falls plentifully round about Shiraz, the capital of Fars; but in most winters only heavy rains prevail. There is a considerable variation in the temperature on the coast and on the lofty plateau in the interior of the country. A beautiful spring follows the intense cold, and in the month of March, while the highest mountains still carry white snowcaps, the valleys are growing green; wild flowers blossom everywhere, and the well-known roses in the gardens round about Shiraz are already in bud. Very soon the refreshing spring showers cease, summer approaches rapidly, in this part of the world, and with the hot weather, gusts of wind, driving before them clouds of dust, rush through the partly cultivated plains and over the ripening fields. When this time arrives, the poppies are in full blossom and the breeze is laden far beyond these pretty poppy plantations with the narcotic odors of the large, delicate white flowers that are mixed here and there with beautiful shaded violet ones. After a favorable rainy season the poppy fields are a lovely sight, and a beautiful feature in the landscape. The flowers stand high and healthy on their tall, straight stems, and within them soon appears a large fleshy poppy-head which contains the opium juice, and also later, when dry, the valuable poppy seeds. Such a sight is a delight to the owner of the plantation, for he sees in prospect a glorious harvest. Round about Shiraz as far as Isfahan, southward to the country of the date palm, a great deal of opium is grown, and several thousand chests are shipped from Shiraz to China and various places in Europe, every season. The collecting of the opium juice begins in June, when the flowers having faded and the leaves fallen, the poppy heads are ready to be "bled."

The flower of oblivion.

um. The juice is sold in large copper vessels by the grower to the merchant, in whose hands it undergoes several processes in order to preserve it from fermentation and decay.

On sunny, fine, hot days the Persian caravans where opium dealers have their offices present an interesting feature. The juice is brought out to be made into cakes for export. On large wooden boards, two and a half feet long and one and a half feet broad, the sticky mass is spread out with spade-like tools to permit the water it contains to evaporate. Experienced workers move from board to board, turning over the layers, every now and then that the heat and sun may dry up the exposed surfaces and render the opium fit for making into cakes. In favorable weather this process takes only an hour or so, and the opium is ready for the next manipulation. It is now scraped off and is rolled into stiff dough-like lumps and handed to a man, who divides it into smaller portions, weighing one pound each, which he passes on to the mold, by whom they are pressed into the wooden forms and then laid on a large board for the final drying process. When this is completed the cakes are rolled up in red paper imported specially from China, and are then tied up with red strings. The cakes are then ready for packing. One hundred and forty-four are put in tinned wooden cases with poppy-stem chaff as packing. The wooden cases are covered with stong hides and sack- ing. Two cases form a mule load. The percentage of morphia in Persian opium varies from nine per cent. to twelve per cent. In former years the Persian opium had a very bad reputation in the London market, for it was frequently adulterated with a substance named "Gunjedah," but the fraud was, of course, easily detected, and a good many dealers were ruined. Much opium is used in Persia itself; in fact, the consumption has grown to a deplorable extent, which causes considerable anxiety to the authorities. There are opium dens in every large town, and the sickening sweet smell arising from the opium pipes streams out of every tea and coffee house in the country. The distressing spectacle of intoxicated opium smokers may be seen everywhere in Persia, and those who do not care to smoke the drug have taken to the small pill box found in every Persian's breast pocket. Now and then efforts are made to put a stop to this excessive use of opium, but in vain; and so long as the highest officials indulge in its abuse, no restrictions will be effective in preventing the lower classes from ruining themselves. Persia is doomed, and its downfall cannot be arrested.

How the End Will Come. The professor of natural phenomena had acquired a gasoline car. "The day is coming," he said to his class a few weeks later, "when the tire will sag and punctures pierce the inner tube and the casing blister—and then this old earth of ours will have a blowout that may shake the Dog Star from its kennel and hurl the Dipper to kingdom come!"

To Dissolve Chewing Gum. If you were ever unfortunate enough to find a piece of chewing gum sticking tenaciously to your shoe or your chair or your rug or any of your other belongings, you probably came to the righteous conclusion that chewing gum was the most tenacious and stickiest substance in the world. There is one thing that will dissolve it completely and quickly, and that is gasoline. So if ever again you are troubled by its unskipped presence, dissolve it with gasoline.

PASTIME AT CHILD'S PARTY.

Amusement Afforded Little Folks by Having Doll Hunt—Little Ginger Bread Dolls as Souvenirs.

A very clever and interesting manner in which to entertain children at a child's party is to have a doll hunt. Little girls never have enough dollies, and so no better plan could be found than to send them on a hunt, at the end of which a little doll is the reward. This hunt is on the same order as the cobweb game. Each little girl is given the end of a colored cord, which is wound in and out as much of the house as the hostess sees fit. At the end of each string is a girl's name, meaning the name of the dolly. All of the strings are gathered in the parlor from which point the hunt starts and each little girl finds a pretty, though not expensive, doll waiting for her. The string then leads into the dining room, where a little clothes line is stretched out, and on it is pinned the clothes belonging to the various

Red Men Get Auto Fever.

As long as the Indians of the Umatilla, Ore., reservation saw only white men riding in automobiles they were immune to joy riding, but the recent spectacle of two visiting Indians honking with their big car proved too much for the redskins and they have succumbed to an epidemic of autoitis in its most virulent form.

The Argument That Wins. "Ah," she sighed, "the great men are all dead."
"But the beautiful women are not," he answered.

Then she looked soulfully up into his eyes and told him she had said it just to be contrary and not because she thought it for a moment.

THOUGHT HIM TOO STRENUOUS

Evidently There Are Points About Athletic Game That Are New to Mrs. Casey.

Mrs. Casey was proud of her strong, muscular son, and still more proud of him when he went into a gymnasium and made himself locally famous. Then one day a rumor reached her ears which she didn't like, and when Michael came home that night she proceeded to take him to task.

"Look here, Mike Casey, what's this I'm hearing about yer doin' at the gymnasium? Don't ye know it's poor we are, an' havin' no money to pay for yer destructive carryin' on?" "Why, what do ye mean, mither?" asked the astonished Mike.

"An't they sayin' all over town that ye have broke two of their best records down there?" she howled.—National Magazine.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF HAIR STOPS FALLING

Girls! Try This! Makes Hair Thick, Glossy, Fluffy, Beautiful—No More Itching Scalp.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Adv.

Clerical Humor. When Rev. Doctor Snow rose to address his evening congregation his voice was slightly husky. "My friends," he said, "I have already preached one sermon and made two long speeches to societies in different parts of the city, and before I have finished this evening you will think I am a wheel—the longer the spoke, the bigger the tire."
Only a few appeared to see the point, however, and the good doctor scorned to furnish a diagram.—Chicago Tribune.
