Scott Liked Work-Pressure.
Scott, who was poet, novelist, lawyer, too, would have been greatest of all as journalist. Listen to this from his Journal for February 15, 1926: "Yesterday I did not write a line of 'Woodstock.' Partly, I was a little out of spirits. . . Partly, I wanted to wait for some new ideas. . . Partly, I was a little too far beyond the press. I cannot pull well in long traces, when the draught is too far behind me. I love to have the press thumping, clattering and banging in my rear; it creates the necessity which almost makes me work best. Needs must when the devil drives. . . There is the very spirit of journalism; and that devil, surely, is the printer's devil!"

Uncle Tom's Cabin Comments

Some little time since, an Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. played in the opera house here and the thing was so bum that the Northwestern was too pen paralyzed over it to grasp the situation. The same company visited Clay Center, this state, last week and the Sun emerged from pen paralysis sufficient to say of the Terry outfit: "They cut out one death scene that used to be good for a few tears; they had a fat Ophelia; Uncle Tom couldn't sing 'There's a Land of Spirits Bright,' and the most heinous offense of all, they didn't give us that grand old $10,000 transformation scene, whereas we used to see the gates of paradise swing open and in the melting glow of two bits worth of red fire see little Eva do her aerial stunt. A Tom show with these omissions is akin to a Hamlet presentation, without the melancholy Dane." And the Sun spoke not of the lack of fierce bloodhounds, only one poor lustreless old dog being on the job and he forgot to show himself in the parade or in the chase of the wabbling Eliza, who "fled" across the stage from wing to wing in her perilous journey over the "ice", while the fight between Haley, Lawyer Marks and the poor hound on the one side, and the Quaker and Harris on the other, from opposite sides of the stage, with lack of rocky, mountainous stage settings, was too utterly painful to witness. The Sun also forgot to mention that the "sun-kissed, bright-haired" little Eva wore an abundance of "raven-colored cap covering" and that Topsy was so poor in action and in dialect that it gave the audience severe pain. The Sun forgot to mention, also, that Lagree thought he was playing to an audience in some distant town and nearly split the ear-drums of those present with his Krupp gun lines. And while the Sun was about it, it might have noticed that Haley and Lagree character doubling was too much for the actor who seemed to think he was playing both characters at one time, but the paper is forgiven for its sins of omission, when it says: "There was not an actor in the whole combination, and, to one familiar with U. T. C. companies, this was just as it should be, for one only goes to see Uncle Tom nowadays in order to have childhood recollections revived."

Reed-Crockett

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride when Hattie L. Reed and Eli Crockett were united in marriage Rev. Warren of the Methodist Episcopal church officiating.
Only the immediate relatives and a few others were present at the marriage which occurred just as the six o'clock bells were chiming. Following the ceremony at the house the wedding party went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ainslie Davis where dinner was served and the evening spent in social converse.
Both parties are well and favorably known here and need little introduction. During the two years Mrs. Crockett has resided here she has created a wide acquaintance as proprietor of the Electric theatre and every man, woman and child knows and admires her for her kind and courteous manner. Mr. Crockett has been a resident of Greeley for many years, and practically all his life has been spent here with the exception of the time he was in the lumber business at Belfast and merchandising at Horace.
Mrs. Crockett states that she will continue in active management of the Electric while Mr. Crockett, at least for the present, will oversee the work of the dray line. Later he may enter into another line of business, but as yet has not fully decided.
This paper feels confident the heartiest, best wishes of all is extended to them—Greeley Lender Independent, Dec. 10.

Clever Deception.
Men who craned their necks and bustled against each other to get a look at the girl on exhibition in one of the store windows were given the laugh by women in the crowd. The fluttering of the girl's parasol, and the blowing of her dress convinced the men that they were looking at a "living model," and it was not until they had gazed at it for some time that they discovered they had been fooled. By arrangements of fans the breeze gently blew the gown worn by the wax figure, and also her parasol. Her hair was blown about her face in a most bewitching fashion and more than one man exclaimed, "Isn't she a peach!" and discovered his error when the women in the crowd snickered.—Worcester Post.

Barney Oldfield Breaks World's Non-Stop Road Race Record in a Maxwell

IN ALL MY EXPERIENCE IN THE RACING GAME, NEVER HAVE I HAD AS SATISFACTORY A MOUNT AS THE MAXWELL NUMBER "14" WHICH I DROVE IN THE CORONA ROAD RACE THANKSGIVING DAY WITH PRACTICALLY NO PREPARATION IN A CAR WITH WHICH I WAS ABSOLUTELY UNFAMILIAR. I WENT THE ENTIRE 301 MILES WITHOUT A SINGLE STOP, THEREBY ESTABLISHING A NEW WORLD'S NON STOP ROAD RACE RECORD AND FINISHING IN SECOND PLACE. THE MAXWELL CAR BEHAVED IN PERFECT SHAPE, RAN COOL AND SMOOTH THROUGH THE ENTIRE RACE AND HAD PLENTY OF SPEED FOR ANY RACE. I HAD IT DOPED THAT 85 MILES PER HOUR, WOULD WIN THE RACE; THAT WAS THE REASON I AVERAGED ONLY 85-MILES, CAR I DROVE WAS THE MOST CONSISTENT PERFORMER IN THE RACE. TIRES SHOWED PRACTICALLY NO WEAR.
