MONARCH'S ACT SURPRISES

Old Lady Thought It Undignified That British Monarch Should Blow His Own Nose.

When King George of Great Britain came to the throne there were wild rumors that he took so little interest in horse-racing that the turf would suffer. This year, however, his majesty has attended a number of his big race meetings.

One recalls the story told of an earlier royal visit to Doncaster. An old Yorkshire woman had gone on the course for the sole purpose of seeing royalty, and she called out excitedly: "Which is the king? Which is the king?"

"There he is," said some one near. "That's him with the handkerchief in his hand."

"Ah!" gasped the old lady, a touch of reverent awe in her tone.

Just then his majesty, who had a cold in the head, performed a commonplace little operation.

"Goodness me!" the old lady exclaimed again. "He—he blows his own nose!"

Recompense.

The Nomad chieftan gloomily contemplated the dreary Syrian landscape.

The wedding guests were long departed. He had but a moment since beheld his bride of a few hours remove her teeth and put them in a cup of water to soak.

"Dismiss me from thy heart, good my lord," the damsel murmured, "thy vain regrets."

Upon the word the pious Moslem extended his clasped hands toward the heavens.

"Allah be praised!" he cried. "If I mistake not, her old man must ere this have discovered that the horse I gave him in exchange for his daughter is balky."

Tears of joy welled unheeded from his eyes as he gave thanks.

Back Numbers.

N. C. Goodwin, the famous actor, said at the Players' club in New York: "There is no call for the old-fashioned, Chesterfield type of man today. Today is the day of the maxixe, the slashed skirt and the cigarette. With these the Chesterfield type can't cope."

"I overheard the pretty girls at Sherry's. They were taking tea, smoking cigarettes in long amber tubes and swishing their slim silken ankles in and out of the slash in their skirts."

"Fred," said the first girl, "kissed me solemnly on the forehead after I accepted him. Wasn't that funny?"

"If a man kissed me on the forehead," said the other girl, "I'd call him down. Yes, sir, I'd call him down four inches."

Mistaken in the Portrait.

Menzel, the German artist, was a regular patron of a certain Berlin wine shop. One day a man and wife came in and sat down at his table; and presently Menzel noticed that the woman was making fun of him.

Calmly he drew out his sketching book, gazed at the woman awhile, as if to study her face for a portrait, and then commenced to draw. Her husband immediately took notice: "I forbid you to draw a picture of my wife. Stop it!" he exclaimed, angrily.

Menzel made a few finishing touches and then passing the sketching book over to the man, he inquired, with a laugh, "Is that your wife?" He had drawn a goose.—Youth's Companion.

1913 Magnificent Crops in all Western Canada

All parts of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, have produced wonderful yields of Wheat, Oats, Barley and Flax. Wheat graded from Contract to No. 1 Hard, weighed heavy and yielded from 22 to 45 bushels per acre. 22 bushels was about the total average. Mixed Farming may be considered truly as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. In 1912, and again in 1913, at Chicago, Manitoba carried off the Championship for beef steer. Good schools, markets, convenient climate excellent. For the homesteader, the man who wishes to farm extensively, or the investor, Canada offers the biggest opportunity of any place on the continent.

HOMES IN INDIA EXCLUSIVE

Foreigners Can Never Hope to Enter Residences of East Indians for Any Purpose.

London.—There are two things no foreigner in India, not even Emperor George, can ever hope to do. One is to walk with the pilgrims through the Lion Gate, past the priests and the dancing girls, to the shrine of the "Lord of the World," which stands on the Blue Hill at Puri. The other is to enter an Indian home. It is not at all certain that the former is not the easier of the two, although no white man has ever done it and lived, although a recent viceroi vainly offered a lakh of rupees to be spent in purification ceremonies if he would only be permitted to enter the famous sanctuary.

The Indian home of the better sort has no crowd of fanatic priests and pilgrims to guard its entrance, yet to the foreigner it is almost as effectually barred. One may form warm friendships with Indian gentlemen of the new school in Calcutta or Bombay and even eat at their houses, if caste prejudices are elastic enough; but to cross the inner court and enter the living quarters of the house, which are sacred to the family—one might as well expect to fly to the moon.

A few white women who have cast their lot with India and won the confidence of the natives are welcomed "behind the purdah." Miss Margaret Noble ("Sister Nivedita") was one of these. Again, many Europeans are entertained by "Brahmos," as the cultured members of the theistic Brahmo Samaj are called, but the homes of these Westernized Indians, delightful as they are, are not Indian homes. To the stranger in India, and in this sense all but the Indians themselves will forever remain strangers, the native home, with all its alien ways, is like an unknown country, mysterious, baffling and infinitely provoking to the curious.

WOMAN DOCTORS ARE HIT

London County Council Decides That When They Marry They Must Quit Service.

London.—The London County Council decided that women doctors must retire from their service if they marry. These questions arose on the appointment of three women doctors in the public health service. The council in such appointments insists that women shall resign on marriage, and a similar condition was included in the case of the three new appointments.

Miss Adler and Miss Wallas, both progressive members, supported the amendment. Miss Wallas urged that the council needed women of experience, and Miss Adler said it would not only be wise to have married women doctors but also married nurses. Women could organize nowadays, so there was no great fear that wages would be reduced.

Lady St. Helier, the only woman member of the municipal reform party, took a view directly opposite to that of her two progressive colleagues. The council allowed women teachers to marry, but she declared she was convinced that no woman could do her duty to her home and family if she had to go out to work.

FISH CANNOT CLIMB A DAM

Thousands of Finney Tribe in California River Dash Themselves to Death.

Reno, Nev.—Thousands of dead fish line the banks of the Truckee river below Derby dam, as a result of basking themselves to death in efforts to get over the dam.

Photographs of the dead fish have been taken and forwarded to Washington, where appeals have been sent by hundreds of sportsmen asking for a fish ladder, ever since the construction of the Derby dam.

Most of the dead fish are queve, a very large fish resembling the sucker, but many of them are said to be large salmon from Pyramid lake.

ADVANTAGES OF THE HOME-GROWN FEEDERS

Two Home-Grown Feeders.

(By L. M. BENNINGTON.)

One of the chief disadvantages that most cattle feeders have to contend with is the purchase of feeders from some remote district. If it is possible to select a small bunch of good quality, uniform-sized feeders of about the same age in his own neighborhood they will make a more profitable lot of feeders for the average farmer to finish than the class of feeders that come from some remote district.

Many failures among feeders can be traced directly to the fact that they are not acquainted with the effects of acclimation and domestication of the purchased feeders and fail to get them started off in good condition.

Then again some farmers come to the conclusion that it is unprofitable to keep a herd of cows and believe that they can buy their feeders for less money than they can afford to grow them. These men soon find their mistake, and many who have sold their cow herds are now developing new herds for the purpose of raising their own feeders.

Then again there is another matter that enters into the economy of the feeding question, and that is the matter of selling the cattle before they are finished. There are times when it will be more money in the feeder's pocket to sell the cattle when they are just off grass, even though the price seems small compared with what corn-fed cattle are selling for.

Farmers who are going into the business would do well to raise a high class of feeding animals and feed only what they can handle to the most profitable advantage on their own farms, and sell when the prices are right.

Sell when just off grass if the price is right and grain foods are high. Feed well on a variety of well cured alfalfa, clover and corn stover and a liberal grain ration.

Raise the breeds best adapted for the one special purpose and keep in close touch with the market conditions in relation to both feed and beef.

If the cattle are to be full fed, select the full-fed period with intelligent discrimination and precaution.

Two Home-Grown Feeders.

(By C. D. LYON.)

Some men were looking over a weedy pasture and one of them said: "What shall I do with these weeds?" "Quick as a flash his neighbor said: "Sell them in mutton at 6 cents a pound."

Every man knows his own business best and can best decide what kind of stock will pay him the greatest profit, but on most farms there is room for a small flock of sheep and at the end of the season the money the wool and lambs will bring will be that much clear profit.

Going back to the first proposition, that of the weeds that infest our fields it may be said that while growing sheep entirely upon weeds, is not a plan to be advised, they will eat nearly every weed that grows upon a farm and will put on good, solid fat upon stuff that cattle and horses refuse.

The most tractable of all farm stock, they can be managed with less trouble than other stock, all that is required to restrain them being a wire net fence of the cheapest grade.

The other day I was talking over the sheep question with some friends and while we did not agree as to breeds, we were unanimously in favor of the breed of sheep that will bring a good heavy shipping lamb from the fleece a secondary consideration.

This is the very season to think of starting a flock as a great many flockmasters sell off some ewes as soon as shearing time is over, and unless a man has plenty of means in these days he will have to start with such ewes as he can buy on the market, though bred being almost out of the question for the ordinary farmer.

Fresh Butter Best.

Butter is better when fresh than it ever will be again.

EXCELLENT NOTES ON CARE OF SWINE

All of Leading Breeds Are Adapted to Economical Production—Keep Animals Healthy.

The use of corn in hog-feeding should be tempered with judgment. The corn and hog crop go hand in hand. A man starting in farming in the West relies upon this combination. The hog from first to last is capable of getting a large proportion of its feed from grass.

We are apt to make the mistake of feeding grain too freely because the hog utilizes it so efficiently and economically.

No breed enjoys any marked preference in the markets of the country. All of the leading breeds are adapted to economical production.

To have healthy swine on the farm the first essential is to have good, vigorous, healthy, breeding animals.

Sunbeams, crude carbonic acid and lime are the best and cheapest disinfectant.

When hog-waters are used they should be cleaned frequently and a lump of quicklime dropped in the barrels occasionally will assist in keeping them sweet and clean.

Health and drugs have no affinity in the successful management of a herd of swine.

Health is natural. Disease unnatural. Both are contagious.

If in the fight between health and disease we give nature a little encouragement we will come off victorious.

It is, after all, more our mission to keep our hogs healthy than to allow them to keep themselves in that condition.

We should keep the hogs close company, study their habits and their requirements and then cater to them. Add to this, humane treatment; and we have solved the whole problem.

Mud is not a good thing to feed pigs in, dust is worse. Both should be avoided as much as possible.

A short nose is good, but a long body is better.

OF COURSE FARMER SHOULD KEEP SHEEP

Profitable Method of Getting Rid of Weeds Is to Sell Them in Mutton at 6c a Pound.

THOUGHT HER A FOREIGNER

Mrs. Petrowsky Was Unused to Words Employed by Volunteer Social Worker.

The trained social worker was "breaking in" a volunteer, and so she escorted her on her first round of visits.

"Ask questions about their husbands and children," she prompted, outside of Mrs. Petrowsky's door. "They can understand those, and they like to answer, and we get the information we need at the same time."

So, as soon as the preliminaries were over, the volunteer turned to the lady of the house with her best society smile.

"Has your husband regular employment at present, Mrs. Petrowsky?" she inquired.

Mrs. Petrowsky looked blank. The volunteer raised her voice, and spoke more slowly:

"Has your husband—regular—employment—at present?" she reiterated.

"Huh?" asked Mrs. Petrowsky, stupidly.

"Has—your—husband—" began the volunteer for the third time, still more loudly.

The social worker interrupted with a friendly smile. "The lady wants to know," she explained, quietly, "has your old man got a steady job?"

Mrs. Petrowsky beamed with delight. "Oh, ya! Oh, ya!" she asserted, with many nods of relief. "Steady job by railroad, ya. What land she come off, her?"—Youth's Companion.

Valuable Land in Egypt.

The presence in this country of Sir William Willcocks, of Assouan dam fame, and now engaged on the food control of the Tigris-Euphrates river, is an event of more than ordinary significance, because of its bearing upon the question of the control of flood water, says the Wall Street Journal. The Nile valley irrigation works, according to Sir William, has enabled 11,000,000 people to live on 6,000,000 acres. Land, he says, in the vicinity of the Assouan dam is worth from $750 to $1,000 an acre, and they raise five hundredweight of cotton on it, which is worth $100. His view of our methods of controlling the Mississippi is of much value because of his experience in Asia and Africa. No foreigner has more studiously read the reports of our river and harbor engineers. His main suggestions are that the levees be made wider and that relief channels be provided to mitigate the strain when waters at their maximum might be carried off as a means of safety.

Sawing the Wood.

It was only on rare occasions that Mrs. Cutler, a high-faced old lady, accepted invitations to dine out. Upon repeated invitations of her friends, the Jostins, however, she consented to attend a little informal dinner they were giving, accompanied by her daughter.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Cutler was quite deaf and consequently could not enter into the general conversation. She was engaged in cutting a piece of steak when her daughter turned to her and said:

"Mother, dear, why are you so quiet?"

"I'm all right," responded mother, with a sunny smile, "while you talk, Mabel, I say nothing but saw wood."

Practical Reasoning.

It was a very youthful class in physiology.

"Why," asked the teacher, "is it best to eat soup first when one is very hungry?"

The pupils stared at her blankly. Then Jamie enlightened them from the depths of his own experience.

"You can get it down faster," he announced.—Delineator.

Nothing Left Behind.

"Are you afraid to go away and leave your windows unlocked?"

"Not at all. What is there to be afraid of?"

"I should think you'd be afraid that thieves would get in and steal your valuables."

"Oh, no. We don't own more jewelry than my wife can wear."

A Gentle Hint.

She—I wonder why the press, of all human enterprises, is so uniformly successful?

He—if you notice one working, you will see that they are always feeding it.

Sitting in the Dark.

"Moving pictures now, eh? It used to be orchestra seats at $2 a throw."

"It isn't the money. They're at the stage now when they want to hold hands."—Kansas City Journal.

Shades of Meno-schnoi

In the Liverpool (England) diocese a few weeks ago a very popular wedding took place, the contracting parties being a young clergyman and the daughter of a widely known vicar.

As the happy pair left the church to the familiar straining of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the following remark was pathetically uttered by one working woman to another: "Just think of Miss — having ragtime played at her wedding."

ERUPTION DISFIGURED FACE

Lock Box 35, Maurice, Ia.—"In the spring of 1911 our little daughter, age five years, had a breaking out on her lip and part of her cheek that we took for ringworm. It resembled a large ringworm, only it differed in that it was covered with watery blisters that itched and burned terribly, made worse by her scratching it. Then the blisters would break through and let out a watery substance. She was very cross and fretful while she had it and had very little rest at night. When the eruption was at its worst the teacher of the school sent her home and would not allow her to attend until the disfigurement of her face was gone.

"I wrote and received a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which we used according to directions, and they gave instant relief, so we bought some more. It gradually grew better. We kept on using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in three or four months the child was entirely cured." (Signed) Mr. Henry Prins, Oct. 22, 1912.
