Nebraska democrats are having all kinds of trouble. Their central committee is at loggerheads; their candidates for governor are at sword's point; the candidates for congress in the various districts are multiplying so rapidly and are getting so cranky with each other that the split in the republican party is getting to look like a mere bagatelle beside the tons of grief which is swamping the democratic craft in the state, and it looks very much as if the state is going to swing back into the republican line by a whooping big majority. You can always count on the democrats fighting and fussing enough among themselves to knock all their future hopes into a cocked hat, after they have one taste of the good things at the pie-counter.

Our bull moose friends are having troubles within their party circle, "alleg samee likee Mellican," and can not poke fun at either the republican or democratic parties. Pinchot, pinchit, pinch'ou, or whatever that great agitator's name is pronounced, has demanded that multimillionaire Perkins, who has been financing that party since its inception, shall be thrown over the transom, and it was put up to Teddy to do it. But this is where Pinch-you got Pinched, for the ex-president gives it out solidly that if Perk is fired he (Ted) goes out with him. So you may bet your brogans that Perk stays and plays moneybags and may go himself, if he can't play in the same political dooryard with Ted and Perk. This is where Mr. Pinchot over-reached himself.

The beauties of the primary election farce is being daily evidenced by the filing of new candidates for state, congressional, judicial, legislative and county offices. At the rate they are filing, the primary ballots will be fully twice as large as at any previous election, and God only knows how short a time it will be at the present rate till the ballot will be so bulky that all common sense will be lost sight of in the scramble for office, as filings may be endless so long as aspirants can raise the $5 or $10 needed to get into the game. Under the law, every man and woman in the state may become a candidate before the primary who can raise the necessary filing fee.

Next November the new Nebraska law permitting voting by mail will go into effect. It was passed at the request of traveling men, who found it impossible to be at home on election day. It will be a help to women, also, when Nebraska becomes a suffrage state. The absent voter must sign an affidavit that he is a qualified voter and has not exercised the franchise elsewhere. Then his ballot will be forwarded by the election officers to the county clerk of the county where he lives. Therefore, on a close vote in either county or state, the result will not be known for several days, or until all the ballots arrive by mail, and some of the ballots may come a long distance.

It was Gen. Sherman who said "War is hell," but had he lived till now and followed the "watchful waiting" maneuvers of the Bryan administration in the Mexican trouble, he might have changed it to "War is a joke," judging by present history—except in Colorado, when he could have left it as it was before, and charge same to account of Rockefeller.

A count of noses in the nearly defunct pop party shows some 237 of the remnant of the gang scattered here and there over the state. And yet they met at Lincoln the other day and resolved to die in the last ditch. Let's see. Can anyone name one populist left in Sherman county?

It is said one effect of the democratic tariff has been to have our American flags made in England. That's a good democratic idea.
